The Duluth Boy

He's the boy we are after. We love the Duluth boy, not only because he belongs to our city, and is our boy, but because he deserves to be loved.

This is what a man who has been in a great many cities, and is a close observer of boys, said about the Duluth boy:

"There are more bright, active, business-like, good looking boys in Duluth than any city I visit."

Now we don't want the boys to get vain over such praise as this, but to keep right on being brighter, better smarter than ever and to still remember our Boys' Clothing is just in keeping with such boys, the kind to dress them in to give them the respectability of appearance. It is neat, enduring, genteel and sold at such prices that all Boys can afford to wear it. But who shall we praise for all these bright boys? The Mothers, SURELY, and we do not hesitate to say the Mothers will still see that the standard of behavior and dressing is still kept up. We invite Mothers who have not tried our garments for their boys to see our line of

SCARED BY BOMBS.

Two More Attempts to Blow up Government Buildings in Venezuela by Dynamite.

Palacio's Soldiers Were Very Much Frightened But no One Was Seriously Injured.

Gen. Crespo's Forces Are Constantly Increasing and He is Drawing Near Caracas.

NEW YORK, May 13.—A special to the Herald from Caracas, Venezuela, says two more attempts were made yesterday to blow up government buildings with dynamite bombs. The federal palace was one of the buildings which the revolutionists sought to wreck, and although the bomb was exploded alongside the building no damage was done.

The news of the attempt spread rapidly and added to the intense excitement. While the whole city was in a state of terror over the discovery the other bomb was fired. The scene was the military headquarters and it was a most daring attempt.

All the panes of glass in the building were shattered and a large number of soldiers who were in the building at the time were very much frightened. One, however, was killed or seriously injured. The commission sent out by the government to the insurgent chief has returned to Caracas. It reports that it has utterly failed in its mission. Gen. Crespo bluntly and emphatically declined to treat for peace unless Palacio released the judges whom he has imprisoned, recalled the congress and ordered the elections to take place immediately.

Crespo's forces, according to latest accounts, are daily growing in strength. It is stated that the rebels are drawing nearer Caracas. Palacio has made an abject apology to the Spanish government on the passport question, but it is not satisfactory to the Spanish minister. A Spanish ship is at La Guayra and the commander is enroute to the capital to formally demand in person reparations for the alleged insult to his government. Ex-President Rojas Paul has at length come out openly in favor of the rebellion. Palacio has just announced that he is gaining adherents in the western states and that the revolution is practically at an end in that part of the republic. He also claims that coffee is being gradually moved from the interior and business is being gradually resumed.

THE WYOMING RUSTLERS.

Supposed to Have Killed Two Deputy Marshals.

BUFFALO, Wyo., May 13.—It is generally believed that Robert L. Gibson and Lieut. Craig, United States deputy marshals, have been killed by the rustlers. Both went out to serve injunctions upon the rustlers to prevent illegal round-ups and have been back in Buffalo since.

It was reported here last night that the ranch of Maj. James, six miles from Blair's ranch on the Powder river, and fifty miles from here, has been sacked by rustlers and from this it is inferred that Blair's ranch, with 100 head of cattle on it, has also been sacked. Intelligence from Blair's ranch is anxiously awaited, for it is feared that the rustlers left to defend it may have been killed.

INGALLS FOR CHAIRMAN.

He Will Have the Backing of Kansas Republicans.

TOPEKA, Kan., May 13.—The Republicans of Kansas will press ex-Senator Ingalls for chairman of the national convention. There are rumors current that the senator expects to represent the United States in one of the foreign countries if the Republican party wins in November and that his proposed trip to Europe in June is for the purpose of getting more familiar with foreign affairs.

This allies with his statements recently made that he is not now a candidate for any office in the gift of the party in Kansas, but that he expects to wait and contest with Senator Peffer for the senate when his term expires.

GIRLS FIGHT VICIOUSLY.

One on Her Death Bed and Several Are In Jail.

ANNISTON, Ala., May 13.—The cotton mill of the Anniston Manufacturing company was the scene of a rough-and-tumble fight yesterday in which girls were the fighters. One girl named Robbie Brown, is on her death bed and some others are seriously injured. Jessie Pearce and half a dozen others were arrested. There were two factions among the employees, Pearce and Brown being the leaders.

Assessors Indicted.

COHOKES, N. Y., May 13.—Assessors Hambrook and Greeley were arraigned in the court of over and terminer yesterday afternoon before Justice Edwards. The grand jury presented nineteen indictments against them for bribery. The men were admitted to bail in the sum of $15,000 each. Walker, the third assessor, was too ill to appear in court. He is dying of consumption.

Mangled in a Mill.

ASHLAND, Wis., May 13.—O. C. Dahl was terribly mangled in an iron River sawmill Wednesday night and died here yesterday. Both legs and arms and several ribs were broken. He leaves a family at Colfax, Wis.

Three Miners Killed.

OROVILLE, Cal., May 13.—Jack Powers, Jr., and J. C. and L. F. Hall were buried in a cavern in the old tunnel mine at Cherokee, twelve miles from here, yesterday and instantly killed. The falls are natives of Montana.

Struck by a Train.

BOUND BROOK, N. J., May 13.—Mrs. Nevins Merrill, the leading stockholder in the Merrill Manufacturing company of Bloomington, N. J., while crossing the track of the Lehigh Valley & Central railroad yesterday, was struck by a Blue Line express train and terribly injured. Her recovery is very doubtful.

Charged With Adultery.

PINK CITY, Ind., May 13.—Charges of adultery between John O'Neill and Mrs. McElroy, of Sandstone, have been made. They had a daughter, named Gunn, who bound them over to the district court. Startling and sensational evinced has been given.

A SECRET MARRIAGE OUT.

New York Social Circles Stirred by a Little Announcement.

NEW YORK, May 13.—A marriage notice printed in this morning's papers announces that Heyward Hall McAllister and Miss Janie Champion Carmany, of Savannah, Ga., were married in this city on August 22, 1887. Heyward Hall McAllister is the younger son of Ward McAllister and Mrs. McAllister is the daughter of the late Geo. W. Garmany, a prominent lawyer of Savannah, who died in the spring of 1886, having no suspicion that his daughter Janie was married.

The secret has been kept absolutely. The young people became engaged in the autumn of 1886, and this fact was known in the families. Ward McAllister was the opposite of W. Garmany, thought the young man ought not to enter into such a condition of life until he should have so established himself in a profession as to be able to properly support a wife. The reason now given by the husband and wife for marrying was that they were of the same race, and other beyond force of separating accident, and the reason for keeping such a secret was the opposition of W. Garmany to the match. Mr. McAllister is said to be very much surprised and displeased at the news.

FOUR FATALITY SHOT.

Result of a Row After a Kentucky Baseball Game.

OWENSBORO, Ky., May 13.—A fatal shooting affray occurred on the steamer J. C. Kerr at Calhoun on the Green river Saturday night. The Calhoun baseball club played a game with a raftsmen's nine during the afternoon, and this game all got drunk and commenced to fight on the boat.

Each man had a revolver and began to shoot, and when the officers succeeded in stopping the row it was found that a barber from this city, a fruit tree salesman from Evansville, the last two named being passengers on board the boat, and George Irwin of Calhoun, one of the brawlers, had been shot and mortally wounded.

A VERY SILLY WOMAN.

Mrs. Hetherington, of the Yokohama Scandal, Has Returned.

ST. PAUL, May 13.—Edward P. Griffin, who at the age of 15 ran away from his home in Winona, Minn., and went to sea, has returned for a visit. A passenger on the same steamer, the Belgian, by which Mr. Griffin came from Hong Kong to St. Paul, said that he had seen her at length. Her husband recently shot and killed Governor Robinson at Yokohama. Mrs. Hetherington was married to an assumed name, that of Mrs. Whitman.

Mr. Griffin says Robinson left her all the money he had, $100,000. Mrs. Hetherington, he says, made herself especially disagreeable to the European by insisting upon appearing in public and attempting to enter good society.

THEY MAY NOT FIGHT.

No Certainty of Fitzsimmons' and Pritchard Fighting.

NEW YORK, May 13.—It was learned last night that Bob Fitzsimmons was not expected to fight at the Olympic club, of New Orleans, on the night of Sept. 5. Jimmy Carroll, Fitzsimmons' manager, made a statement which, if put into execution, would completely upset the plans of the pugilist Carroll says there is no assurance that Pritchard will come over, and in the meantime he has an offer of contract for a fight with one of the fighters who would give him. He has not yet signed the agreement.

HEAVY DAMAGE BY WIND.

A New County in Oklahoma Visited by a Terrific Storm.

GUTHRIE, Okla., May 13.—A terrific wind storm visited the new county in the western part of the territory yesterday. The tents and small buildings in the town of Arapahoe were all demolished. The temporary court house was wrecked, and the papers and records scattered all over the country. The tent in which the newspaper was published was carried entirely away and the office wrecked. Near the town of Frisco five houses were totally destroyed. Several persons were badly injured.

THE INVADERS DEFEATED.

The Garza Revolution Has Broken Out Again.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 13.—A dispatch was received here yesterday from Gen. Garza, commander of the Mexican forces in Northern Mexico, to the effect that a detachment of cavalry Wednesday morning met and had an engagement with a higher army of Garza's revolutionists at a place called La Mesa.

After a hard fought battle the government troops won a victory over the invaders, killing ten of them. One soldier was killed. The insurgents, the dispatch says, are being hotly pursued. This news would indicate that the Garza revolution has broken out afresh.

HIS ACTIONS APPROVED.

Another Letter on Archbishop Ireland's Plan.

ROME, May 13.—The letter of the Propaganda Fide addressed to the American bishops in regard to the development of Archbishop Ireland's plan in regard to parochial schools, maintains the decrees of the council of Baltimore and approves the actions of Archbishop Ireland. The letter states that the Propaganda Fide regret the attacks that have been made upon the archbishop, and forbids any further adverse discussion.

A MAYOR'S SUICIDE.

Unrequited Love the Cause of His Rash Act.

BRISTOL, Tenn., May 13.—The dead body of C. C. Bradley, mayor of Point Rock, N. C., was found lying on a mountain side near that city this morning. A bullet hole in the right temple and a revolver clasp in his right hand told the story of suicide.

Charged With Adultery.

PINK CITY, Ind., May 13.—Charges of adultery between John O'Neill and Mrs. McElroy, of Sandstone, have been made. They had a daughter, named Gunn, who bound them over to the district court. Startling and sensational evinced has been given.

A HORRIBLE CRIME.

A Small Town in Iowa Was the Scene of a Double Tragedy Yesterday.

William Coon Found His Wife Murdered With a Bullet Wound in Her Head.

Suspicion Has Fallen on Coon's Nephew Who May Be Lynched When Captured.

CRESTON, Ia., May 13.—A most horrible crime was disclosed near Prescott yesterday. Returning home in the afternoon from Brooks, Wm. Coon found his wife tied to her bed with a bullet wound in her head. Lying on the bed was her little daughter, also murdered. Mrs. Coon had probably been assaulted and murdered.

Coon suspected his nephew, a boy named Joseph Dooley, aged 19, who had been in his employ and who had just been shipped. There is no possibility of his escape and a lynching is probable.

A MURDERER HANGED.

Elijah Cheevers, Who Shot an Officer, Executed Today.

WAY CROSS, Ga., May 13.—Elijah Cheevers was hanged here today. He kept up his courage to the last and walked to the gallows without aid. Cheevers was suspected of robbing the commissary of W. P. Lee, near Fort Mudge, Ga., in November, 1890. Deputy Sheriff Culpepper attempted to arrest him and was shot and killed by Cheevers while reading the warrant of arrest. Cheevers escaped and was not recaptured until several months later. So great was the indignation against Cheevers that the sheriff had to be lynched. The first attempt was made to lynch him on the night of the day upon which he had been arrested. He was captured by a posse of Culpepper's friends surrounded the jail, overpowered the sheriff, broke the door and took a man they had captured. After they reached the town they took out the wrong man. Cheevers had been badly wounded, however, by a stray bullet which had been fired into the jail. The second attempt was made when Cheevers was brought back to the town and he was kept for his second trial. The third attempt was made when he was taken out of the jail and shot by a mob from the people, and for a week the town was in a state of siege.

RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.

An Increase of Over $1,100,000 Made by the Senate Committee.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—At the opening of the senate today, the river and harbor bill was reported back by Mr. Frye, chairman of the committee on commerce, accompanied by a report explaining every item in the bill. Mr. Frye said he should call for action on Tuesday. The report was ordered to be printed. The gross amount made by the senate committee was about $1,123,143. The decrease amounted to $85,000, leaving the net increase $1,123,143. The total of the senate bill is $2,770,118.

Forty-Three Perished.

ROSLYN, Wash., May 13.—At 11:30 o'clock last night the remaining bodies were taken from the slope, making a total of 43 perished men. The explosion on Tuesday, a number of the dead were buried yesterday, and the remaining bodies were taken today and tomorrow.

An Editor Dead.

BOSTON, Mass., May 13.—Col. Henry G. Parker, editor of the Saturday Evening Post, died at 11 o'clock this morning of pneumonia.

HALF A CENT ADVANCE.

The Wheat Market Was Very Dull Yesterday and Featureless Today.

The wheat market here today was dull, slow and featureless. Early cables were steady, and reports of snow and rain in the West and on the Pacific coast, with low temperature prevailing throughout the wheat country, caused a strong opening and the first sales of July were at 3/4c above yesterday's close. There was little or no demand and the session was very quiet. Prices remained steady and the close was dull at 3/4c. Following were the closing prices: Hard—No. 1, 85 1/2c; No. 2, 85c; No. 3, 84 1/2c; No. 4, 84c; No. 5, 83 1/2c; No. 6, 83c; No. 7, 82 1/2c; No. 8, 82c; No. 9, 81 1/2c; No. 10, 81c; No. 11, 80 1/2c; No. 12, 80c; No. 13, 79 1/2c; No. 14, 79c; No. 15, 78 1/2c; No. 16, 78c; No. 17, 77 1/2c; No. 18, 77c; No. 19, 76 1/2c; No. 20, 76c; No. 21, 75 1/2c; No. 22, 75c; No. 23, 74 1/2c; No. 24, 74c; No. 25, 73 1/2c; No. 26, 73c; No. 27, 72 1/2c; No. 28, 72c; No. 29, 71 1/2c; No. 30, 71c; No. 31, 70 1/2c; No. 32, 70c; No. 33, 69 1/2c; No. 34, 69c; No. 35, 68 1/2c; No. 36, 68c; No. 37, 67 1/2c; No. 38, 67c; No. 39, 66 1/2c; No. 40, 66c; No. 41, 65 1/2c; No. 42, 65c; No. 43, 64 1/2c; No. 44, 64c; No. 45, 63 1/2c; No. 46, 63c; No. 47, 62 1/2c; No. 48, 62c; No. 49, 61 1/2c; No. 50, 61c; No. 51, 60 1/2c; No. 52, 60c; No. 53, 59 1/2c; No. 54, 59c; No. 55, 58 1/2c; No. 56, 58c; No. 57, 57 1/2c; No. 58, 57c; No. 59, 56 1/2c; No. 60, 56c; No. 61, 55 1/2c; No. 62, 55c; No. 63, 54 1/2c; No. 64, 54c; No. 65, 53 1/2c; No. 66, 53c; No. 67, 52 1/2c; No. 68, 52c; No. 69, 51 1/2c; No. 70, 51c; No. 71, 50 1/2c; No. 72, 50c; No. 73, 49 1/2c; No. 74, 49c; No. 75, 48 1/2c; No. 76, 48c; No. 77, 47 1/2c; No. 78, 47c; No. 79, 46 1/2c; No. 80, 46c; No. 81, 45 1/2c; No. 82, 45c; No. 83, 44 1/2c; No. 84, 44c; No. 85, 43 1/2c; No. 86, 43c; No. 87, 42 1/2c; No. 88, 42c; No. 89, 41 1/2c; No. 90, 41c; No. 91, 40 1/2c; No. 92, 40c; No. 93, 39 1/2c; No. 94, 39c; No. 95, 38 1/2c; No. 96, 38c; No. 97, 37 1/2c; No. 98, 37c; No. 99, 36 1/2c; No. 100, 36c.

May 13.—The storm which was over the west yesterday has moved slightly east and is now over Missouri. It will move slowly northward today and bring rain to this section.

Rain is falling over the Mississippi valley and extends as far north as South Dakota. The hardest fall was over Missouri, where nearly two inches have fallen during the past twenty-four hours and will continue.

Night changes in temperature have taken place over the entire North-west, where has fallen to 37° at Duluth.

The highest temperature yesterday was 47°.

lowest last night, 32°.

THE RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.

The report that Senator Hill intends to make a long speech in the senate in opposition to the river and harbor bill is probably correct. The New York Sun

has for several weeks past been lauding

the cheese-paring policy of Mr. Holman

and denouncing as "traitors" to the party

those Democratic congressmen who have refused to aid the Indiana man in his attempt to prevent appropriations for important internal developments. Editor

Dana has insisted in the Sun that the Democratic majority in the house was elected upon a platform pledged to economy and that it is its duty to aid

Mr. Holman in attaining that object.

The fact is that the appropriations by the present congress will exceed

those made by the "million dollar

congress," a fact which will destroy the effect of the Democratic charges against the last Republican congress of gross extravagance. Senator Hill's most conspicuous newspaper supporter is Mr.

Dana and he naturally will assume the same position. The statement that he has declared that the Democratic party

can make a better campaign upon the issue of economy in public expenditures

than upon all the other issues combined,

not excepting that of silver coinage, may

therefore be accepted as correct.

The agreement of England to participate in the bimetallic conference has,

indeed, practically removed the silver question as an issue this year.

There is no doubt, however, that despite Mr. Hill's opposition the river and harbor bill will be passed by the senate.

The river and harbor committee of the senate has agreed to raise the appropriation for Duluth harbor to $15,000, of which $15,000 is to be expended up to the river, and this will probably be agreed to

by the senate. There is a good chance that the increase may also be agreed to

by the conference committee of the house. A large portion of the credit for this result will be due to Secretary

Thompson and Capt. Miller who have been working hard in the interests of the measure. In fact, Washington correspondents have stated that to Mr.

Thompson belongs the credit of being mainly instrumental in retaining the appropriation for the deep waterway

from Duluth to Buffalo.

This was so

because the bill was originally introduced

by Mr. Thompson

and he has been working for it ever since. He has been very successful in his efforts and it is now probable

that the bill will be passed by the senate and the house. The bill will be a great

WITH A WEARY HEAD.

A Providence Woman's Past

Experience.

Mrs. Simpson Tried All Sorts of Things for Sleeplessness.

A Boston Drummer Who Used to Walk the Floor All Night.

Have you insomnia? Ask a writer in the Journal.

Everybody has it nowadays; it is more fashionable than nervous prostration.

Some doctors claim that it is a symptom, while others assert that it is a diseased distinct and separate.

Whatever else it is, it is the curse of the nineteenth century, and if you are anxious to get it, night grows to be a synonym for purgatory for you.

Sympathetic friends suggest remedies,

as in the case of Mrs. Simpson, of 44 Pekin street, Providence, whose experience has recently been published in the press of that city. She states:

"For a long time I was troubled with nervous headache and sleeplessness. I suppose I suffered as much as any woman ever did. I tried nearly everything that was recommended for relief, but they were all useless. Now, however, I eat well, sleep well and feel well, and wholly

through the use of that great discovery,

Paine's celery compound.

Mrs. Simpson suffered with one of the many forms of sleeplessness. Paine's celery compound gave her restful and strengthening sleep, as it will all who use it.

The strange case of E. L. Libby, traveling salesman for A. G. Moore &amp; Co., of Court street, Boston, has caused a great deal of talk among merchants and commercial travelers. Nearly a year ago he was taken with malaria and grew worse

until in December he was confined to the house. Mr. Libby says:

"I tried several different doctors, but to no avail. I was so nervous that I could not sleep, and had to walk the floor to keep from going insane. My heart was in bad shape and I was a perfect wreck.

"Now I sleep well nights, have a good appetite, and my heart is all right. This wonderful change is due solely to my use of Paine's celery compound, and I write

these words hoping they will be of benefit to others who are sleepless or suffering from heart trouble, malaria or nervous disease. I have not had an attack of malaria since I commenced using the compound and am now working every day.

Most people already know that Paine's celery compound is no ordinary nerve-sapping or bitter. It is the discovery of Professor Phelps of Dartmouth, and is a scientific discovery that is within the reach of all. It possesses curative and strengthening qualities of almost unparalleled power, imparting energy and vigor

to the tired and languid, banishing aches

and pains and giving peaceful sleep to the insomniac.

A CREAMERY EXCURSION

The Creamerymen of the Northwest to Take a Midsummer Excursion to Duluth in July.

Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois and All Northwestern States Will Be Represented.

Several Hundred Excursionists Will Arrive and Remain From Tuesday to Friday.

During the month of July Duluth will be visited by an excursion of the creamery men of the Northwest. The exact date has not been determined. The Creamery Journal, of Waterloo, Ia., has been agitating the idea among the creamery men of Iowa, Kansas, Illinois and other states, and everywhere the opinion is unanimous that Duluth is the place to go. This midsummer excursion was planned last year but not definitely determined upon, but there is now no doubt that it will come.

It is proposed to start the excursion from Cedar Rapids on a Monday some time during the month of July, on one of the special trains which will take the party to Duluth. Tuesday, where they will view the magic city of Duluth and other points of interest. The time will be pleasantly spent during their stay, on boat excursions, drives, and other amusements, until Friday, when the train will return to St. Paul. The idea of coming to Duluth seems to be taking wonderfully. The traveling men are agitating it all over the country. One of Chicago's creamery men says: "If I were to cooperate in the organization of a midsummer trip to any place, Duluth would certainly be my first choice." The Creamery Journal says:

"It is proposed to make the creamerymen's midsummer excursion to Duluth one entirely for pleasure and recreation. The hum-drum life about a creamery, the unremitting toil of mind and body of the creameryman is so well known that the idea of getting away for a week's jaunt in a new and interesting country seems to catch everybody as just the correct thing. Some men say that the creameryman cannot spare the time. We believe they can. After things get to running along in a groove, it is usually done in July, almost every thorough business man can find time for the trip."

The exact date of the excursion will be announced in the near future and several hundred persons will come. Duluth will give them a proper reception and their visit will be made as pleasant and profitable as possible.

AMUSEMENTS.

James Whitcomb Riley. The Lyceum was well filled especially in the balconies and gallery when James Whitcomb Riley came on the stage last evening and he was greeted with a round of applause. Riley is the poet of nature and of the people. He finds his subjects in the life of the common people and there are none so lovely or so poignant, but he finds some ennobling trait and brings out it sometimes homely dialect and again in the most beautiful of language. There are but few poets who are able to recite their own verse to the public and Riley is probably the most notable instance. His dramatic ability and expression are unlimited and his subjects are good in the humorous or the pathetic. "Goodbye, Jim" was the most touching of his selections and moistened many eyes. "The Old Sweetheart of Mine" was a humorous and a very beautiful other beautiful selections. In the line of the humorous "The Object Lesson" was probably the most telling and was given in an inimitable manner. "The Boy and the Bears" was another funny sketch, being an imaginary story told by a boy of 7 years. All of Mr. Riley's numbers were enjoyed and the audience seemed to be almost silent.

The singing of the Sappho quartet was remarkably fine. The four ladies sang a number of songs with good accompaniment, and every song was enjoyed. Their voices blend beautifully, being in no number was their pure quality, the tone better shown than in "Twilight Bells." This evening Mr. Riley and the quartet will be heard again.

Two Charming Prineals. The Duluth Press company which comes to the Temple Saturday night will be a successful engagement in Minneapolis this week. Of the leading ladies, Misses Bertram, Crawford and "A Trip to Africa" the journal says:

Miss Bertram appeared to even better advantage than she did in "Twilight Bells." She sang with exceptional brilliancy. Miss Crawford was fairly captivating, with her expressive little "mooes" and her French coquette. Her expressive and pretty mouth, her feeling and her pretty figure full of grace and artlessness expressed everything she voice does the ear.

The Sappho Ladies' quartet is the only ladies' quartet in America and they are the only singers, from Minneapolis, who have been invited to sing at the National Republican convention.

THE HOOSIER POET.

James Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier poet, is one of the queerest combinations of modesty and supersensitiveness who ever stood before an American audience. A small or unappreciative audience always acts upon his nerves in a way that it positively painful. He grows morose under such circumstances and moods and refuses to be comforted, says the Chicago Mail. A few days ago he gave an entertainment at the little town of Massillon, O. Through the local management of those who had the event charge it was not advertised, and as the result the poet was greeted by a handful of people. Riley was at a loss to account for this condition of affairs, and immediately jumped to the conclusion that he alone was responsible for the failure. The thought had such a depressing effect upon his spirit that he could not appear at his best, and the applause was noticeably by his absence.

The next evening the entertainment was repeated at Canton, O., before a large and enthusiastic audience, too, and the poet during the day was a guest of one of the local families of the town. The experience of the poet, and it was impossible to make him forget it for an instant. It was even better eyes, like Banquo's ghost, and no topic of conversation interested him even for a moment. Whenever possible the Hoosier would withdraw into some obscure nook about the house and nurse his great sorrow in secret. Occasionally he would slip out of the house and pace up and down the terrace, talking to himself until his host or hostess would capture him and lead him back to the parlor. Upon one occasion the hostess, a woman who claims to be a woman of distinction in literary as well as social circles, in a last desperate attempt to distract Riley's mind from his morose thoughts, brought out a copy of the Christian Union and remarked, pointing to an article which had been met by her, that the Hoosier poet, Riley, is here in the city tonight to attract widespread attention. "Don't you think so?" she asked. "The Second Coming of Christ," by the Rev. Lyman Abbott. I'm sure such a work must prove interesting—don't you think so?"

The poet stood like a statue for a moment. Gazing out over the Tuscarawas bottoms he slowly said like a talking in a trance: "The Second Coming of Christ"—the second coming—of Christ, the second coming of a house—here in Massillon.

The astonished hostess fled in dismay, leaving in the perplexed Hoosier standing in the middle of the floor, apparently oblivious of his surroundings.

A CREAMERY EXCURSION

The Creamerymen of the Northwest to Take a Midsummer Excursion to Duluth in July.

Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois and All Northwestern States Will Be Represented.

Several Hundred Excursionists Will Arrive and Remain From Tuesday to Friday.

During the month of July Duluth will be visited by an excursion of the creamery men of the Northwest. The exact date has not been determined upon. The Creamery Journal of Waterloo, Ia., has been agitating the idea among the creamery men of Iowa, Kansas, Illinois and other states, and everywhere the opinion is unanimous that Duluth is the place to go. This midsummer excursion was planned last year but not definitely determined upon, but there is now no doubt but that it will come to Duluth.

It is proposed to start the excursion from Cedar Rapids on a Monday morning during the first week of July, on the Great Northern line. From St. Paul a special train will take the party to Duluth, Tuesday, where they will view the magic of Duluth and other places of interest. The time will be pleasantly spent during their stay, on boat excursions, drives, and other amusements, until Friday, when the train will return to St. Paul. The idea of coming to Duluth seems to be taking wonderfully. The traveling men are agitating it all over the country. One of Chicago's creamery men says: "I am going to cooperate in the organization of a midsummer trip to any place, Duluth would certainly be my first choice." The Creamery Journal of Waterloo, Ia., says: "It is proposed to make the creamerymen's midsummer excursion to Duluth entirely for pleasure and recreation. The hum-drum life of a creameryman, the unexciting life of mind and body of the creameryman, is so well known that the idea of getting away for a week's jaunt in a new and interesting country seems to catch everyone as just the correct thing. Some may say that the creameryman cannot spare the time. We believe they can. After things get running along smoothly, they usually do in July, almost every thorough business man can find time for the trip. The exact date for the excursion will be announced in the near future and several hundred persons will come. Duluth will give them a proper reception and their visit will be made as pleasant and profitable as possible.

AMUSEMENTS.

James Whitcomb Riley. The Lyceum was well filled especially in the balconies and gallery when James Whitcomb Riley came on the stage last evening and he was greeted with a round of applause. Riley is the poet of nature and of the people. His subjects in the commonest people and there are none so lowly or queer as his. But he finds some nobility in them and brings to them sometimes homely dialect and again in his beautiful language. There are few poets who have been so successful in reciting their own verse to the public and audience. His dramatic ability and his equality good in the humorous or the pathetic. "Good Boy" was given the most touching of his sections. "The Old Secretary of Mine" and "Out to Old Aunt Mary's" were other beautiful sections. In the line of the humorous "The Season" was probably the most taking and was given in an inimitable manner. "The Boy and the Bears" was another funny sketch being an imaginary story told by a boy of 7 years. All of Mr. Riley's numbers were so good and the audience seemed to be almost silent.

The singing of the Sappho quartet was remarkably fine. The four ladies sang a number of selections with perfect accompaniment, and every one was enraptured. Their voices blend beautifully and in no number of songs could the tone better shown than in "Twilight Bells." This evening Mr. Riley and the quartet will be heard again.

Two Charming Principals. The Duff Opera company comes to the Temple Saturday is enjoying a successful engagement in Minneapolis this week. Of the leading ladies, Misses Bertram and Girard in "A Trip to Nowhere" appeared to even better advantage than she did in "The Queen's Mate." She sang with exceptional brilliancy. Miss Girard was fairly captivating with her little "moues" and her French coquette. Her expressive and pretty mobile features reflect every emotion of her heart and her pretty figure full of grace and artlessness expresses everything else and charms the eye as much as her voice does the ear.

The Sappho Ladies' quartet is the only ladies' quartet in America and they are the only singers, from Minneapolis, who have been invited to sing at the National Republican convention.

THE HOOSIER POET.

James Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier poet, is one of the queerest combinations of modesty and superlativeness who ever stood before an American audience. A small or unappreciative audience always acts upon his nerves in a way that is positively painful. He grows morose under such circumstances and mounds and refuses to be comforted, says the Chicago Mail. A few days ago he gave an entertainment at the little town of Massillon, O. Through the local mismanagement of those who had the event, the poet was not advertised, and as the result the poet was greeted by a handful of people. Riley was at a loss, and immediately jumped to the conclusion that he alone was responsible for the failure. The thought had such a depressing effect upon his spirits that he could not stand at his best, and the applause was noticeable by its absence.

The next evening the entertainment was repeated at Canton, O., before a large and enthusiastic audience, too, and the poet was again the guest of one of the foremost families of the town. The experience of the preceding night was constantly upon Riley's mind, and it was impossible to make him forget it for an instant. It was ever before him as the ghost of the poet, and no topic of conversation interested him even for a moment. Whenever possible the Hoosier would withdraw into some obscure nook about the house and nurse his great sorrow in secret. Occasionally he would slip out of the house and pace up and down the veranda talking to himself until his host or hostess would capture him and lead him back to the parlor. Upon one occasion of this sort the hostess—a most charming woman who lays claim to some distinction in literary as well as social lines—in a last desperate attempt to distract Riley's mind from his moody channels caught up a copy of the Christian Union and remarked, pointing to an article which chanced to meet her eye: "Ah, by the way, Mr. poet, here is an announcement of a forthcoming book which ought to attract widespread attention—don't you think so?" See—"The Second Coming of Christ"—by the Rev. Lyman Abbott. I'm sure such a work would prove interesting—don't you think so?"

The poet stood like a statue for a moment. Gazing out over the Tuscarawas bottoms he slowly said like a man in a trance: "The Second Coming of Christ—the second coming—of Christ. I wonder what sort of a house—he'll draw in Massillon."

The astonished hostess fled in dismay, leaving the preoccupied Hoosier sitting in the middle of the floor, apparently oblivious of his surroundings.

UNITED STATES COURT

The Circuit Calendar Was Taken Up This Morning before Judge Nelson of the District Court.

Arrested for Burglary.
Neil Barvil was brought down from Towert today by Chief of Police James
Garvey, was to have been delivered an address but was not able to be present.
Two minute reports of the work of the different societies of young people were
given for Christ. I. H. Scott of Chicago,
and F. S. Tompkins, an attorney of St.
Paul, delivered addresses. This morning
Rev. W. W. Dawley, of St. Paul,
spoke on "Our State Work." The committee on resolutions made its report
and the final adjournment was taken.

The Grand Jury is Discharged and Petit Jurors Are Excused Until Monday.

The old case of Aaron Wickstrom against the Tower & Soudan Street railway is on trial in the United States circuit court today. This case was tried about a year ago but the jury disagreed.
Wickstrom was forcibly put off a street car and was injured and wants to recover $13,000, an unlucky amount, but he hopes to get it. David Smith vs. the town of Thomson has been dismissed.
The grand jury was discharged yesterday afternoon and this morning the petit jurors were excused until Monday. Juror George E. Campbell was excused for the term. H. Moer was admitted to practice in both courts.

Filed With the Clerk.
Charles C. Whitney has commenced an action in the district court against L.
P. Whitney and others to have the title to lot 317, Lake avenue, settled on the heirs of Joel Belding Whitney.
The mandate from the supreme court
reversing the decision of the lower court in the case of Charlemagne Tower, Jr., et al., vs. Deborah Taylor et al., was filed today.

Arrested for Burglary.
Neil Barvil was brought down from Towert today by Chief of Police James
Garvey, was to have been delivered an address but was not able to be present.
Two minute reports of the work of the
different societies of young people were
given for Christ. I. H. Scott of Chicago,
and F. S. Tompkins, an attorney of St.
Paul, delivered addresses. This morning
Rev. W. W. Dawley, of St. Paul,
spoke on "Our State Work." The committee on resolutions made its report
and the final adjournment was taken.

Lake Avenue Contract.
Owing to a blunder in the News office,
whereby the official notice did not receive the proper advertising required by law, the board of public works has been compelled to extend the time for receiving bids for the Lake avenue paving contract until Monday, May 23.

Don't forget that Thomas K. Hicks still continues his old meat market at 527 West Superior street, where you can always secure the choicest of beef and poultry at the lowest prices.

James Whitcomb Riley, the Robert Burns of America, at the Lyceum tonight.

Marine News.
The harbor is pretty thoroughly cleared of vessels.
Lumber and wool shipments will be heavy here in about ten days.
Hicks' dredged up the expected back by tomorrow. The tug Record is towing them from the south shore.

James Whitcomb Riley, the greatest living poet of the people, tonight at the Lyceum.

pear with James Whitcomb Riley after tonight at Lyceum theater.

Mothers don't fail to bring your children to hear James Whitcomb Riley tonight.

An Expert Typewriter.
Charles H. McGurran, probably the most famous typewriter and stenographer in the country, will give an exhibition Monday afternoon and evening at Parsons' Business college and the Duluth Business college. He is the court stenographer of the Ninth judicial district, Kalamazoo, Mich. In St. Paul a few days ago he took from dictation 375
words a minute.

Small boys should hear their trust friend, James Whitcomb Riley, at Lyceum theater tonight.

FORTUNATE APPREHENSION.
Trades and Labor Assembly Congratulates the New Fire Warden.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Trades and Labor Assembly last night. The committee on delinquent unions and members reported progress and the financial secretary handed in a report which showed the assembly to be in good financial condition.
All trades excepting the barbers made favorable reports. The committee on tendering and aid to the barbers' union was passed. The corresponding secretary was instructed to communicate with the presidents of all trades unions requesting them elect delegates in place of those members who failed to put in an appearance at both of the last two meetings. Congratulations were tendered to Mr. Applegren on his appointment by the mayor as fire warden of the city of Duluth, after which the assembly adjourned.

James Whitcomb Riley will never appear with the Sappho Ladies' quartet
after tonight at the Lyceum theater.

The Session Closes.
The Eastern Baptist Association Adjourns This Morning.

This morning the final adjournment of the Eastern Baptist association was taken and a number of the delegates and visitors returned to their homes on the afternoon trains. Last evening Rev.
Dr. Moss of Minneapolis, editor of the Ensign, was to have delivered an address but was not able to be present.
Two minute reports of the work of the
different societies of young people were
given for Christ. I. H. Scott of Chicago,
and F. S. Tompkins, an attorney of St.
Paul, delivered addresses. This morning
Rev. W. W. Dawley, of St. Paul,
spoke on "Our State Work." The committee on resolutions made its report
and the final adjournment was taken.

SHOE SALE.

PRICES FOR TOMORROW.

Compare the following prices with any ever offered in Duluth. You will find them at least 20 per cent lower than any CHEAP BOSTON FIRE SHODDY FLASH SHOE SALE
after offer their worthless shoes, made especially to humbug the people. The Minneapolis
"suckers" wouldn't buy their Shady Stuff, and they bring it up to Duluth. It is too worthless for Minneapolis, but of course in their estimation it is "GOOD ENOUGH" for Duluth. Do not be so deceived. Your own home shoe dealers can sell you Honest Shoes for less money than any of these "FLASH TRAMP" SHOE STORES that never expect to sell you shoes than one pair. Their motto is here today away tomorrow.

NOTICE
To Build Sidewalks.

In accordance with a resolution of the common council of the city of Duluth, passed May 19th, 1922, notice is hereby given to all owners and occupants of any and all lots or parcels of land adjoining the south side of London, road between Virginia avenue and the north city avenue, to construct a sidewalk in and across adjoining their several lots at their own expense and before June 4th, 1922, said sidewalk to be constructed in accordance with plans and specifications will be in the office of the board of public works, and to be built to the established line and grade by the city engineer.

If the said owners or occupants fail to construct said sidewalk before June 4th, 1922, or if any such work, or part thereof, is not done in the manner prescribed by said plans and specifications, or if said work is not built to the line and grade prescribed, then the board of public works of the city of Duluth will cause the same to be done, and the full cost and expense thereof, together with ten (10) per cent additional for cost of survey, plans and superintendence, will be assessed against said lots.

Duluth, Minn., May 13th, 1922.

THE COAL BARONS ESCAPE

But an indictment returned against a coal baron, the escape of the coal barons from the hands of the law is a fact which has been noted by the public.

CHICAGO, May 14.—The federal grand jury practically ended its labors yesterday and returned no indictments against anyone connected with the alleged coal and stone trusts.

Several witnesses were examined, but they knew little or nothing concerning the alleged trusts. The grand jury is convinced that any investigation of the Reading combine will have to be begun
at the New York end.

The grand jury, however, has done
some work in another direction, and has voted to indict Abram Fell, of Buffalo, N. Y., the agent of the Wabash & Lackawanna Dispatch, a fast freight line, composed of the Wabash, Grand Trunk and Delaware, Lackawanna & Western roads. The indictment will charge Mr.
Fell with conspiring with agents of Swift & Co., the Chicago packers, to give rebates on oil to the Reading combine, and with conspiring to violate the interstate commerce law. The charge against Fell is said to be very strong.

WHEAT ON THE DECLINE.

Prices on the Duluth Board were lower today.

The wheat market opened easier this morning on reports of the signal service
of better weather throughout the wheat
country in the last twenty-four hours.

First sales were made in July at 1/2c off the market was very steady, slow and dull. There was considerably early trading in track wheat for milling purposes at 1/2c to 3/4c off the higher grades and at unchanged figures on the lower ones. The close was steady but irregular at 1/2c to 3/4c below yesterday.

Following were the closing prices:

HAS GONE TO THE JURY

Testimony in the Wickstrom Personal Injury Case is All in and the Arguments Made.

Only One Divorce Case on the Special Calendar Today and That is Stricken.

Some Motions in the Barker vs. Furke Case—The Jury for the June Term is Drawn.

The personal damage case of Aaron Wickstrom against the Tower & Soudan Street Railway company is still on trial in the United States court today and will go to the jury this afternoon. The testimony is all in. The plaintiff has attempted to prove that he sustained severe personal injuries by being ejected from a street car. He fell on the street and insists that he was damaged to the extent of $1,000. The defense set up the fact that the plaintiff was drunk and refused to pay his fare and became abusive to the conductor. Thereupon he was ejected as quietly as possible under the circumstances. The arguments before the jury began immediately upon the opening of court this afternoon.

Nothing else was done in the United States court today.

THE SPECIAL CALENDAR.

A Few Cases but None of Any Great Importance.

The special calendar in the district court this morning was not a long one. The case of Nellie Hirschberg against her husband Adolph J. Hirschberg for divorce, alleging adultery, was called, but no one appeared either for the prosecution or defense and it was stricken from the calendar. Two motions were made in the case of Hattie M. Backus et al vs. Frank Barker, Jr., et al. The plaintiff asked for a new trial but was denied. The defendant asked that the supreme court judgment be entered and this motion was granted. O. R. Harris vs. William McKinley was stricken and Eliza Hart vs. C. F. Shannon et al was continued. The assignee of Cohen & Gittelson filed his report. Susan Chapman vs. F. F. Harris, Jr. was referred to Scott Rex. The assignment matter of J. S. Anderson & Co. was referred to W. W. Barker. In the case of the State of Minnesota ex rel. George Busch vs. Paul Sharpy, the plaintiff asked for a new trial and this motion was granted. In Neal R. Morrison vs. C. L. Croun, the report of the receiver was allowed.

Second papers were issued to Archibald H. Robertson, Dan Campbell and Andrew Bloomquist.

Filed With the Clerk. Judge Stearns filed papers in George Rock vs. H. E. Long, assignee, and May Vokes. The plaintiff is entitled to the possession of the property in the w/s of lot 4, block 3, Central division.

The motion of the defendants to set aside the verdict in Emma Jorgensen vs. R. P. Edson and Wallace Warner has been denied by Judge Searle. In McNamee vs. Sons vs. Robert Loudon the defendant has filed notice of appeal to the supreme court.

The jury for the June term of the district court was drawn today.

THE MUNICIPAL COURT.

James Malone's Examination for Assault and Threats. Judge Searle examined James Malone for assault and threats. He was found guilty and sentenced to the workhouse for 30 days. In the case of John Mulcahy and Nellis Hill, plain drunks, were assessed the usual amount. Mr. Hill called up, but Mr. Mulcahy was short and went on the hill for ten days. John W. White, a Superior importer, was disorderly in a pawnbroker's store and Detective Hayden brought him before the judge. He was fined $10 and fined $100 for the same offense. Barney Kelley stole six alleged to have stolen a pair of pants and five shirts from a clothing shop in the Lake avenue levee, and he will be tried by the court at 11 o'clock Monday morning.

The examination of J. Malone, charged with assaulting Creta Alperia, was resumed before Judge Powell at 10:30 o'clock and was still in progress at the noon adjournment. There are no new details except that the charge of assault appears to be a weak one and may flatter away into a simple case of formation.

Judge Winie presided over the set of civil cases, the morning session of fourth was an action of R. C. Vincent vs. Hugh Wetmore for unlawful detainer. Mr. Wetmore is the artist who was taken into the Union Workman, and the landlord desired to regain possession of the premises. The jury found for the defendant.

THEY DID GO.

Non-Union Miners Are Shipped From Duluth to Coeur d'Alene.

The telegraphic statements that a number of non-union miners had left Duluth recently to go to the scene of the Idaho strike were denied by both of the non-union papers this morning, but are nevertheless correct. Thursday morning the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road brought a number of coaches into South Superior and left them there and the coaches were occupied by Michigan non-union miners who knew just what was expected of them and what places they were to fill. The Northern Pacific train for the West left the same day with a coach load of miners, or mine laborers picked up in this city, and took the other coaches on at South Superior, and the party will arrive at their destination today. The intention was to ship 350 men on that train, but only about a third of the number were obtained who finally went through. The train was accompanied by special guards.

A Child Injured.

Capt. McDougall's little 5-year-old daughter, Ella, was bitten or scratched by A. M. Miller's big St. Bernard dog yesterday evening. The child had been playing with the dog and when he went into his kennel followed him in. Whether she was bitten or only scratched by his big claws is not known, but a servant heard her screaming and found her coming out of the kennel with her mouth covered with blood. A physician was called and her upper lip was found to be somewhat lacerated, but not seriously. The children in the neighborhood frequently play with the dog and he has never before shown a disposition to hurt one of them.

GEN. ROWLEY FOUND DEAD.

Death of an Officer Well Known in Army Circles.

PITTSBURGH, May 13.—Gen. Thomas A. Rowley was found dead in his bed this morning at his residence, 383 Webster avenue. His death is attributed to heart failure as he was on the streets yesterday in apparently good health. Gen. Rowley was born in 1827; in 1846 he participated in the siege of Vera Cruz and several of the bloody battles ensuing, and was promoted for bravery.

Capt. Rowley entered the war of the rebellion as major of the Thirtieth regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers. His advancement in rank was rapid and after the battle at Gettysburg, in which Gen. Reynolds was killed, Rowley was placed in command of the Third division First army corps, with the rank of general. Since the war Gen. Rowley has not been engaged in any regular line of business. He was widely known in army circles.

THE FLOODS AT ST. LOUIS.

The Situation Has Now Reached an Alarming State.

St. Louis, May 14.—At 4 o'clock this morning the situation here was more alarming than last night's reports indicated. A heavy rain storm came upon about midnight and continues to pour down. The river has risen four feet as it extends as far north as Davenport, Ill. The river, which is steadily rising at the rate of an inch an hour, now measures 32.7 feet.

The Crevasse Closed.

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—The river today is stationary at 16.5 above water mark. Advice from the levee on the coast are to the effect that the crevasse at Moncure and Storeys have been closed. No other breaks have been reported.

The Des Moines Rising.

FORT DODGE, Ia., May 14.—The Des Moines river has suddenly risen four feet and people on the low lands in the valleys have been warned and are preparing for flight. There is reason to fear a disastrous flood.

The Missouri Still Rising.

KANSAS CITY, May 14.—The Missouri river rose seven-tenths of a foot in the last twenty-four hours according to the signal observer and the indications are that there will be a further rise until Monday with no more rain. The indications, however, are for rain and reports from the north are that rain is falling there. The river at Lawrence is still rising and grave fears are expressed for the safety of the big bridge.

Stop Paying Rent and Own Your Own

There is no better, safer investment than real estate, if the location and price is right. There is no better location than Duluth Heights. The incline way is completed and in operation and the rails are now being placed on the ground for an electric street railway running through the property, thus bringing it within a ten or twelve minute ride from Union depot and business center of the city. Everyone can't afford to buy property down town or in the business center. It's too expensive, but lots can be bought and a house built for much less than the cost of a bare lot situated near the same district either east or west from the Union depot. The incline way is gently rolling, insuring good drainage and healthful surroundings. You find property in Duluth accessible, well located, within short distance from the business center, an electric line running through it, and at prices anywhere near as low as we can sell you, $150 to $200 a lot with only one-fourth cash required and balance one, two and three years. For maps, plans and general information, apply to your confidential agent.

THE LITERARY RECORD

Mr. Bigelow's Able Defence of His Old Favourite, the Young Emperor William of Germany.

New Novels by Julian Gordon, Edward Everett Hale, Mrs. L. T. Mead and Other Favorite Authors.

The Magazine and Reviews Contain Many Articles of Great Interest and Marked Ability.

In view of the abusive despatch concerning the German Emperor and Mr. Pauliney Bigelow, called by Edmund Yates from London, Messrs. Charles L. Webster & Co. desire to call special attention to Mr. Bigelow's able defence of his old plavmate, which has been issued in their "Fiction, Fact, and Fancy Series," as "The German Emperor and his Eastern Neighbors." This volume was slightly delayed by the necessity for the immediate appearance of Mr. Whitman's "Selected Poems" in the same series. The editor's preface says: "The hostile criticism evoked by the aggressive deeds and words of the German emperor is the natural result of a sudden change in political conditions. It is long since a young ruler has come to the throne in Europe, ready to think and act for himself, and with undoubted ability to do so. However far behind this century William II. may be in his ideas of the royal prerogative, it cannot be questioned that in other respects he is fully abreast of his contemporaries. More than this—he has adopted a system of applying new methods of treatment to ancient abuses which might well be followed by older and more mechanical statesmen. The world has been so busy picking flaws in his after-dinner speeches, that it has lost sight of the practical results of his short reign. It is safe to declare that these exceed what Bismarck accomplished in the previous ten years. The emperor has aimed high and has invariably hit something—perhaps all he intended to hit. At the same time, in matters requiring diplomacy, he has worked quietly and well. His settlement of the Guelph affair is a striking example of this."

The complete novel in Lippincott's Magazine for May, "The Golden Fleece," is by Julian Hawthorne, who conducts his readers to the Pacific slope and the borders of the desert. It is a curious medley of the modern and the antique, of the weird and the practical, of civilized manners, wild adventures, Aztec hidden treasures and legends or superstitions of long ago. In the "Journalist" Series, W. J. C. Meighan recounts the exploits and trials of the Travelling Correspondent. In the "Athletic" Series, the world-renowned bicyclist, Thomas Stevens, glorifies his favorite pursuit. "The Good Gray Foot," Walt Whitman, is celebrated in a timely essay by William S. Walsh, and in sundry random recollections by William H. Garrison. Floyd Wilson has a paper on "Personal Economics in Our Colleges," and Mr. Moulton on J. M. Barrie, the Scottish novelist, who lately sprang into sudden fame. J. V. Taylor advocates the use of the violin by ladies, and supplies much information on the subject in brief space. Philemon Hensley, in "After Dinner Botany," traces the relationship between certain cillies and other plants not unusually connected in our thoughts. Mrs. Alice Wellington Rollins contributed two pages of miscellaneous reflections. The department "As It Seems" discusses "Conscience in the Types," "Perils of the Pave," "A Quadrantal Woe," and "Littlesim," the latter a new word of Mrs. Atherton's, expressing a trait of many novelists. There are short stories by Emma B. Kaufman and Frederick M. Bird, the latter liberally illustrated. The poetry of the number is by Louise Chandler Moulton, Anne Reeve Aldrich, William H. Hayne, C. W. Coleman and M. F. W.

No review published is so hospitable to new thought, and advanced ideas as the Arena, which closed its fifth volume with the May number. Although now only two-and-a-half years old, its circulation exceeds that of any high-priced review published in this country, with one exception. The Arena gives far more space than any other leading magazine to the discussion of social, economic, ethical, religious and educational problems. Its contributors also represent the flower of advanced thinkers and life reformers. The marked ability of its contributors and its absolute fearlessness explain largely the secret of its success, taking a place at the head of the advanced column of review literature. The Arena contains several features peculiar to it which give it special popularity with all members of the families that receive it; such, for example, as portraits of leading thinkers, brilliant biographical sketches, prose etchings and short stories. These features have given it a popularity possessed by no other high-priced review which has been started within the last seventy-five years.

Evidence of the increasing interest in the works of American authors since the passage of the international copyright act is given by the fact that the entire first edition of F. Marion Crawford's new novel, "The Three Fates," was disposed of by Macmillan & Co. on the day of publication.

A new novel by Julian Gordon (Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruger) is an event in the novel reading world, and the Cassell Publishing Company take pleasure in announcing a story from her gifted pen. "Marionettes" is the striking and original title of this novel, which is the strongest that has yet come from her pen. Like her other stories, its interest is contemporaneous and human. The characters are few but they are well lined, whether they are portraits from the life or not it is not for the reader to say. The story is eminently one of love—love sacrificed to honor. The scene is laid on the Long Island coast and shifts for a moment to Paris, then back to New York. It deals with fashionable life and the "leisure class" and is a story of unflagging interest.

With the exception of the Bible, more copies of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" have probably been sold in the United States than of another book ever published. It has been translated into nineteen languages of the Old World and has done more to advance the cause of freedom in all civilized countries than any other book ever written. What more natural result than there should have arisen a demand for this book from teachers for use in their schools, where can best be learned the great lessons which are taught in it. To meet this demand and to place the book within easy reach of all the publishers, Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & Co. of Boston and New York, have recently issued an edition, from new plates in attractive paper covers, at 25 cents, and in cloth at 50 cents, with the usual discount to teachers, and for class use. Of this "Universal edition," more than 150,000 copies were sold within the first month of its publication.

"Sybil Knox; or, Home Again—A Story of Today," by Edward Everett Hale, author of "The Man Without a Country," "In His Name," etc., is announced by the Cassell Publishing Company. There is no author in America who is known to a wider circle of readers than Edward Everett Hale, and a new book from his pen is sure of a large audience. Dr. Hale always has a story to tell, but he mixes a moral with it. He is, however, so dexterous a compounder that the reader is unconscious of anything but the pleasant taste left by the story. There is a good deal of action in the story with stirring Western scenes as well as Eastern episodes.

The April number (No. 54) of the Riverside Literature series, published quarterly during the present school year, at 15 cents a single number, by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston and New York, contains more than 100 poems of the poets of William Cullen Bryant that are most celebrated and best adapted for use in schools. Among these may be mentioned "Selma," "The Atopis," "The White Footed Deer," "The Little People of the Snow," "To the Fringed Gentian," and "Abraham Lincoln." The poems selected, with a biographical sketch, and explanatory notes, make this number one of the best that have been lately issued in the Riverside Literature Series.

Mrs. L. T. Mead's new story, "Out of the Fashion," will be issued shortly by the Cassell Publishing Company in their international series. "Out of the Fashion" is the story of four sisters who were suddenly thrown upon their own resources in London. How they made their way, their ups and downs, is told with all the peculiarity of a true story. It is a story that will delight old as well as young and promises to be as popular a book as "Polly, a New-Fashioned Girl," is among girls, more than which could not be expected of any book.

Under the title "The Retreat of Theology in the Galileo case," the successive steps taken by the Catholic church in getting out of the unfortunate position which it took in that case will be recounted by Andrew D. White in the June Popular Science Monthly. The excuses for the persecution of Galileo that were invented in the course of two centuries testify to great ingenuity on the part of the theological apologists.

"A Backsliding Benedict: How a Wary Wife Discovered That Husbands Wander" is the title of a thoroughly bright and amusing little story in the Argonaut of May 9. It is a translation from the French, and tells of true Gallic wit, of a wife who deceived her husband, to accept an engagement to dine in a quiet little restaurant with a fair unknown.

Had air exists in theaters to a greater degree than in any other resorts of civilized people, a fact which generally escapes attention because audiences are exposed to the evil results for only limited periods of time. The causes of this condition of affairs and some suggestions toward a remedy are contributed by C. S. Montgomery in the Engineering Magazine for May.

REAL AND IDEAL.

What Chances Fortune Brought One Sentimental Seminary Girl. She had a brown, oval face and liquid brown eyes, a tiny pointed chin, and a red mouth with a dimple at one corner, says a writer in Short Stories. At this sectarian, coeducational college, hedged in by restrictive rules, the students were powerless to prevent it—a melancholy-eyed, sober-visaged young man, the "Admirable Critchton" of the school. That he never encouraged her devotion made this love passage seem to her only the more romantic and uncommon.

"I can see it in his beautiful eyes, girls," said Daisy; "he looks at me so sweetly, so hopelessly! But poor and ambitious, he is a martyr to his love!" She assumed a becoming expression of quiet suffering, and she slept every night with his pictured face lying on her pillow, and every morning the chambermaid rescued his features from the bottom of the bed when she shook up the clothes.

Alas! He left the school with his love unspoken. There arrived on the scene a young professor of music, fresh from the German universities, with a glinting blue eye and a soul of boundless irreverence. He played the pipe organ divinely, and seemed to have the soul of all musical instruments at his white, supple fingertips.

The shamelessly seductive waltzes that young man wove into his voluntaries produced their due effect on Daisy, who immediately divorced her soul from the sombre young man and began, with the professor as teacher, to cultivate her voice. Her note was a thin little pipe, but her mouth was as adorable as her tones were execrable, so one day the professor kissed it and the matron was aghast.

As a result of this episode the professor went back to Europe and Daisy told the girls, between sobs, that now he had gone her heart was "b-e-a-k-i-n-g." She declared that she would spend the remainder of her days in a convent, but a downy-checked freshman induced her to change her mind.

She finally married a bald-headed professor, attracted by her "sweet innocence," and now, in middle age, she maintains with great severity the position of a "dragon of proprieties" to her youthful successors.

In the Spring, (Spring Fancies.) In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love. He will stand his taller off and not provide a peep at row.

His First Cigar, (Brooklyn Life.) Julian's face is very white. Life for Julian is no joke; Julian thinks he'll die tonight. Julian's face is very white. Julian's face is very white.

The Bathing Suit, (New York Press.) The glass is worn off the Easter hat. And low of the bathing suit, make mention. But life for the maid in's state or flat. For the bathing suit now claims attention.

What though it is meager in point of size, And laid in a tangle of clothes, to find, Some person thinks he'll do tonight. Sometimes the whole of the feminine mind.

VETERANS GRATEFUL.

Maj. Coffey's Open Letter From Vermont.

A War Record and a Civilian's Record That State is Proud Of.

The Experience of the Splendid State Home Near Bennington.

Vermont has good cause to be proud of her Soldiers' Home, not because of its beautiful situation near Bennington, not because the property originally cost a cool $100,000, not because the fountain on the grounds is the highest in the world—

But because ever since the home was established by an act of the legislature, in 1866, it has stood foremost among the institutions of its kind in the country, proving the benefit of state aid to worthy survivors of the war.

The trustees were fortunate from the first in securing the services of no less a veteran than Maj. R. J. Coffey as superintendent. His care, thoughtfulness, kindness and tact in the discharge of his duties have made him conspicuous among the most successful managers of such institutions.

His standing in the Grand Army is well known.

And it is not strange that his recent open letter has attracted widespread interest.

STATE HOME AT BENNINGTON.

Supt. Coffey enlisted in 1861 for three months in Company F, New England Guards, 1st Vermont regiment, and participated in the first important battle of the war at Big Bethel. Immediately after being mustered out he enlisted again in Company K, 4th Vermont regiment, and although eighteen years old, was promoted for bravery to a sergeant. He was always on duty with his company until disabled by a gun shot through his left leg while on picket guard near Centerville, Va., in 1863.

His wound prevented him from further service.

Comrade Coffey has held important offices in the Grand Army department of Vermont. His military titles were gained by service in the National Guard of Vermont, and at present he is major and provost-marshal on the staff of Brig. Gen. Greenleaf.

MAJ. J. R. COFFEY.

His open letter of May 7 comes at just the season of the year to attract the most attention. Writing to the Well & Richardson company, Burlington, he says: "Gentlemen—There have been so many requests from members of the home for that best of all spring remedies, Paine's celery compound, that I ordered a quantity for trial. It has been decided good in its use that it has been necessary to order a second quantity."

L. A. Hamilton, late Company K, 12th Regiment, was suffering from a loss of appetite and growing poor. He has taken two bottles and has improved every day since he commenced to use the celery compound.

"H. A. Percy, Company H, Second Vermont regiment, after three months in the hospital, began taking the compound and improved very rapidly."

"Several others are now taking it with benefit."

"Mrs. Coffey is a great believer in it." Such is the frank statement of Maj. Coffey.

It is another of the many testimonials from well known men and women, of the unexcelled value of this great discovery of Prof. Phelps that restores strength, enriches the blood and vitalizes the nerves. It gives new life and new energy. It is the one spring remedy that physicians use and recommend. It is not a patent medicine; it is not a sassa-parilla; it is not a bitters or mere tonic; it is not an ordinary nerve-tonic; it is as far beyond them all as the diamond is superior to the cheap glass.

THE LEASE REJECTED

The Stockholders of the Kanawha Iron Company Refuse to Accept the Kimberly Proposition.

Major d'Autremont Argues That the Minimum Output Required Is Not Large Enough.

Out of a Total Issue of 18,916 Shares There Are 14,035 Shares Represented at the Meeting.

The meeting of the Kanawha Iron company yesterday was quite a surprise. The directors of the company had practically closed a lease with P. L. Kimberly & Co. of Sharon, Pa., or the Kimberly syndicate, as it has been called, under which the syndicate was to take out a minimum of 100,000 tons of ore annually and pay therefor 80 cents per ton as royalty. A meeting of stockholders was called for yesterday to ratify the lease, but it was not ratified.

There were represented at the meeting 14,035 shares of stock out of a total issue of 18,916 shares. A. E. Humphreys presided and made a statement of the terms of the lease. It was not expected that there would be any opposition to closing it but Major d'Autremont declared that it was not in the interests of the company to close the deal. It was not the royalty that he objected to but the minimum output. It should be twice as large, he said. The discoveries had shown it to be a large mine and 100,000 tons a year is not enough to satisfy the stockholders. He also said that the Kimberly people had agreed to take 400,000 tons each from two other properties and if any mine were allowed to run behind it would probably be the Kanawha. He insisted that the company could work the mine itself and make more out of it. Major d'Autremont's opinion seemed to influence that of the other stockholders and when the question came to a vote it was unanimously rejected. Whether the Kimberly syndicate will increase the minimum is, of course, a matter of speculation.

Mesaba Range Notes.
N. A. Brandon, chief explorer for John McKinley, of Duluth, set two crews of explorers to work on 30-60 and surrounding territory this week. They went by canoe route via Pike river. It looks as though Mr. McKinley expects to find some iron on the north slope of the Mesaba.

The village caucus of the town of Merritt was held last Tuesday and the following officers were nominated: President, J. R. Humphrey; treasurer, M. H. Johnson; trustees, Thomas Donnelly, Carl Anderson, M. S. Kobbjig, recorder, P. H. McGarry; justice of the peace, two years, Frank Hayes; one year, Robert C. Faucett; constables, Edward Brown, M. J. McIntyre.

There is considerable complaint heard on the range in regard to the men who are working on the county road. It is claimed that they are shirking and doing more to kill time than anything else. Work on the Mesaba & Northern road and the Duluth & Iron Range branch is rushing rapidly and the contracts will probably be completed long before the time required.

WILL TOUCH THE RANGE.
A New Railroad Projected From Minneapolis.

Regarding the Brainerd & Northern Minnesota Railroad company, the organization of which was outlined a few days ago, the Minneapolis Journal says the whole of the story was not told then. The project is larger than then appeared, and if the heavy move back of it succeed in carrying out their ideas not only the lumber, but the iron ore of the vast undeveloped regions of the north will be brought direct to Minneapolis. The plan as originally outlined provided for the building of a line northward from Brainerd, skirting Leech lake, Red lake and tapping the upper Red river country. But it now transpires that this is only a minor part of the plan. It is proposed to build a spur in a northeasterly direction, leaving the main line at some point not far north of Brainerd that shall tap the Mesaba range. This would probably take in, via Grand Rapids or some other point on the great bend of the upper Mississippi, the whole newly discovered iron country northward to the Kany lake region and the international boundary.

Brainerd will be a large beneficiary, as the junction point of the line branches out the system and as the fitting out place. Already it is beginning to feel the effects of the deal. The Northern Mill company has decided to remove its sawmill from Gill River to Brainerd, to which place the new road will bring the logs cut on the Pillsbury tracts.

The Eastern Star.
At the annual session of the chapter of the Eastern Star in Minneapolis, the following grand officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Worthy grand matron, Mrs. Mary T. Taylor, of Minneapolis; worthy grand patron, N. A. Gearhart, of Duluth; associate grand matron, Mrs. Lily Mason, of Excelsior; associate grand patron, J. D. Markham, of Rush City; grand secretary, Mrs. Ida M. Wing, of Minneapolis; grand treasurer, Mrs. Lucy D. Wakefield, of Hutchinson; grand conductress, Mrs. S. A. Higgins, of Albert Lea; associate grand conductress, Mrs. Mary E. Burke, of St. Paul.

Drowned in Willow Creek.
A young Frenchman, about 18 years old, was drowned on Saunders' drive at Willow creek, north of Tower, last week. The young man was not an expert driver and attempted to cross the stream on a log. His brother warned him not to undertake the trip, but he persisted and when in the middle of the stream fell off the log and sank, drowning before help could reach him. The name of the unfortunate could not be learned. He had two or three brothers on the drive. They came from Canada.

Crazy Over Religion.
ONICEY, Minn., May 14.—Mr. George Piel, living about five miles east of this place, has become raving insane. He is a married man about 28 years old. The cause of his insanity is said to be religion. He will be committed to the Rochester asylum.

The Reservoirs Opened.
LA PRAIRIE, Minn., May 14.—Col. Johnson, engineer in charge of the upper Mississippi river reservoirs, received orders yesterday to reopen the dams at Leach lake, Winnebago and Pokegama. Chief Engineer Maj. Jones having discovered that the report of floods was a myth.

MURDERED HIS MISTRESS.

And He Paid the Penalty by Death on the Gallows.

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—Etinge Deschamps was hanged in the jail yard here at 1:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Deschamps was a quack doctor, 61 years old. He became acquainted with Juliette Dietsch, aged 12 years, daughter of a French upholsterer, and accomplished her ruin. Becoming tired of his victim, he determined upon murder.

On the evening of January 30, 1889, the murderer and his youthful victim were found in Deschamps' room, lying in bed, wholly nude, the girl dead and Deschamps in apparently a dying condition. Deschamps tried to commit suicide, but medical aid saved his life, and he made a second attempt in self destruction by a daring leap from the gallery of the parish prison, which also proved fruitless. He was tried and found guilty, the evidence being of indisputable character.

TEN YEARS AND A HALF.

That is the Total of Cope Snapp's Sentences.

ST. PAUL, May 14.—When the name of Cope J. Snapp was called in Judge Kerr's court yesterday, he stepped forward to receive his sentences on the indictments to which he has already pleaded guilty. He bore himself well, although he appeared slightly nervous. Hat in hand he stood awaiting the sentence of the court after County Attorney O'Brien had formally moved therefor. He was given the opportunity of speaking for himself, but declined to say anything. Judge Kerr then sentenced him to eight years in the state prison for forgery in the second degree and two and a half years for grand larceny in the second degree. The prisoner received the sentence with bowed head. The other three indictments against Snapp will stand.

WHIPPED A PATIENT.

A German Doctor's Treatment For Hysterical Persons.

BERLIN, May 14.—Director Wiederhold, of the Cassel hospital for nervous diseases, has been sentenced to three months' imprisonment for maltreating the wife of Consul General Zachmann, whom he was treating for hysteria. He admitted that he had whipped the woman with a stick and boxed her ears and declared that this was the best treatment for a hysterical person whose ailments were imaginary.

AID FOR THE STARVING.

Another Vessel With Grain and Provisions Reaches Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 14.—The steamer Conemaugh, bearing flour, grain and provisions from America, destined for the famine sufferers of Russia, arrived in Riga yesterday morning. At 5 o'clock yesterday morning the work of discharging the vessel began, and is being pushed as rapidly as possible. Yesterday afternoon the municipal authorities and the chief residents of Riga proceeded in steamers to the roadstead, where most hearty greetings were extended to those on board the Conemaugh.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

An Ohio Farmer Shot His Wife and Cut His Own Throat.

NEWARK, O., May 14.—David Holler, a wealthy farmer living three miles west of town, last night shot his wife, inflicting a serious wound. When an attempt was made to capture him he barricaded himself in the house and held thirty men at bay with a gun, a rifle, two revolvers and a razor. No one dared to go in or near the house. He then cut his throat with a razor.

One For McKinley.

ST. PAUL, May 14.—McKinley is likely to get at least one vote from the Minnesota delegation on the first ballot for president next June. It will be that of George Thompson, editor of the St. Paul Dispatch, and one of the delegates from the Fourth district. Mr. Thompson is a great admirer of the Ohio apostle of protection and has told his friends privately that in all probability his vote would go that way.

Looking for Gas and Oil.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 14.—Ohio men interested in gas and oil, with a number of Hamburg men, have concluded negotiations for several hundred acres of land near that village and will begin drilling as soon as possible. A test well disclosed that the strata were perfectly regular for gas and oil, and one or both might be found in large quantities, it is said to be a certainty. The men in the deal are from Findlay, Ohio.

People's Party Convention.

ST. PAUL, May 14.—The announcement is unofficially made that the state convention of the People's party for the nomination of a state and electoral ticket, will be held in this city on July 13. A private letter from State Chairman Meighen is the authority given for this announcement, and the call will be prepared immediately after the meeting of the two conference committees.

Sentences Commuted.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 14.—Governor Flower yesterday gave a hearing in the case of Henry C. Fanning, convicted of murder and sentenced to be executed at Sing Sing Monday next. Fanning's alleged victim was his mistress. The murder occurred in New York city in April, 1891. The governor decided to commute the sentence to imprisonment for life.

Millions Involved.

DETROIT, Mich., May 14.—A deal was closed at Sault Ste. Marie yesterday by which the Perry Lumber company obtains possession of 102 square miles of pine, spruce and cedar lands on the Canadian Indian reservation forty miles north of the Soo. The deal involves millions and will result in logging operations on a large scale.

Due to Ill Health.

SIoux CITY, Iowa, May 14.—F. C. Hills announces his resignation as general manager of the Sioux City & Northern railroad on account of ill health. He will probably be succeeded by an official from the Great Northern system.

A Change of Date.

OMAHA, May 14.—The national executive committee of the People's party has decided to call the convention for July 2 instead of July 4. That is, the temporary organization will be effected that day, so the nominations can be made on July 4.

Will Go to the Root of Things.

ASHLAND, Wis., May 14.—The committee appointed from the county board to investigate all the county records will hire expert bookkeepers and investigate affairs from the very beginning.

CYCLONE IN OHIO

Circleville Struck By a Cyclone Which Did Considerable Damage, But No Lives Lost.

Several Churches Were Badly Injured and the Worshipers Were Very Much Scared.

Considerable Fear Felt in the Upper Wabash Valley That a Reservoir Will Burst.

CIRCLEVILLE, O., May 16.—A cyclone struck this place yesterday morning, blowing the American Strawboard works, the Heffner Bros' meal mills. The end of the tile works was blown in a big section of the Scioto machine, a roof was torn off and carried across the canal, where it struck a brick smokestack belonging to Weldon & Co. elevator, completely demolishing it. Several churches were badly damaged while services were being conducted, frightening the worshippers. Electric wires throughout the city were badly damaged and the streets were strewn with shattered and uprooted trees to such an extent as to impede travel.

Much apprehension is felt in the upper Wabash valley about the Celina reservoir, the largest artificial body of water in the world, which is reported to be full. St. Mary's river is out of its banks, the bottom lands are inundated and crops are destroyed. All the smaller streams are over their banks. The St. Mary's reservoir is also dangerously high.

THE WAR IN WYOMING.

Another Battle Probable at an Early Date.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., May 16.—Governor Barbour has made known his intention to again refuse to deliver the prisoners of the rustler war to the Johnston county authorities. The second demand was made by Deputy Sheriff Snyder today. The governor fears that there would be more serious trouble if the stockmen were taken to the Johnston county. A secret agent sent into Johnston county by Eastern men interested in the range there reports that the entire country is being controlled by details of Frank Smith's Buffalo home guards of 300 men. Another invasion is expected. It is reported that a large force of regulars is en route with four machine guns. This army will be given battle.

A Marshal Badly Wounded.
GILLETTE, Wyo., May 16.—A report reaches here that Deputy United States Marshal Gibson was shot and severely wounded Saturday on the Powder river, the ball passing through the shoulders. No definite particulars can be obtained. Gibson was one of the men deputized for the serving of injunctions restraining the small stock and ranch men from holding a round-up of their own.

A SALESMAN SHOT DEAD.

A Texas Man Kills an Insulting of His Wife.

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 16.—Yesterday morning Harry C. Robinson, salesman for Sears & Son, cutlery dealers of Chicago, was shot and killed at his boarding house by W. H. Coffman, of this city. Mr. Coffman is a commercial traveler and claimed that while absent from the city his wife had been subjected to repeated insults by Robinson. She told her husband of the indignities offered by Robinson and the couple went to the boarding house and demanded an apology from Robinson. The latter refused to apologize and Coffman drew a revolver and fired three times, killing Robinson.

Before dying Robinson fired four shots at Coffman, two of which took effect inflicting slight wounds. Coffman surrendered and was released by dealers of bonds. The Coffman family stand high in the community and it is the general opinion that Coffman will not be indicted.

A Deliberate Suicide.

ROCHESTER, N. H., May 16.—The engineer of the Sunday morning milk train, as it was approaching this station yesterday, saw a woman lying across the track. He gave a warning whistle, but her only response was to raise her head and deliberately place her neck on one of the rails. The engine and tender passed over her, severing the head from the body. The suicide was Mrs. Thomas Downing. Domestic trouble probably drove her to commit suicide.

Tried to Blow Him Up.

CHICAGO, May 16.—A bomb was found under the home of Dr. Teed, the pseudo Christ, on Washington avenue, yesterday. After a chemical examination, it was asserted that there was no doubt of its destructive character. The bomb was made of iron, cylindrical in shape, and eight inches long.

The Rebels Wiped Out.

LAREDO, Tex., May 16.—It is believed along the border that the recent fight near Meier, Mex., between government troops and Garza's men, in which ten of the latter were killed, has completely wiped out the so-called revolutionary movement.

Failure in Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Dennis Leahy & Co., wholesale dealers in groceries at 146 Fifth avenue, have failed. The assets are nominally stated at $100,000 and the liabilities at the same figure. The failure was precipitated by the issuance of attachments aggregating $30,000 on behalf of Frederick, Victor & Acheles and Forstman & Co., both of New York.

THE QUEEN'S DRAWINGROOM.

A Brilliant Event at Which the Princess Christian Officiated.
LONDON, May 16.—The Princess Helena, wife of Prince Christian, and second daughter of Queen Victoria, represented her majesty at the drawingroom in Buckingham palace today. The occasion was most brilliant, although general regret was felt that the queen was not present in person. It was the first drawingroom of the year, and a peculiar importance attached to it on account of the expected presence of the queen.

After the death of Prince Albert, the queen gave up the custom of holding the great annual courts at which she used to receive the foreign diplomats during the early part of the reign, and took to receiving them at the first drawingroom of the year instead. The result is that all the ambassadors, ministers and their respective staffs and the ladies belonging to the various embassies and legations, made their bow formally at this drawingroom. M. Waddington, the French ambassador, the dean of the diplomatic college, headed the embassies and legations and the Chinese minister brought up the rear, being the latest arrival. The various diplomatic representatives took occasion to present to royalty any new additions to their staff and also any compatriots whom they desired to honor and who happened to be in London.

Among the presentations were the wife of the Chinese minister, the Princess Henry of Meas, Mrs. Post, the bride of Maj. Post of the American legation, and several attaches of the Spanish legation. The attendance was below the average at the drawingrooms, probably owing to the absence of the queen, and the diplomatic corps was in black mourning. Mrs. Post, therefore, although a bride, appeared in black. She wore a court gown of white striped moire antique of novel and original design, the front of the skirt being covered with a finely-tinted tulle and caught up to the back of the bodice with a diamond ornament. She wore also plumes of ostrich feathers and a Watteau train of duchess satin. Her jewels were diamonds and pearls. Mrs. Catlin, wife of the United States consul at Munich, wore, by the queen's special permission, a high-necked gown of novel and original design, the front of the skirt being covered with a finely-tinted tulle and caught up to the back of the bodice with a diamond ornament. The presentation of the newly-married countess of Dudley was a most interesting feature of the drawing room, the countess dividing attention with the wife of the Chinese minister, who looked like a pretty and delicate Chinese doll.

DEACON'S MARRIED LIFE.

Events Which Led to the Killing of Abelle.

LONDON, May 16.—There is a paper published today which purports to be a history of the married life of Edward Parker Deacon, who will shortly be tried for killing M. Abelle, the lover of his wife. The paper says that the story was told by Mr. Deacon to his solicitor. It is to the effect that a few days prior to the tragedy and again on the evening of the tragedy, occurred, before he left the hotel to attend the ball given by the Cercle Nautique, he urged his wife to consent to a divorce.

He had a very strong suspicion that his wife's relations with Abelle were not what they should be, and he thought that if he could procure his wife's consent not to contest an action for divorce, much scandal could be averted. Mrs. Deacon, however, objected to this course, referring to his personal acquaintance with the deceased and speaking in the highest terms of his worth and character. His text was 1 Corinthians, iv., 5.

After Bishop Keane's address the casket was lifted by a squad of the capitol police as bearers and borne out of the chamber attended by priests and acolytes. It was conveyed to the late home of the senator, where it will remain until 9 a. m. tomorrow. It will then be escorted by the senate and house committees to the place of interment at Poplar Hill.

THE LAST RITES

Services Held in the Senate Today in Memory of the Late Senator Barbour.

Members of the House and the Cabinet and the Supreme Court Present.

Eloquent Funeral Address Delivered By Bishop Keane Who Was a Personal Friend.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—In the house today, the speaker submitted the invitation of the senate for the house to attend the service in memory of the late Senator Barbour at 1 o'clock. Meanwhile the house went into committee of the whole on the sundry civil appropriation bill. At the appointed time business was suspended and the members, headed by the speaker, proceeded to the senate chamber.

The senate met at noon. The late Senator Barbour's seat was draped in mourning. The seats had been arranged for the cabinet, the supreme court and the members of the house. After prayer and the reading of the journal, Senator Keane, of Virginia, made a brief reference to the death of Senator Barbour and offered resolutions of regret. The chairman appointed a committee to act with the house committee on the funeral and after the resolutions were adopted the senate took a recess until 12:30.

At 12:30 the senate reassembled. Candelsticks with wax tapers stood beside a brass crucifix on the reading desk. The chief justice and the justices of the supreme court, in black robes, came immediately afterward. After the supreme court came the cabinet. Secretary Blaine, walking firmly and leaning on the arm of Secretary Foster, was followed by Messrs. Elihu, Miller and Noble and Rusk. Mr. Wanamaker was not present. Then came some members of the diplomatic corps and next the mourners, three ladies and three gentlemen, including the family of the deceased.

As the coffin was borne in, preceded by acolytes bearing crucifixes and lighted tapers and burning incense, all in the chamber of the senate. It was assisted by several priests, accompanied the cortege. The service of the church, except that the few opening invocations were in Latin, was conducted entirely in English and, of course, without musical accompaniment. Bishop Keane then delivered an eloquent funeral address, referring to his personal acquaintance with the deceased and speaking in the highest terms of his worth and character. His text was 1 Corinthians, iv., 5.

After Bishop Keane's address the casket was lifted by a squad of the capitol police as bearers and borne out of the chamber attended by priests and acolytes. It was conveyed to the late home of the senator, where it will remain until 9 a. m. tomorrow. It will then be escorted by the senate and house committees to the place of interment at Poplar Hill.

AMONG THE MORMONS.

Delegates to the Presbyterian Assembly Arrive in Salt Lake.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, May 16.—Approximately 600 ministers, delegates to the Presbyterian general assembly, which convenes at Portland May 19, arrived in the city yesterday. During the day the visitors were extended every hospitality and courtesy that could be participated by the ministers on the Sabbath. The churches were thrown open to them, and the pulpits were occupied in the morning by visitors. Among those who preached were a Rev. Mr. Greene, of New Jersey; N. P. White, of Mount Airy, Pa.; W. H. Roberts, D. D., of Darby, Pa.

In the afternoon nearly all attended the Mormon services at the Tabernacle. In the evening the visitors attended a meeting at the Salt Lake theater, where Rev. W. C. Roberts, of New York, and Dr. Mutchmore, of Philadelphia, delivered addresses. Today after carriage drives to points of interest in this vicinity, they will resume the journey to the Pacific coast. The prevailing impression was that Dr. Mutchmore, of Philadelphia, will be elected moderator when the assembly convenes at Portland.

THE MAILS WERE BURNED.

Fire in Brooklyn Entailing a Loss of $150,000.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 16.—Warner's institute on Broadway and Willowbury avenue was destroyed by fire this morning. The building had been recently fitted up by the Zoemmer Mannerchoir, a German singing society, which owns the premises. The loss will reach $150,000. Besides the singing society, there were located in the building several stores and a branch of the postoffice. The mail matter, which had been accumulating since Saturday night and including two large English mails, was nearly all destroyed.

Party Rate Tickets.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The supreme court has unanimously decided that the issue by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad of what is known as "party rate tickets" for the transportation of ten or more passengers on one ticket, at a reduced rate, are not in violation of the provisions of the interstate commerce law and therefore may be continued. Justice Brown announced the decision.

MANY EYES ARE TURNED

Toward the Meeting Place for the Republican National Convention During the Coming Month.

Some of the Conspicuous Figures Who Will Be Seen at the Great Political Gathering.

Senators Davis and Washburn and the Work They Did in Behalf of Minneapolis' Claims.

All Republican eyes, and a good many Democratic eyes, too, for that matter, are turned in the direction of Minneapolis, where the convention which will nominate the candidates of the Republican party for president and vice president convenes on June 7. While there has not been as much speculation concerning nominees this year as there was in 1888, there are so many elements tending to complicate matters, and withal so many uncertainties in politics, that there will be no lack of interest in the proceedings.

Two conspicuous figures at the great gathering will naturally be Hon. James S. Clarkson, chairman, and Hon. J. Sloat Fassett, secretary of the Republican national committee. All the preliminary arrangements incidental to calling the convention to order will devolve upon these gentlemen and their associates. The former has been prominent in politics for many years. Upon President Harrison's accession to office it was generally believed that Mr. Clarkson would be tendered a cabinet portfolio, but he received instead, and it is generally understood at his own request, the place of first assistant postmaster general. The number of changes he made caused him to be dubbed by political opponents the "Houdini," and the comic papers of the opposite party pictured him always clothed from head to foot in a red Mephistophelean costume with an enormous executioner's ax in his hand. After a comparatively brief service he resigned. When Matthew S. Quay retired from the chairmanship of the Republican national committee Mr. Clarkson was elected his successor.

Mr. Clarkson has for many years been the editor and part proprietor of the Des Moines (Ia.) State Register. He first became nationally prominent in the convention of 1880, when he succeeded as one of the Blaine leaders in preventing Grant's nomination by bringing about that of James A. Garfield.

J. Sloat Fassett, secretary of the national committee, was born in Elmira, N. Y., in 1832. He was educated in the public schools, and in 1870 was graduated from the Elmira Free academy. In 1877 he took his degree at the Rochester university and went to the German university of Heidelberg, whence he returned to Elmira, and was admitted to the bar on motion of Lawyer David Bennett Hill, who was destined in after years to be his political opponent. Not long after this Mr. Fassett became district attorney of Chemung county. In 1883 he went to the state senate, and was re-elected in 1885, 1887 and 1889. In 1891 he was appointed collector of the port of New York, but resigned soon after when he was nominated for governor.

When the national committee of one of the great parties meets to select the place in which the nominating convention shall be held, it is always besieged by the advocates of half a dozen cities, all of whom appreciate the value of the advertisement afforded by such a gathering. Two of those most prominent in presenting the claims of Minneapolis were the United States senators from the state of Minnesota—W. D. Washburn and C. K. Davis.

William Drew Washburn was born in Maine in 1831 and was reared on a farm. He was graduated from Bowdoin college in 1854, and in 1857 located in Minneapolis. His first office was that of surveyor general of Minnesota, to which he was appointed in 1861 by President Lincoln. He has been closely identified with nearly all of the industrial and commercial enterprises of his adopted home. He was a member of the Forty-sixth, Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth congresses, and in 1889 was elected to the United States senate to succeed Dwight M. Sabin. He belongs to the celebrated family which included among its noted members the late Elihu Washburne, of Illinois, and C. C. Washburn, of Wisconsin.

Cushman Kellogg Davis has reached his present exalted position by climbing through nearly all the subordinate grades. It was a Mexican dollar, from which the imprint of the government had been removed, so that instead of a coin it seemed to be an engraved disk of silver until the owner opened it and disclosed a charming miniature. "I can tell you a thrilling story about a dollar like that," said its owner to a Boston Herald reporter. "When I was in New Mexico I knew a young man who had a dollar similar to this, only that it contained the miniature of a lady whose husband was a regular fire eater. He was a fighter from the word go—the worst in town. One day the young man and I went to the races together.

"My friend had the souvenir dollar in his pocket, and in the excitement got to the pool seller with three ordinary dollars. It was much lighter than the dollars, but that was not noticed, as it was stacked up with them. My friend did not find out what he had done until we had left the race track. Then he was the worst scared man you ever saw. The original of the miniature was well known, and it meant death for somebody if the hollowed-out dollar got into her husband's hands. First I went to the banks, but it had not been offered there. Then I went to all the faro banks and told the dealers that I would give ten dollars for that particular coin. For three days we were in an agony of suspense, and when the missing coin finally turned up at a faro table my friend thought it was the cheapest money he had ever got hold of."

The Arizona Onyx Mines. One of the most beautiful decorative materials of stone and one of the most costly is onyx. Up to recently the only source of supply was the La Pedra mine, in the state of Puebla, Mexico. However, there are now on exhibition at Chicago about thirty specimens of onyx from the recently discovered Arizona deposits. Investigation shows that the stone can be obtained there of a size suitable for architectural purposes and of the finest quality. While the Mexican deposit was only three acres in extent originally, and is now practically exhausted, the Arizona quarries cover about 300 acres. The specimens on exhibition show infinite variety in color and take the highest polish. The exhibit consists of slabs about one inch thick and varying from four to twelve square feet in area. The Arizona deposits are located about twenty-seven miles southwest of Prescott.

A Strange Fresh Water Pond. Ever since the settlement of the country, Hicks pond, at Palmyra, Me., has been a mystery to those living near its banks. It is only twelve acres in area, but is more than 100 feet in depth. It has no visible inlet, although a fair sized stream flows from it into Lake Umbagog. The volume of its waters is not materially affected by either drought or freshet, and the water is always cold.

IT'S A POLITICAL BATTLE GROUND.

The Close and Famous Eighteenth Congressional District of Illinois. The Eighteenth congressional district of the state of Illinois was formerly known as "Bill Morrison's borough," he having represented it at Washington for sixteen years. Since his defeat for the Fifth congress by Jehu Baker, a Re-

W. A. SOUTHCOTT. publican, the district has been very close. William S. Forman, a Democrat, is the present representative, because he got twenty-six votes more than Baker in the last contest.

The district is composed of the counties of Bond, Madison, Monroe, St. Clair and Washington, and because of the fierce fights made on the tariff issue it has achieved national notoriety. The Republicans in convention at Alton the other day chose as their candidate for congress W. A. Northcott, of Greenville, Bond county, a gentleman about fifty years of age, who sports carefully groomed side whiskers and mustache, and who has had considerable experience as a practical politician.

The committee on resolutions, whose work Mr. Northcott indulged in his speech of acceptance, "set the pace" for the coming contest when it reported a platform favoring a tariff so levied as to benefit and protect American labor and American production, favoring reciprocity, declaring that every dollar bearing the government stamp should be of equal value and interchangeable, whether it be of gold, silver or paper; opposing free coinage of silver, heartily endorsing the administration of President Harrison, and complimenting Secretary Blaine. The resolutions also declared in favor of the repeal of the compulsory school law of the state, and the enactment in place thereof of a law which will not interfere with the rights of parents to send their children to such schools as they may deem best. The state administration was endorsed and the course of Senator Cullum was approved.

Governor of England's Bank.

The Bank of England is among the greatest financial institutions in the world, and the recent election of Mr. David Powell to the important post of its governor is a high tribute to his business integrity and financial sagacity. He is a graduate of Trinity college, Cambridge, where he took his degree in 1861. His preliminary education was received at Eton. He married in 1867 Miss Lucy Elizabeth Pryor, daughter of a wealthy merchant of Hylands, Essex. He became a member of the firm of Cotesworth & Powell in 1863, and is still interested there. Mr. Powell has traveled in Australia, New Zealand and South America, and has also done a great deal of literary work in this connection. He has been deputy governor of the Bank of England for the unusual term of three years. His last year of office was accepted at the urgent solicitation of the retiring governor, Mr. Liddendale, who wished to have the benefit of Mr. Powell's advice in some important negotiations which were then pending with the British government. It was at the last meeting of the board of directors that he was chosen governor, a position which his previous record warrants his friends in asserting that he will fill with credit to himself and honor to the institution of which he is now the head.

Romance of a Coin. It was a Mexican dollar, from which the imprint of the government had been removed, so that instead of a coin it seemed to be an engraved disk of silver until the owner opened it and disclosed a charming miniature. "I can tell you a thrilling story about a dollar like that," said its owner to a Boston Herald reporter. There is no better, safer investment than real estate, if the location and price is right. There is no better location than Duluth Heights. The incline railway is completed and in operation and the rails are now being placed on the ground for an electric street railway running through the property, thus bringing it within a ten or twelve minutes ride from Union depot and business center of the city. Everyone can't afford to buy property down town or in the business center. It's too expensive, but lots can be bought and a house built for much less than the cost of a bare lot situated the same distance either east or west from the Union depot. The ground is gently rolling, insuring good drainage and healthfulness. Where can you find property in Duluth accessible, well located, within so short a distance from the business center, an electric line furnishing cheap and quick transportation, at prices anywhere near as low as we can sell you, $150 to $200 a lot with only one-fourth cash required and balance one, two and three years. While the Mexican deposit was only three acres in extent originally, and is now practically exhausted, the Arizona quarries cover about 300 acres. The specimens on exhibition show infinite variety in color and take the highest polish. The exhibit consists of slabs about one inch thick and varying from four to twelve square feet in area. The Arizona deposits are located about twenty-seven miles southwest of Prescott.

One of the most beautiful decorative materials of stone and one of the most costly is onyx. Up to recently the only source of supply was the La Pedra mine, in the state of Puebla, Mexico. However, there are now on exhibition at Chicago about thirty specimens of onyx from the recently discovered Arizona deposits. Investigation shows that the stone can be obtained there of a size suitable for architectural purposes and of the finest quality. ## OSWALD IS ARRESTED

The Youthful Forger is Apprehended by Deputy Armstrong and Brought Back to Answer for His Crime.

His Relatives Are Attempting to "Squelch" the Prosecution and Will Settle All Claims.

The Burglars Who Went Through Meining & Co.'s Hardware Store Are Captured.

E. H. Oswald, whose recent exploits in petty forgery and raised checks made him liable to a criminal charge, is in the hands of the sheriff, or was at an early hour this morning. He was arrested at Moose lake, on the St. Paul & Duluth road, by Chief Deputy Sheriff Harry Armstrong and brought to this city and taken to the county jail last Saturday, unusual precautions being taken to prevent his being seen or recognized. The complaint under which he was arrested only specified the forgery or raising of two checks. A letter was received here by the authorities stating that a small man, name unknown, who was acting rather strangely, was at Moose lake, and the description left no doubt in the mind of the officers that it was the looked for Oswald, so Harry Armstrong started for him and got him as he was about to leave. While the culprit was at liberty his parents and friends manifested not the slightest regard for him nor any desire to pay and take up the illegal paper, but as soon as it was known that he was "pinched," to use the vernacular of the officers, they rallied in force and will probably hush the matter up. It is understood that upon the payment of the full sums upon all the checks and the statutory costs of the official proceedings so far that the young man will be set at liberty and sent to the coast.

NABBED THE BURGLARS.

The Thieves Who Broke Into Meining's Store Are Captured.

Mike Hanley, John Brown and Thomas Simons have been arrested by Detective Hayden for the burglary at Meining's store some few days ago. They were arraigned in the municipal court this morning and asked an examination which will be given to them Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. The charge against them is grand larceny in the first degree. The detective has found a number of the articles and the parties to whom they sold and they will be on hand by Thursday to give evidence. A number of the goods were sold to men going to Eau Claire and Wisconsin towns, but the balance of the haul has been planted in some unknown spot. One of the crowd has made some contradictory statements already and a confession is among the possibilities.

THE LEAD MINES.

Under Some Conditions a Smelter May be Built in Duluth.

A party, including R. S. Munger, Donald Grant, H. W. Wheeler, C. F. Howe, the chemist, and several others, left on the steamer Monarch last evening for Port Arthur. From there they will go to a piece of property in which Mr. Munger is interested and on which there is a valuable deposit of lead. It is partially above the surface and can be mined at an extremely low cost. Assays have shown as high as 75 per cent pure lead and some of it yields twenty-two ounces of silver. The mine is to be worked as soon as possible and the bill now pending in congress providing for the admission into the country of lead ores free will be of vast importance if this mine proves to be as valuable as it seems probable. Should the present duty of 2 cents per pound continue the ore must be sent to Montreal. If, however, it is removed the ore will come to Duluth and a big smelter and refinery will be built here. The lead ores are especially valuable for use as a flux in reducing the refractory silver ores of Montana and Mr. Munger and his associates believe that they can secure the smelting of a great deal of the Montana ore which now passes through here via the lakes, especially as they will have the lead ore needed for the flux.

DR. RINGLAND REMAINS.

He Announces the Withdrawal of His Resignation.

Dr. Ringland announced to his congregation at the First Presbyterian church yesterday that in view of the refusal of the congregation to accept his resignation he had decided to remain. He also said that he would accept the six months vacation offered him but proposed to choose the time for taking it himself and he furthermore said that he would expect to receive his usual yearly vacation as well. Dr. Ringland will probably go abroad when he takes his six months' vacation as it has been his desire for some time to spend a few months across the water.

WANT TO ADJOURN.

Probability That the Council Will Adjourn to Wednesday.

An effort is being made to have the council meeting this evening adjourned to Wednesday, but whether it will be done or not depends upon the sweet will of the aldermen. The adjournment is desired because the council committee is not entirely ready to report on the Duluth & Northeastern Railway and Terminal company ordinance or rather the company is not yet certain whether it wishes to accept all the changes which the committee has made in the original ordinance. It is probable that the adjournment will be effected as there is but little business to come up outside of the railroad ordinances which are pending.

The Jury's Verdict.

The coroner's jury in the inquest over the bodies of A. J. and Theresa Scrafield brought in a verdict Saturday afternoon to the effect that the woman was shot twice by her husband and that he then killed himself with one shot. The fourth shot was imbedded in the bedstead.

Mrs. Scrafield's body has been taken to Sault Ste. Marie for burial but the man's body will likely be interred at the county's expense.

Chief of Police Briggs has sent out several hundred notices to owners of dogs notifying them to have their dogs licensed at once. A war of extermination on unlicensed canines will be commenced soon.

The ordinance providing for the licensing of dogs running at large requires that all owners shall take out a license at once, and shall put a numbered tag upon the dog so licensed. The chief of police is authorized to kill all dogs running at large without a license. Section seven of the ordinance provides that all persons who fail to take out license according to the provisions of the ordinance, shall be fined from $1 to $100, with costs. This is the provision which the authorities propose to enforce, and owners of all unlicensed dogs will save money by calling at the village recorder's office, with treasurer's receipt, and receive license.

Father Chiniquy Coming. Father Chiniquy, who has been creating quite a sensation in St. Paul by his lectures against the Roman Catholic church, of which he was formerly a priest, has been engaged to lecture in Duluth on the evenings of May 24, 25 and 26 at the Lyceum.

THE BURROWS OPENING

The Spring Opening of the Greatest Clothing House in the Northwest Commenced This Morning.

The Phenomenal Success of the Enterprising Firm of M. S. Burrows & Co. is Easily Explained.

They Buy From the Biggest Manufacturing Firms in the Country and Get the Best.

This morning the grand spring opening of M. S. Burrows & Co.'s mammoth clothing house, the Great Eastern, began and it will continue all week. The store has been beautifully decorated and the scent of hot house flowers and plants fills the air. The firm was especially remembered by all of the big houses with whom they do business and some of the floral tributes which have been received during the day are magnificent. At the entrance in a large case is a boy entirely made of flowers, the jacket red and the trousers white. This was sent by Eiderheim, Stein & Co., of Chicago. Kuhn, Nathan & Fischer, of Chicago, sent floral decorations made entirely of ivy leaves and roses; R. Kuppenheimer & Co., and Sternberg Bros. sent large baskets of roses, lilies and carnations; Friedman, Leopold & Co., Hart, Schaffner & Marx and Todd, Sullivan & Baldwin each sent magnificent horseshoes. The "Horn of Plenty" from Steinblock & Co., of Rochester, N. Y., is one of the most striking and beautiful of the floral remembrances. These gifts accompanied by congratulations and expressions of good will are coming in on every train from the wholesale manufacturers who are patronized by M. S. Burrows & Co.

The firm of M. S. Burrows & Co. is composed of M. S. Burrows and his special partner, A. Nathan, of Chicago. Mr. Nathan is a member of the firm of Kuhn, Nathan & Fischer, of Chicago, one of the largest manufacturing houses in the United States, and is a business which is not excelled by that of any house in the country. Mr. Nathan is one of the directors of the World's fair and is president of the Street Stable Car line of Chicago. It was six years ago that he entered into a partnership with M. S. Burrows, who was then in business alone. The success of the firm has been phenomenal and the effort to build the building of the enormous store, which it now owns and occupies and into which it moved last November. What is the secret of this success has often been asked, but the answer is an easy one.

Being in such close relations with one of the largest and best houses in the United States they are enabled to obtain at once the superior and high grade of goods, and the lines which Kuhn, Nathan & Fischer do not manufacture are purchased from the leading wholesale houses of the United States and Europe. Among these are Rogers, Peet & Co., Brokaw Manufacturing company, Steinblock & Co., Garson, Meyer & Co., Todd, Sullivan & Baldwin, Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Eiderheim, Stein & Co., R. Kuppenheimer & Co., and Sternberg Bros. Among the European houses are Welsh, Margensen & Co., of London, dealers in furnishing goods. With such a host of great wholesalers, known the world over, it is easy to see why M. S. Burrows & Co. lead all. Then added to this, they have the finest store in the West. There is not a traveling man who leaves Duluth but tells everywhere he goes of this store, its completeness in detail and arrangement.

Tonight the store will be open until 10 o'clock, and after 7 o'clock the full city band, eighteen pieces, will give a brilliant concert in the store.

HE SECURED A VERDICT.

Aaron Wickstrom Was Given $1500 by the Jury.

Before Judge Nelson in the United States circuit court this morning the verdict rendered by the jury in the case of Aaron Wickstrom vs. the Tower & Soudan Street Railway company was opened and found to be $1500 for Wickstrom.

Oliver H. Hewitt was admitted to practice. Juror Edward Burns was excused on account of illness. The damage suit of Moses Elliott against the Northern Pacific railroad was then taken up and is now on trial. The plaintiff was hurt by a Wheatland, Dakota, and seeks remuneration in the shape of $15,000.

LYNCHING BEE PROBABLE.

Two Negroes Charged With Assaulting a Woman in Alabama.

PHILADELPHIA, Ala., May 16.—Mrs. D. C. Bryant awoke to find a man in her bed about to assault her. He silenced her screams by nearly choking her to death, accomplished his purpose and fled.

Two negroes are under arrest charged with the crime, and an angry mob is gathered awaiting the identification of either of them to hold a lynching bee.

THE BROOKLYN HANDICAP.

Dwyer's Longstreet is Heavily Backed to Win Today.

New York, May 16.—The field that will struggle for the supremacy in the great Brooklyn handicap, valued at $25,000, at Gravesend today will be one of the best that ever went to the post for the event. All are in prime condition. They have been the recipients of much careful attention of the greatest trainers, and are today in condition to make one of the greatest races ever run. Saturday they were asked the last momentous question, and when the trials were over all had answered it in such a handsome manner as to fill the hearts of their respective owners with hope.

When the saddling bell rings for the handicap this afternoon M. F. Dwyer's grand horse, Longstreet, will go to the post backed to win more money than any handicap candidate ever was before. Wherever a future book was made, at Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco, Montreal, New Orleans, New York, their money has been placed on Longstreet. It is no exaggeration to say that Longstreet's victory will take more money from the future books than they ever played before. Other horses have been played persistently, and buoyed up by the hope that he might not be able to start, the bookies kept on earning money on him.

The race is likely to be decided on a heavy track. At dusk last night the track was muddy and heavy from the inner rail to the center of the course; and the rain was better and looked to be drying out, but the rain fell during the night and the track, if not heavy will be several seconds slow and the horse that shades 2:10 will have a good look in for the first money.

Thirty thousand people will probably witness the race and the Brooklyn handicap of 1892 will be indeed memorable if it is as rich in fulfillment as in promise. Plenty of handicaps have been given exercise in gallops yesterday. The consensus of opinion at the track was that Longstreet would be the winner, if the track was moderately heavy to good.

AN ANGRY PEDESTRIAN.

A Wager Declared Off After He Had Walked Eighty Days.

BOONE, Ia., May 16.—Pedestrian Stone, who started to walk from San Francisco to New York on a wager of $5000, has reached here. On his arrival here he received notice that the wager had been declared off because, instead of walking around the bay at San Francisco via San Jose and Stockton, eighty miles, he crossed in a boat. He acknowledges that he did so, but is very angry because he has been allowed to walk eighty days since the wager was declared off.

A LITERARY SENSATION.

Discovery of a Hitherto Unknown Journal by Victor Hugo.

PARIS, May 16.—The discovery of Victor Hugo's "Journal de l'exile," together with nearly a thousand letters addressed to the poet from eminent public men and political refugees from all parts of the world, has caused a great sensation in literary circles. The existence of these manuscripts was hitherto unknown even to M. Hugo's executors.

It is supposed that the documents were mislaid in a bureau which was sold after Hugo's death and the nature of the contents has but lately been known to the purchaser.

Enticed Away a Girl.

PORTLAND, Me., May 16.—Nelson A. Guenther, formerly a captain in the Salvation army, and lately conductor of a gospel mission meeting in Union hall, has been arrested on the charge of having enticed away a 16-year-old girl, who was missing from Sunday till Tuesday. The girl was an attendant at the mission.

Offered a Professorship.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Dr. Amos G. Warner, superintendent of charities for the district of Columbia, has been offered a professorship of political economy in the Leland Stanford, Jr., university at a salary of $4000, and will probably accept.

The Novelty Billiard hall at No. 10 West Superior street will open its doors to the public tomorrow evening, Tuesday, May 17, at 7:30 p. m.

The play will be inaugurated by a match game of pool for $75 a side, 150 points, between Ben Davis, champion of Duluth, and Joseph Carney, champion of Minnesota.

To avoid a crowd and give lovers of the game an opportunity to witness the same, an admission fee of 25 cents will be charged at the door. Upon the conclusion of the match game the rooms will be opened to all comers.

This room has been fitted up with six billiard and six pool tables of the Brunswick-Balke and Collender manufacture, and is fully equipped with the best cues and balls money could buy. It will be run as a strictly temperance place. A fine line of cigars will be kept on hand.

Convinced, late of Chicago, an expert in the business, will attend to keeping the cues and tables in perfect order. No pains will be spared by the management in maintaining the character of the room as a gentleman's billiard hall.

"THE PERFECT ASSASSIN."

A Noted Frenchman's Blood Curdling and Diabolical Deeds.

Among the papers of M. Charles Monselet, the spirited and much regretted French writer, says The Pall Mall Budget, a curious N. S. has been discovered. It bears the title "Manuel du Parfait Assassin," and opens with an outline sketch of the qualifications of the man who would become a successful murderer. Above all, he should be neither too young nor too old, neither uneducated nor too learned; but one branch of knowledge which he should be careful to avoid is that of literature. If he is literary he has no chance. Meanwhile, he should be able to write a letter. There is no need that he should be ugly. Dumollard, who was ugly, and who yet was caught, has destroyed the confidence in ugliness. But, unless a man feels that murdering is his vocation, all other qualifications avail nothing. If he is not drawn toward the profession by an irresistible attraction, and if he has not from his tenderest age felt the desire to annihilate his fellow beings, let him desist from meddling with murdering.

Of dwellers in country districts M. Monselet considers the old woman who lives alone in an isolated house and the cattle dealer coming home from market the most suitable subjects for the assassin. But he adds, when you pounce upon the latter take good care that no wretched shepherd is near. He is apt to lurk behind a tree and to see everything. Paris, of course, is the "grand theater" of the assassin.

"A street attack at night is tempting, but it must be done by inspiration." You require genius to do it well. A man passes. He either inspires you or leaves you unmoved. If he inspires you, go for him; his watch, if he has one, his pocketbook and the contents of his two waistcoat pockets are your booty.

During the day a jeweler is a good subject.

"There should be two of you. See that the best is selected. One of you enters by one door and asks for the pin; the other enters by the second door and 'finishes' the merchant. Meanwhile the jewels are secured. It is as simple as the day."

"Throwing a dead body into the river has its drawbacks; the Seine often gives up its prey. Water talks, the earth is dumb. This is the advice of a famous assassin."

"Under the heading 'Murderers and Magistrates' the author has a great deal to say."

"Availing, when standing on the platform of the guillotine, said to the people: 'Above all, never confess.' These great words ought to be engraved in letters of gold. As soon as you are caught imagine that you are somebody else. Don't try to be clever in answering the judge. Rather say the most idiotic thing that comes into your head. The perfect assassin should be very respectful toward the gentlemen of the jury, if he knows one of them. He had better not ask how his wife is. Good behavior is often rewarded. Meanwhile he ought to show his perfect tranquility by asking one of the policemen by his side for a pinch of tobacco."

"In no case should he interrupt his lawyer, for it may well happen that the latter means to plead imbecility for his client. At the same time he should spare no trouble in convincing his lawyer of his innocence. There have been lawyers who were duped."

Impudence as long as there is a gleam of hope is the advice with which M. Monselet dismisses his subject, and when all has failed then resort to philosophy and die like a man.

SELINA DELARO'S DAUGHTER.

She Is Selling Barclay H. Warburton for Alimony and a Separation.

The suit of Esther Delaro, the actress, who says she is the wife of Barclay H. Warburton, and that as he has refused to support her, she is entitled to a separation, has served to bring to the surface once more a young man who had columns upon columns of matter relating to him in the newspapers a few years ago.

Barclay H. Warburton is the son of the wealthy proprietor of the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph. Some years ago he was thought to be a great theatrical manager, and as a means to that end he took charge of the ill-fated "Rip Van Winkle" starring tour of that versatile comedian, Henry Dixey. That tour is still cited as an illustration of how much money can be lost in a short space of time.

While with Dixey Warburton met Esther Delaro, whose mother, Selina, was a well-known actress and author. Miss Delaro, in her complaint, alleges that Warburton was assiduous in his attentions and that finally yielding to his solicitations she assumed marital relations with him. Some time after she threatened to leave him, when he told her that owing to the fear that his father would disinherit him no ceremony could be performed, but he was willing to enter into marriage by contract. This was done, and thenceforward she was known as Mrs. Warburton.

After various vicissitudes, according to the fair plaintiff, a rumor of the marriage having reached the elder Warburton he notified his son that he would no longer supply him with funds, and Barclay then induced Miss Delaro to write a letter to his father denying their union. The remittances immediately began to arrive again. Miss Delaro, or Mrs. Warburton as she calls herself, says that Barclay and she lived together as man and wife up to the time when the former was invited to act as an usher at the famous wedding of General E. Burd Grubb, United States minister to Spain. He went abroad and she "hasn't seen him since," as upon his return to the United States he immediately proceeded to Philadelphia, where he accepted a position on his father's newspaper. Altogether the case is a very complicated one and Mr. Warburton's story is still to be heard. He may have a different tale to tell, and it is always well to remember that there are two sides to every quarrel.

Beaten by Her Father.

It seems almost incredible that a parent can exercise cruelty toward his child. The other day pretty little Caroline Keck, fourteen years old, of 523 East One Hundred and Fifth street, was taken to a New York police court by Agent Manus, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. Her arms and back were black with bruises. Her left arm bore the semblance of that of a white child. Carried by her father, Joseph, with a hammer and a walking cane because she had lost a key. The screams of the child attracted the neighbors, who notified the society.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

City of Lakeside.

Notice is hereby given, That a survey and plat of a proposed new street to be opened in the said city of Lakeside, St. Louis county, Minnesota, has been made and filed in the office of the city recorder of said city of Lakeside, which plat exhibits as far as practicable the land or parcels of property required to be taken, or which may be damaged by the opening of such proposed street.

Said proposed street is more particularly described as follows, to-wit: The street to be six feet wide, and to extend from the westerly boundary line of said city of Lakeside across the west half of the southwest quarter of section seven (7), township fifty (50), north of range thirteen (13) west, to West avenue in said city; the two boundary lines of said street to be two parallel straight lines, sixty-six feet apart, drawn from the intersections of the boundary lines of Superior street (formerly Beach or Birch street) in the city of Duluth, extended if necessary, with the said westerly boundary line of the city of Lakeside to the intersections of the boundary lines of Oxford street, extended if necessary with West avenue.

It is proposed to condemn all the private property lying within the limits of such proposed street, and the undersigned commissioners appointed by the city council of said city of Lakeside for such purpose, will meet at the city hall in said city on Saturday the 23rd day of May, 1892, at 9 o'clock, a. m., and thence proceed to view the premises and assess the damages which may be occasioned by the taking of private property for the opening of such proposed street; at which time and place persons interested may offer evidence or proof in regard to such damages.

Dated Lakeside, May 16, 1892.

SAD STORY OF PERFDY

A Recent Murder in Massachusetts Brought Out the Details of a Lover's Base Villainy.

He Obtained the Money and Jewels of a Confiding Girl and Then Sold Them.

Yet It Is Said That He Was Very Fond of the Girl Whom He Cruelly Murdered.

The perversion of gratitude which will prompt a man, when temporarily balked of his desires, to slay the person who has sacrificed everything for him, is incomprehensible to the members of the medical profession who have made the aberrations of the human mind a special study; the layman does not even attempt to account for it to his own satisfaction. The recent murder of Miss Maggie Williams in Cambridgeport, Mass., is a striking case in point. Miss Williams was a hard working girl of twenty who had been employed as a domestic by various families, all of whom were much pleased with her. William E. Cunningham was a hansom maker, about thirty years old.

MAGGIE WILLIAMS.

Between him and Miss Williams a strong attachment sprang up, and as subsequent developments have shown he utilized this affection as the means of deceiving the poor girl in every possible manner. He even went to the length of getting her gold watch, ring and a sum of money with which to pay his board, but his landlady never received a cent of the ill gotten funds. Cunningham disappeared from his boarding place a few days prior to the murder.

A visit of Miss Williams during his absence, and an interview with the woman who kept the house, served to convince the girl that he had grossly deceived her. She there learned for the first time that her betrothed had one wooden leg, and although the preparations had been made for her wedding, which was soon to take place, she then and there vowed that she would never become the bride of a cripple.

On the fatal day Cunningham went to the house of a mutual friend, who sent a boy to ask Miss Williams to come to see him a few moments. As she entered the room Cunningham advanced her and asked her if she would shake hands. Miss Williams' reply was, "Never while this earth exists, I have wronged me enough."

The words had scarcely left the girl's lips when her dastardly lover drew a revolver and fired, killing her almost instantly.

Then he shot himself, and there is a whole sermon in this tragedy, if the proper application be made. While Cunningham's act deprived the girl of her life the following letter, written only a few weeks prior to the murder, would seem to indicate that in so far as the man was capable of loving, he was very fond of his victim:

My DEAR MAGGIE—I received your note today at noon, and I was very sorry to see that you were sick.

I shall do my best to try and get over to see you Tuesday afternoon if my limb will permit me to do so.

If I get a job this week so that I can start in next Thursday, and you are willing, I shall want you to be married quietly and then we can get our things afterward, if you are willing, and I hope you will be my darling. I want you with me so that I can feel that I am working and trying to do something for your love, which to me is more precious than all else in this world.

I received a good, long letter from Lizzie Saturday and wrote her in return yesterday. She sends her love and says that you do not send her any news.

From your true and loving boy, WILLIAM E. CUNNINGHAM, 72 Essex street.

He Was "Outen It."

The fiery, untamed cowboy who is not daunted by the perils of life in the wildest regions of the west, who laughs at dangers that would chill the marrow of the inhabitants of the thickly settled districts, and to whom excitement and adventure are the salt and pepper of life, which make existence endurable, is frequently no match for the "bully boys" of Cherry street, New York.

A long illustration of the truth of this statement was presented recently in the Essex Market police court. The man in question was of slight build, but he looked wiry, and was not ordinarily considered an easy subject to handle if the opportunity were given him to get "ugly."

He was a broad brimmed hat, a luxuriant mustache, and an expression of complete bewilderment. He was accompanied by a policeman, a young woman who gave her name as Miss Mamie Parker and three typical Cherry Hills—John Coleman, Thomas O'Rourke and Jeremiah Corcoran. From time to time the little man from the prairies regarded the Cherry Hill delegates with a look of surprise mingled with admiration. When the case was called he said:

"Judge, your honor, I'm Pat Healey. I got done last night, judge, and done right. I went into a saloon on Cherry street. What you drinkin' asked the cooler.

"Pizen," said I. "We've got it," said he, and he set out the bottle. I filled my glass and drank it. It was pizen, sure. I felt it biting when it reached my tongue. It was warming on my palate, cooking in my windpipe and was a regular roaster on my stomach.

"The next thing I struck was those three fellows. The first thing they did was to strike me. They hit my watch and knocked my money. They were a regular cyclone. I just laid over and yelled. This girl yelled, too, and the policeman came up. But I had been done. I feel cheap, judge, too. I've chased grizzlies, fit panther, bucked agin Leadville, fought Injuns and roamed the Black hills; but when it comes to knocking eastern pizen and doing the roaming act in Cherry street I'm a cowboy and outen it."

"Yes," testified Miss Mamie Parker. "he is outen it."

"What have you prisoners to say?" asked Justice Taintor.

"Nuttin'."

"One thousand dollars each to answer," said the justice.

"Pizen sure, and I'm outen it," said Healey.

THE NEW BRIGADIER GENERAL.

Record of Colonel Frank Wheaton, Recently Promoted by the President.

One of the most spirited contests for promotion the army has had for years was recently brought to a close by the appointment by President Harrison of Colonel Frank Wheaton, of the Second infantry, as brigadier general, to succeed General Kautz, who retired some months ago.

Colonel Wheaton had as competitors for the place Colonel Eugene A. Carr, Sixth cavalry; Colonel W. P. Carlin, Fourth infantry; Colonel E. S. Otis, Twentieth infantry, and Colonel J. L. Coppin, Twenty-third infantry. Each of these gentlemen had influential backing, and the contest, though active warfare, was exceedingly friendly throughout.

Colonel Carr's claims were advocated by Secretary Elkins, while ex-Secretary Proctor desired the selection of Colonel Otis. Colonel Carlin was the choice of General Schofield, and it was generally believed that Secretary Blaine would have been gratified by the appointment of his son-in-law, Colonel Coppinger. However, Colonel Wheaton ranked the other applicants, his selection by the president has produced no asperities. The career of the man, too, amply warranted the promotion.

General Wheaton was born in Rhode Island May 8, 1833. After a preliminary education he took a special course in civil engineering at Brown university, and before he was eighteen years old was appointed an assistant on the United States and Mexico boundary survey. He did much other government work of the same nature, and became a first lieutenant of cavalry in 1855.

He was on duty during the Kansas border troubles of 1856, and did much toward quelling the disturbances incident thereto. He also participated in the Cheyenne expedition of 1857 and the Utah expedition of 1858. Upon the breaking out of hostilities between the north and south Lieutenant Wheaton was on duty at the New York state headquarters.

He received the appointment of lieutenant colonel, Second Rhode Island volunteers, and joined his regiment in the field during July, 1861. For his gallant conduct at the battle of Bull Run, where he commanded the regiment, he was made colonel, and also took part in nearly all the battles along the Potomac and James rivers up to the time of Lee's surrender.

From 1862 to 1865 he was a brigade and division commander, and in 1865 and 1866 he had charge of the troops in the territories of Nebraska, Dakota and Montana. His promotion in the regular army from the time of his appointment as first lieutenant, in 1855, was comparatively rapid. In 1861 he became a captain in the Fourth cavalry, in 1863 lieutenant colonel of the Thirty-ninth infantry and colonel of the Second infantry in 1869.

His brevet of major general of volunteers he had received in 1864, for his gallant services at Opequan, Fisher's Hill and Middleton, Va. General W. H. Watson will be retired from active service May 8, 1892.

The other brigadier generals of the regular army are David S. Stanley, appointed March, 1884; Thomas H. Ruger, appointed September, 1886; Wesley Merritt, appointed April, 1887; John R. Brooke, appointed April, 1888; Alexander McD. McCook, appointed December, 1890.

Of these General Stanley is the senior, but it is impossible for him to go any higher, as the longevity act will operate to retire him June 1, 1892, when he will have attained the age of sixty-four years.

General Stanley has been denominated "an ideal western soldier and cavalryman," and the designation has not been misapplied. Born in Cedar Valley, O., June 1, 1828, he was graduated from West Point in 1852. He became a second lieutenant of the Second Dragoons, and in 1853 assisted in a survey of a transcontinental railroad route along the thirty-fifth parallel of latitude. In 1855 he became first lieutenant, and in 1861 captain. His life during this time had been passed on the frontier in the saddle, and he there earned the reputation for gallantry and military sagacity which he has since so well sustained. Captain Stanley was appointed brigadier general of volunteers in September, 1861. He was frequently complimented in orders during the civil war. In November, 1862, he was sent a step higher up by being made major general of volunteers.

General Stanley participated in nearly all the battles during the campaign against Atlanta, and behaved with conspicuous gallantry. When General Thomas was ordered to Nashville to prepare the place for defense, Stanley was put in charge of the Army of the Cumberland. He was severely wounded in the battle of Franklin. After the close of the war, Stanley's command accompanied Sheridan's army to the Rio Grande at the time of the Maximilian-Mexican trouble. In 1890, when he was mustered out of the volunteer service, Stanley, who had only gained the rank of major in the regular army, was made a colonel. He had already received several brevets, including one as major general, for gallantry. The general has been in the west almost continuously since 1866. In 1884, when he was appointed brigadier general, he was assigned to the command of the Department of Texas, where he has remained ever since.

Has Luminous Leaves.

An observer of the curious in nature says that some twelve miles north of Tuscarora, N. Y., there grows, or at least recently grew, a tree or shrub about seven feet in height, the leaves of which were luminous. In general appearance it resembled the barberry, the leaves favoring somewhat the aromatic bay tree of California. At certain seasons of the year the light is so bright that on the darkest night it can be plainly seen at a distance of one mile, while the light at the tree is sufficient to admit the reading of the finest print. The luminous substance is a gummy matter on the outside of the leaves, which imparts the same property to whatever it is rubbed on.

Some of the Novel Things that Society Leaders Will and Will Not Wear This Season.

No Man Appears in His Best in a Flannel Shirt, and Therefore it Will Disappear.

Colored Shirts, Belts of Pigskin, and Knickerbockers Will be Very Stylish During This Season.

If you want to cut a dash and be in the very height of fashion in your outing flannel you will not wear a flannel shirt this summer. It does not matter whether the pattern of the goods is quiet or loud. Fashion has decreed that the flannel shirt shall not be worn.

Of course flannel will and may properly be worn when one takes any violent exercise, such as playing ball, tennis, or cricket. But if you are fond of playing croquet, lolling upon the hotel piazza, or strolling about, you will not wear a flannel shirt. There are several reasons for this, two of which only need be mentioned. No man appears at his best in a flannel shirt. It is very comfortable when you are exerting your muscles, but the second may not apply to so well. Anyhow, they won't be worn.

Another article of summer dress which has been decreed against is the glorious sash. Last year, and particularly the year before, the wearing of sashes was carried to absurdity. The people who wore them caused them to lose their original character of usefulness, and made them simply cumbersome ornaments—or what the French would suppose to be ornaments. This brought them into disfavor, and even last year there were few who made pretensions to being well dressed who wore the great wide sash with its big bow and long flowing ends.

And the yachting cap—that which was such a rage last summer—will no longer be seen upon the heads of our leaders. No, not even at Long Branch or Narragansett Pier, although it may be seen at Connetquot or Rockaway.

With these exiled garments will be sent the cheap, shiny, russet-colored "cuts" or "high cuts." It makes no difference; the russet shoes have reached their end and have received their congeal. And the silk tie will receive no more favor.

Now, that's what a well-dressed man won't wear this summer.

Here are some of the things he will wear: The flannel shirt will be replaced by zepphrys, Madras, Oxford and Cheviot and similar cloths, these names being really merely designations of the different weights of the meshes. The shirts will be worn in colors, and in most cases will have collars and cuffs made on the shirts. There will be a variety of striped shirts worn, but the real select will wear shirts in solid colors, and of these pink and blue will prevail.

A very handsome shirt is made of French batiste. It costs $5 and opens in front. You may lounge around in this shirt all the morning and even until 6 o'clock in the evening—provided you are otherwise properly dressed.

And even on Sunday morning, with the ordinary sack suit, minus the vest, it will be good form. Some of the shirts have white collars and cuffs attached. The collars and cuffs, of course, are starched stiff, although the rest of the shirt takes very little starch in its laundering.

Now, if you want to be really well dressed go and get your outing suit made to order. It must fit snugly and yet leave you plenty of freedom. An outing suit consists of a sack coat and trousers. Have your trousers made tight around the hips so that they will require no belt, and on a white ground, and a full suit of white or soft cream color is very tasty and nice. Your suit may have one, two, or three colored stripes on it—blue and black, brown and black, brown, blue and black, and various other combinations may be used.

But don't wear a coat of one color or stripe and trousers of another color or stripe. Your suit will cost you $30 to $65 for the coat and $13.50 for the trousers.

Around your waist place a neat belt of leather or pigskin, with leather-covered buckles. Or, if you can't shake loose from the sash without qualms of conscience for deserting an old friend, you may wear a silk square, rolled and folded about the waste and tied in the back with a loose knot. But don't wear a striped belt, nor a fancy buckle.

If you like knickerbockers, why wear them, by all means—that is if your calves will stand it. They must be made tight, so as to fit snugly from the waist to the knee.

He Had Bad Experience.

Democratic Conventions.

The national convention will meet in Chicago, June 21. At this time it will be interesting to recall its predecessors and the nominees from 1860 down:

1860—Met April 23, at Charleston. Balloting began May 1. A portion of the delegates withdrew and on May 3 the convention adjourned to meet at Baltimore, June 18. June 23 a large number of delegates withdrew and nominated Breckinridge and Lane. The regular convention nominated Douglas and Fitzpatrick. Defeated.

1864—Sept. 1, at Chicago. McClellan and Pendleton. Defeated.

1868—July 9, at New York. Seymour and Blair. Defeated.

1872—May 4, at Cincinnati. Greeley and Brown. Defeated.

1876—June 28, at St. Louis. Tilden and Hendricks. Defeated.

1880—June 24, at Cincinnati. Hancock and English. Defeated.

1884—July 11, at Chicago. Cleveland and Hendricks. Elected.

1888—June 6, at St. Louis. Cleveland and Thurman. Defeated.

1892—June 21, at Chicago—the nominees you can bet on to suit yourself, only remembering that if you live anywhere North, West or Southwest of Chicago, The Burlington lines can take you there best and quickest. For rates, tickets, etc., call on any Burlington ticket agent, or address W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

Democratic Conventions.

The national convention will meet in Chicago, June 21. At this time it will be interesting to recall its predecessors and the nominees from 1860 down:

1860—Met April 23, at Charleston. Balloting began May 1. A portion of the delegates withdrew and on May 3 the convention adjourned to meet at Baltimore, June 18. June 23 a large number of delegates withdrew and nominated Breckinridge and Lane. The regular convention nominated Douglas and Fitzpatrick. Defeated.

1864—Sept. 1, at Chicago. McClellan and Pendleton. Defeated.

1868—July 9, at New York. Seymour and Blair. Defeated.

1872—May 4, at Cincinnati. Greeley and Brown. Defeated.

1876—June 28, at St. Louis. Tilden and Hendricks. Defeated.

1880—June 24, at Cincinnati. Hancock and English. Defeated.

1884—July 11, at Chicago. Cleveland and Hendricks. Elected.

1888—June 6, at St. Louis. Cleveland and Thurman. Defeated.

1892—June 21, at Chicago—the nominees you can bet on to suit yourself, only remembering that if you live anywhere North, West or Southwest of Chicago, The Burlington lines can take you there best and quickest. For rates, tickets, etc., call on any Burlington ticket agent, or address W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

IS OUR

OPENING WEEK,

LASTING FROM

Monday, May 16,
TO
Saturday, May 21,

With a special list of bona fide, gilt-edge bargains that have never been duplicated in Duluth, not even by ourselves. Every department has a Special Bargain or EVERY day of this week, covering everything in the line of wearing apparel for all classes and conditions of Men and Children.

A Handsome Souvenir

For every gentleman and lady visitor.

A Box of Candy

for every child visitor accompanied by its parents. We intend to make this a week of festivity accompanied by such excellent practical bargains, that this spring opening will be remembered by all for years to come. Take one day in the week, if you cannot come every day, it will pay you a hundred fold for your time.

THIS EVENING:

SELECT CONCERT
BY THE CITY BAND.

THE CARLTON FIND.

Some Samples of the Ore Exhibited Here Today.
D. V. Scott, of Carlton, was in the city today and brought with him several samples of iron ore which were found near the village. The Herald some time ago reported the finding of ore near Carlton. The samples which Mr. Scott has were found about six inches below the surface and are of good appearance. He says that assays made have shown as high as 65 per cent of iron and considerably below the Bessemer limit in phosphorus. The ore runs in a vein and to a distance of a half mile there are outcroppings. Mr. Scott says that an attempt will be made to develop the property.

Barney is Sent Up.
Five plain drunks faced Judge Powell this morning and they all pleaded guilty. They were Jesse Johnson, C. Gillen, Wm. Eversal, M. J. Brett and John Devaney. Jesse and William cashed up $10 each and were set at liberty, and the others will work ten days on the streets. At 11 o'clock the case of the city against Barney Kelly for petit larceny in stealing a pair of pants and four shirts from a West Superior street hand-me-down artist came up and the evidence was pretty conclusive, so Barney will stay sixty days with Sheriff Sherry. A number of small criminal cases are set for this afternoon and tomorrow.

Dredging the Channels.
Williams, Daugherty & Upham, of Duluth, have a dredging outfit at work at the ore docks at Two Harbors. A channel on either side of the new dock will be dredged, and any shoals which may have formed between docks one and two removed. They are working sixteen hours per day, in two shifts. The new dock will be in use within two weeks.

Round Table Lecture.
Dr. H. W. Thomas, of the People's church in Chicago, who is well known in Duluth as an eloquent speaker, is to address the Round Table this evening at Hardy hall. The subject is "A Study of Life," and the lecture has been well received in other places. The Round Table has generously invited the other clubs of the city to enjoy the lecture with them and has issued other invitations.

MERRITT'S WITHDRAW

Mountain Iron, Mesaba Mountain, Law and Other stocks are taken off the Exchange Board.

Lon Merritt Withdraws Them at a Meeting of the Board of Directors This Morning.

Some Trading Was Done Nevertheless and Now He Threatens to Sue the Exchange.

There was a good hubbub of excitement on the stock exchange this morning when it was announced that all the Merritt stocks, so called, were withdrawn from the boards. This includes the Mountain Iron, Mesaba Mountain, Biwabik, Great Northern, Shaw and others. The board of directors met this morning and Lon Merritt, who is a director, announced that it was desired to withdraw these stocks. This created considerable surprise and a pretty hot discussion ensued. W. E. Richardson, Walter Van Brunt and W. B. Wells opposed the withdrawal with all the force they could bring but the other directors were willing that it should be done. Mr. Merritt was armed with a long opinion from Attorney W. B. Phelps as to whether it was possible to withdraw the stocks and prevent trading in them on the board. Mr. Phelps held that it was. The board is an agent of the company and there is no partnership existing as the company shares in no profits. It pays the board for listing just as it would any agent and therefore is entitled to withdraw at any time it chooses. After some discussion it was voted to allow a withdrawal of the stock.

In spite of the announcement there were some of the stocks offered on the board. Lon Merritt is quite angry that this was allowed. A Herald reporter saw Mr. Van Brunt, one of the directors, and he said there was none of the Merritt stocks announced on the board. "There may have been some trading," said he, "but how can that be prevented? The exchange can't stop trading in any stocks beyond keeping them off the board."

Lon Merritt was also seen and said: "When we listed our stocks on the exchange we did so because we believed it would assist in the development of the range, but we now find that it is retarding it. The exchange as it is running is only an organized effort on the part of a few to bear the stocks and make the stockholders put up for it. I know that the majority of the stockholders of the exchange today are in favor of closing it, but matters are in such condition that they can't do it."

Mr. Merritt says that the stocks were announced on the boards this morning after the withdrawal and he will get out an injunction this afternoon and also thinking of bringing a suit for damages against the exchange on this account. He also said that he understood that A. E. Humphreys was considering a withdrawal of his company's stocks. If this should occur it would probably close the exchange.

The total number of shares sold on the exchange today was 240. The last cash sales were:

A VERY DULL MARKET.

Wheat Closed Steady But Was Very Dull.

The wheat market here today was dull, slow and declining during the early hours. Reports of fine weather throughout the Northwest caused a weaker opening. The visible showed a slightly larger decrease than was expected. The decrease in Duluth wheat stocks broke the record, and the receipts were small. There was little outside demand and cash wheat also ruled dull. The market strengthened materially after noon owing to good export business and the close was very steady but irregular at 1/4 to 1/8 c below Saturday's last figures. The amount of contract wheat here now is only 3,500,000 bushels. The close on May wheat here was unchanged from Saturday, although there was a break of 1/16 c at Chicago. Following were the closing figures:

No. 1 hard cash 84, May 84 1/4, June 84, July 84 1/4, No. 1 northern cash 81 1/4, May 81 1/4, June 81 1/4, July 82 1/4. No. 2 northern cash 75, No. 3 71. Rejected 62. On track—No. 1 hard 84, No. 1 northern 82 1/4.

Car inspection for today—No. 1 hard wheat, 2; No. 1 northern, 21; No. 2 northern, 2; no grade, 2; total, 25. Receipts—Wheat, 9286 bus. Shipments—Wheat 744,619 bus. Cars on track: Northern Pacific, 13; Great Northern, 40; Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha, 2; St. Paul & Duluth, 4; total, 57. Corresponding date last year, 60.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"The use of 'Castoria' is so universal and its merits so well known that it seems a work of supererogation to endorse it. Few are the intelligent families who do not keep Castoria within easy reach." CHARLES MARTIN, D. D., New York City. Late Pastor Bloomingdale Reformed Church.

"For several years I have recommended your 'Castoria,' and shall always continue to do so as it has invariably produced beneficial results." EDWIN F. PARKER, M. D., New York City. "The Winthrop," 120th Street and 7th Ave., New York City.

IT IS A COMMON CAUSE

The County is Asked to Combine With the City and Secure a Right-of-Way Into Duluth.

All Interests on the Minnesota Side of the Bay Are Asked to Join in a Conference.

The Council Requests the Government to Order the Dredging of the Rice's Point Channel at Once.

The program which was outlined yesterday morning for the council meeting—to adjourn to Wednesday—was carried out, but not until after the table had been cleared of all business. Aldermen N. F. Hugo, Helm and Wilson were absent.

Alderman Long introduced a resolution, which is the outgrowth of the railroad difficulties which have presented themselves, and provides for a plan for doing away with them. It expresses the sense of the council that it is of the greatest moment to the city and county that roads desiring to enter the city of Duluth shall not have to face the constantly-recurring difficulty of getting right-of-way for their tracks; that it is as much to the interest of the county as to the city to guard and foster the interests on the Minnesota side of the bay; and that the practical way to solve the difficulty is for all the municipal and county interests on the Minnesota side to combine in the endeavor to acquire by condemnation or otherwise property for a roadway or street, 100 to 150 feet in width or more and extending in an easterly and westerly direction far enough to meet the reasonable requirements of any railroad seeking an entrance to Duluth.

The president of the council is authorized to appoint a special committee, or the present railroad committee, to represent the city in a joint conference of all the interests involved and the municipal governments of Lakeside, West Duluth, New Duluth and Ironton are asked to appoint committees to meet for conference. The county commissioners are also asked to appoint a similar committee to the end that this matter so fraught with importance to Duluth, St. Louis county and Minnesota, may be thoroughly and exhaustively discussed and steps promptly taken that shall inaugurate and secure beyond any future peradventure the permanent supremacy of the Minnesota side of the bay. The resolution was passed.

Another important resolution was one introduced by Alderman Weiss setting forth the condition of the channel around Rice's Point which is so narrow that boats are in constant danger of running aground, and that the work of dredging should be commenced at once so as to have the channel in good condition before the fall movement of grain commences. If after the river and harbor bill becomes a law the government goes through the regular mode of advertising the work it will be well on into the fall before anything is done. The council therefore asks the government to order the work commenced as soon as the appropriation is secured.

Mayor d'Auremont asked that either Capt. Miller be asked to return from Washington or that he be empowered to appoint a policeman to act as harbor master. It being considered unwise to recall Capt. Miller at this "stage of the game," as President Hugo put it, the appointment of a policeman was authorized. The mayor submitted the appointment of R. R. Macfarlane to succeed Charles W. Wilson as first commissioner. The appointments of Morris Fitzgerald, Donald McLennan and Michael Klinger as police officers were also sent in.

Some of the property owners on West Superior street, between Thirteenth and Thirty-fourth avenues, filed a protest against paving the street this year. Ald. Kennedy didn't say a word but a little later a resolution was passed referring the question to the board of public works to prepare plans and specifications.

General Manager Fisher of the Duluth & Winnipeg railway submitted a communication in reply to the council's request for a proposition. He said that the question cannot be answered until the road had succeeded in arranging for the right of way at a fair price, as until this is done the location of the line is subject to change. It is the intention of the company to come into Duluth over its own tracks, he said, or tracks owned jointly by it and the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway.

C. F. Houghton, who is erecting a new building next the Palladio, was granted permission to deviate somewhat from the building ordinance. The Duluth Transfer Railway company had been proceeding for crossing certain streets, avenues and alleys between Twenty-first and Twenty-seventh avenues west was passed. The ordinance fixing penalties for violations of library rules was adopted. The Street Car company was ordered to extend its line on Piedmont avenue west from Superior to Thirteenth streets. The expenditure of $500 on Howard's lumber road was ordered.

George F. Ash was elected a member of the board of the health, receiving 8 votes to 7 for J. A. Boyce. The appointment of D. S. Forgy, William Rank and Ray B. Meeker as deputy assessors was reported by Assessor Shaw.

Petitions were received asking for the paving of Third avenue west from Michigan to Second streets; for grading Eighth avenue west from Third to Ninth streets.

The council adjourned to Wednesday evening, when the Duluth & Northeastern Railway and Terminal company ordinance will be taken up.

SCRAFIELD'S SONS.

They Write Asking Particulars of Their Father's Death.

The following letter tells a little story and contains considerable pathos beside, the homely expression of the younger boy conveying a world of affection for a father whom he has not seen for twelve years:

NEPTUNE, Wis., May 13, 1892.

Dear sir—I just got a telegraphic dispatch that my father, A. J. Scrafield, was dying, having shot himself and wife. As I have not the means to come to him I write to you for particulars of his death. What was his occupation and did he have any children?

Yours very respectfully,

CLAUDE SCRAFIELD.

Then follows the brief postscript of the younger son, who is 14 years old. The first part was written by the older boy, 16 years old. Here is the little fellow's letter:

"Would liked to have seen him. I am sorry that he shot himself."

IN MOUNTAIN FIGHTS

The Grand Tactics and Gallant Deeds of Gen. Scott at Cerro Gordo Against Santa Anna.

How the General Turned the Difficult Pass and Opened the Road to the City of Mexico.

The Master Hand at Flanking, Who Was Stonewall Jackson's Chief and Must Have Been His Exemplar.

TONKRELL Jackson's way of getting the best of a thing was so new a thing to the generation that looked on him as a bold commander that the bold Confederates got credit for originality as well as daring. His fame is fixed and needs no bolstering by false claims, hence it is no disparagement to say that the tactics which made him famous were such as he ought to have learned in his young manhood, and he had proved a poor student of his art if he did not. There were before him in his Mexican campaigns and in the current text books and war histories of his military professorship days, numerous instances of successful flank movements. Scott, who was his chief and must have been his exemplar, was a master hand at flanking, and won his first laurels with that style of tactics at Land's Lane in the 1812 war. I remember that, as a boy, in 1861-2, I heard my older comrades discuss these matters and assert that the best way to beat enemies who stood across your path to dispute it with great guns was to "come Scott over them," that is, turn their position by a flank attack. This may have been a reminiscence of schoolboy battles with snowballs, but it was sound policy all the same and it boots little who originated the maneuver.

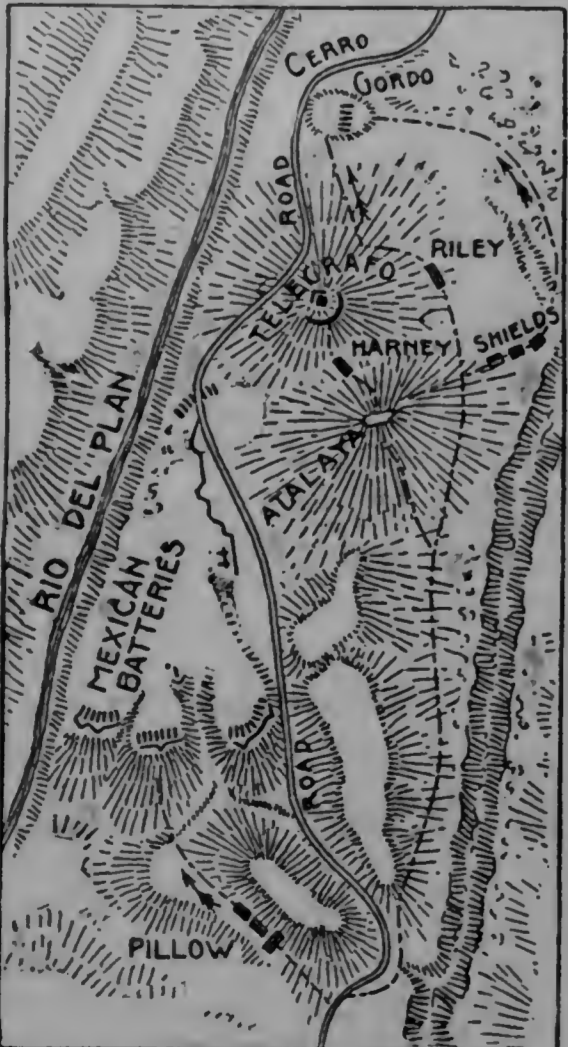

Forrest, the illiterate slave trader, who became the greatest cavalry general on this continent, used tactics that won Fredrick the Great his grandest victories without ever having heard of the famous Prussian and his battles.

Scott may have brought little out of his Mexican campaigning to light the way for his Manassas and Chancellorsville exploits, but not so his commander, Robert E. Lee. Lee doubtless put Jackson up to every great stroke he made as a corps leader in the Army of Northern Virginia. He had been with Scott in Mexico, and was a prominent factor in the exploit at Cerro Gordo, where Santa Anna, with choice of position, superiority of numbers and much more in his favor, was not only outflanked by Scott, as neatly as Hooker was by Stonewall at Chancellorsville, but his army was completely routed and virtually destroyed. Scott made a clean sweep.

Cerro Gordo was Scott's first bout with Santa Anna. It was after the successful siege of Vera Cruz, when Scott had set his face toward the Mexican capital, the ancient seat of the Montezumas. Gen. Zachary Taylor, who had been thumping the wily dictator on the Rio Grande line, sent his best troops to re-enforce Scott, and Santa Anna hastened to the scene to sample the new American leader. The route from Vera Cruz to the City of Mexico is along the great national highway running through Jalapa and Puebla. At a point twenty miles east of Jalapa the Mexicans had taken position to dispute Scott's advance, and to that place Santa Anna directed all his troops from the Rio Grande, and the re-enforcements gathered from the country at large. Cerro Gordo was a collection of hills belonging to a ranch on the slopes between the mountains and the Rio del Plan. East of Cerro Gordo the national road winds among bare elevations sloping toward the American approaches, and commanding the roadway for a long distance.

The Mexican defenses formed a semi-circle, both ends resting on the river. On the right three separate heights, 100 feet above the plain, were fortified and secured by abatis and manned with an aggregate of 1,500 troops and 25 cannons. Parallel with the road behind these heights was an extensive breastwork, with 450 men and 2 cannons, and across the road at an arrow pass between mountain and river were 7 cannons and 400 men. Farther to the west and the Mexican left and looking down upon the pass was a conical hill 300 feet high, known as Cerro Telegrafo. This hill was fortified near its summit with works of stone and logs and was protected by fallen trees. It was the key of the position. On the extreme left a mound above Cerro Gordo ranch was occupied by a force with 7 cannons. All told the Mexicans had 12,000 men on the field the day of the fight, April 18, 1847.

Between the fortified elevations there were deep gorges and low plains, all swept

ROUTES OF THE FIGHTING PARTIES. By artillery fire, and along the north side were still deeper gorges and abrupt craggy slopes, where Santa Anna declared even mountain goats could not climb. The place seemed impregnable against a host. Scott confronted it on the 14th of April with but 8,500 men.

As soon as Scott learned the particulars of Santa Anna's line he sent out a reconnoitering party under Capt. Robert E. Lee, and upon information gathered by Lee fixed his plan of battle. After passing along the mountain north of the Mexican line, the scouts penetrated to the crest of Atalaya ridge. From that height all the ground between the various Mexican batteries and encampments could be seen. A ravine was discovered around the Telegrafo hill on the north and west and leading up to the national road near Cerro Gordo ranch. A still more extensive ravine was found running parallel with the Mexican line north of the Atalaya and its companion ridges, and along this road, passable for artillery was constructed by Scott's engineers, under Capt. Beauregard and McClellan. Along the principal ravine Gen. Twigg's division of regular troops advanced on the 17th, guided by Capt. Lee.

The column met with no opposition and penetrated to the west of Atalaya within striking distance of Telegrafo. Atalaya ridge was still unoccupied by either army. It was to the whole field what Little Round Top was to Gettysburg, and as at Gettysburg both sides took a sudden notion to seize it. Twigg sent Company G of the Seventh Infantry to its summit for observation, and simultaneously a force of Mexican lancers started from the Telegrafo bent on the same purpose. A regiment of rifles under Maj. E. V. Sumner, and a battalion of artillery went up to the support of Company G, and after a lively fight the lancers were driven down the Atalaya slopes and half way up the Telegrafo. The Americans lost 97 killed and wounded. Among the latter were Maj. Sumner and Lieut. D. H. Maury, afterward famous as a deep sea explorer. To crown this success a battery of 24-pounders was placed upon the crest of Atalaya by Capt. Lee, the whole of the Seventh Infantry was ordered up, and Col. W. S. Harney assumed command. Once established on that height it was plain that the Telegrafo and the national road west of it could be carried by assault.

Santa Anna meantime failed to take warning from the American demonstration on his left and clung to the idea that Scott would assail his batteries on the right near the river. This assault he believed would miscarry and Scott's army would lie idle in camp and speedily succumb to the fever that prevailed in the low grounds along the Rio del Plan. But the hero of Land's Lane had no notion of wasting his gallant army under the formidable Mexican guns or of awaiting the deadly fever. On the night of the 17th his troops were all in hand and he ordered Twigg to advance his division at daylight on the 18th to some point on the road west of Telegrafo and cut off Santa Anna's retreat. Twigg's division was to follow Twigg's, and Gen. Shields' volunteer brigade, the Third and Fourth Illinois and Second New York, to re-enforce the regulars in advance. Gen. Pillow's volunteer brigade, comprising two Tennessee regiments under Col. Haskell and Campbell and two from Pennsylvania under Col. Wynkoop and Roberts, was formed in column to attack the heavy Mexican batteries near the river and divert the enemy's attention.

Promptly at daylight Twigg's leading brigade, under Col. Bennett Riley, guided by Capt. Lee, moved along the ravine be-between Telegrafo and Cerro Gordo, Shields' brigade following. The guns on the Telegrafo opened in all directions, and Riley soon encountered a force of infantry moving down the slopes to head him off. In a few moments his march turned into a battle. At the same time a force of Mexicans was seen moving farther to their left, toward Cerro Gordo. Capt. Lee again took up the roll of guide, and piloted Shields northward across the grand ravine, then west and south to the road beyond Cerro Gordo and the extreme Mexican left. While Riley and Shields were forging their way squarely to the Mexican rear, Atalaya and Telegrafo were to settle the issue, while for all was the work of Col. Harney's column upon the Atalaya comprised a battalion of the First artillery and the Third and Seventh regiments. Gen. Scott had decided to storm Telegrafo, and the task fell to Harney, who was securely lodged upon Atalaya. The general in chief witnessed the assault, one of the gallant episodes of the war. At a signal Harney's men sprang from their cover, dashed down into the ravine between the mountains, then up the steep and rocky sides of the Telegrafo to within sixty or seventy paces of the summit.

At that point the column reformed, and with another dash, Harney at the head, it struggled forward to the palisades and breastworks. The battle was short and sharp—swords, bayonets and clubbed rifles hacking and battering a way through every obstacle. Quick as a flash flags were exchanged on the lofty tower and the Mexican guns were turned against the batteries on the road below. Meanwhile Riley had engaged the force west of Telegrafo and driven it back. Shields had penetrated to the road at Cerro Gordo, united with Riley and with him captured the battery there. Shields was severely wounded.

On Pillow's front the Mexicans held their fire until his brigade was close up to the guns. Then a volley of grape from 25 guns swept the dense chaparral and the assault was abandoned. Pillow was wounded and lost 100 in his brigade. When the Mexicans on his front saw the American colors floating on the Telegrafo they felt that the game was up and they threw down their arms.

It was all over and was a combination flank movement without one mishap. Scott wrote home that he was embarrassed with the results of his victory. He secured about 4,000 prisoners and was obliged to parole them for want of guards. Of cannon he took 45 and of muskets 3,500. The Mexican killed and wounded numbered about 1,000; the American, 431. The Mexicans were badly harassed in their retreat and lost more in that way than in defending their forts. Santa Anna escaped alone, and his followers fled across the country without making a stand. The Pass of La Hoya and the town and castle of Perote, beyond Cerro Gordo, also fell as a result of Scott's brilliant stroke in flanking the mountain pass. With a division of fresh men at hand he could have marched in triumph to the City of Mexico. GEORGE L. KILMER.

SOUTH SHORE STEAM LINE.

Regular Trips of the Steamer Barker for the Summer.

On and after Friday, May 6th, the steamer Barker will make regular trips between Duluth and Ashland, stopping at all towns along the south shore and any point passengers may wish to reach, as follows: Leave Duluth at 9 a. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, stopping at Tower slip, West Superior, Connor's Point and Old Superior on the way out. Leave Ashland on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Passengers and freight will be carried to all the above points.

Democratic Conventions.

The national convention will meet in Chicago, June 21. At this time it will be interesting to recall its predecessors and the nominees from 1860 to 1892.

1860—Met April 23, at Charleston. Balloting began May 1. A portion of the delegates withdrew and on May 3 the convention adjourned to meet at Baltimore, June 18. June 23 a large number of delegates withdrew and nominated Breckenridge and Lane. The regular convention nominated Douglas and Fitzpatrick. Defeated.

1864—Sept. 1, at Chicago. McClellan and Pendleton. Defeated.

1868—July 9, at New York. Seymour and Blair. Defeated.

1872—May 4, at Cincinnati. Greeley and Brown. Defeated.

1876—June 28, at St. Louis. Tilden and Hendricks. Defeated.

1880—June 24, at Cincinnati. Hancock and English. Defeated.

1884—July 11, at Chicago. Cleveland and Hendricks. Elected.

1888—June 6, at St. Louis. Cleveland and Thurman. Defeated.

1892—June 21, at Chicago—the nominees you can bet on to suit yourself, only remembering that if you live anywhere North, West, or Southwest of Chicago, The Burlington lines can take you there best and quickest. For rates, tickets, etc., call on any Burlington ticket agent, or address W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN.
May 17.—The low pressure of the barometer at present over the northwest, and southwest has caused considerable rain fall, the heaviest at Pierre, Moorhead, Huron and Yankton, also at Dodge City and Wichita, Kan. The storm center was central over Wichita, moving toward the lower lakes.

DULUTH, May 17.—Local forecast for Duluth
until 5 p. m. May 18: Fair, followed by showers, slightly cooler.

Observer.

THE CHINIQUEY LECTURES.

A correspondent, whose communication is published in another column, protests against the Lyceum being leased
for a series of lectures by Father Chini-quey, the former priest who has spent the greater portion of his time in recent years in denouncing the Catholic church.
He also seems to fear that by these lectures a bomb of discord will be exploded
among a hitherto peaceful people, and asks that the mayor "order out of town
anyone who would likely be the means of disturbing public peace."

The Herald cannot agree with its correspondent on this question. In the first place he undoubtedly overstates the effect of Father Chiniquey's lectures upon those who hear them. There is not much reason to believe that they will foment any discord among the people of Duluth, because the people as a rule are too intelligent to be aroused to violations of the peace by anything that may be said regarding their church and its doctrines and customs.

In the second place, this is a free country, and every man is entitled to enjoy the right of perfect freedom of speech. Father Chiniquey is entitled to this right and will undoubtedly be according it. The idea that Mayor d'Au-trement should order him to leave town is utterly absurd. Father Chiniquey's lectures may malign the Catholic church, but any foolish son of the church who thinks that violence is the proper answer
to attacks from the platform is laboring under a serious error.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION.

Compulsory education has just been pronounced to be constitutional, by the supreme court of Ohio. The test case arose over the refusal of Father Quingley, of a parochial school in Toledo, to supply the board of education with the names, ages and addresses of his pupils
in accordance with the law. In presenting the case for the state the attorney general quoted numerous authorities on the advisability of enforced education, among them Prof. Thomas Boquillon and Archbishop Ireland. The decision was in favor of the state.

The Ohio law provides for compulsory education, requiring all children of school age to attend school for a specified time each year, but there is no stipulation that they shall attend any one school. The intent of the law plainly is that every child shall be given somewhere an opportunity to acquire an education, and the state does not care
whether the school be public or private.
The trouble in most states, however, is that the compulsory education laws are not enforced but remain dead letters. It might be a good idea for the other states
to follow Ohio's example in this respect.

THE TAX ON ART.

The national art congress which met
in Washington today has for its chief object
the removal of the tariff on art. It will be remembered that the McKinley bill,
when originally presented, wiped out all duties on works of art. The senate amended this by inserting a clause imposing a duty of 30 per cent ad valorem.
Finally the conference committee of the house and the senate cut down the duty to 15 per cent and it now remains at that figure.

One of the most persistent advocates of the removal of this tax upon art, which cannot be successfully defended as an essential feature of the protective policy, is Miss Kate Field. She has labored and lobbied almost incessantly in behalf of this object and is at the head of the National Art association, the chief purpose of which is the removal of this tax.
It is to be hoped that their efforts will be crowned with success, and that no obstacle will be placed in the way of bringing to this country the finest works of the old masters as well as the many excellent pictures by the foreign painters
of the present day.

The water supplied to Chicago is at present so impure that the health department has counseled that it all be boiled before using. One paper says

the customary blue color of the lake water has been turned by the flood from the river to a murky, black tint. Floating in the water are all kinds of refuse such as banana skins, decayed fruit and suspicious-looking debris of a stomachinverting appearance. Against the breakwater the waves toss sticks, old barrels and a miscellaneous assortment of refuse such as is generally used for decorative purposes in the river.

RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.

There are some people in Duluth who do not have a correct idea of the status of the river and harbor bill at this time.
The bill has passed through the house and is now before the senate. The commerce committee of the latter body has favorably reported on the bill, adding thereto several amendments carrying larger appropriations for various public improvements. The probability is that the bill will be adopted by the senate in its present form. Then it will return to the house, which will appoint a committee of conference with the senate on the amendments.

Both sides will make some concessions,
and then the revised measure will receive
the approval of both branches of congress and go to the president for his signature.

Ex-Speaker Keifer, of Ohio, wants to go back to congress and has announced himself as a candidate. Mr. Keifer was not a shining success in the speaker's chair, and if the next congress contained a Republican majority he would hardly stand any chance of being again elated
to that position.

The insurgents in Venezuela appear to be getting by far the best of the revolution now proceeding. City after city has fallen into their hands and Dictator Palacio must already see the handwriting on the wall. Today's dispatches announce that the city of Bolivar is now in possession of the insurgents and the government forces there joined the victors.

The cause of organized labor is not aided by such disgraceful scenes as that witnessed at Escanaba yesterday, when union men attacked non-union ore trimmers with firearms and several were wounded. Public sentiment will never approve such violent and illegal measures.

Two years ago complaints of drought were numerous from all parts of the West, Northwest and Southwest. Now
the rivers are bursting over their banks,
and the farmers are fearful that they will be ruined. It really seems impossible to have weather that will suit everyone.

Ignatius Donnelly is not very lucky in law. Not long ago he sued the Pioneer Press for $100,000 damages for libel and recovered $1. Now the firm that published "The Great Cryptogram" has been given judgment against "the sage"
for several thousand dollars.

The senate amendment to the river and harbor bill declares Minneapolis
"the head of navigation" on the Mississippi. Of course the statement is not correct but it tickles Minneapolis and no one else is aggrieved, unless it be St.
Paul.

Governor McKinley, a dispatch announces, stated today that President Harrison will be the nominee of the Minneapolis convention. This would seem to settle that McKinley has no idea of entering the contest.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat has just moved into its handsome new building,
said to be one of the finest in the West
for newspaper purposes. The Globe-Democrat is an excellent newspaper and deserves a first class home.

The hotel and saloon men of Chicago have just purchased 10,000 barrels of whisky and a thirsty Republican editor jealously insinuates that they are getting ready for the Democratic convention.

Garza's sympathizers are on trial in Texas for violating the neutrality laws,
but Garza himself is out of sight—probably hiding in the chapparal.

Some cranks at Pittsburgh are again
trying to suppress Sunday newspapers.
It is sad to think how much effort will thus be wasted.

Clapp is a Brunette.
The Granite Falls Tribune concedes that Ives and McGill are the strongest men yet mentioned as Republican gubernatorial candidates, but predicts that some dark horse who will command the united support of the country press will knock both out.

Stroncher Than Nelson.
The Blue Earth City Post says G. S.
Ives is a stronger man than any candidate who could be named for the purpose of appealing to nationality prejudices to catch votes.

AMUSEMENTS.

Corinne Tonight.

Tonight Corinne will be seen at the Temple in the great burlesque "Carmen
Up to Date," supported by the Kimball Opera Comique and Burlesque company.
Corinne has a record of 350 nights in Boston and 300 in New York. The New York Tribune says: "There are few stars on the American stage today better known than Corinne. Her reputation extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Corinne has become so popular that the simple announcement of her name is sufficient guarantee to fill almost any theater in America. One thing is sure—her success is her own.
Whatever success she has met with came from her personal magnetism and her own abilities."

The New York Sun has said of Corinne: "Corinne herself is Carmen, and makes a more interesting figure than in any other piece which she has presented in late years. She cannot look wicked with her pretty smiling face, how much sover she may narrow her bright little eyes and how vigorously sever she may wink the right one; she sings her songs
sweetly and her toes are very vivacious
in her Spanish dances."

A Fine Quartet.

The Chicago Lady quartet which will be heard at the Lyceum Thursday evening, is receiving flatteringly notices everywhere. In Chicago the ladies are society favorites and are cordially received everywhere. Each is a soloist and their program of selections is a fine one.
Mary Belmont Cope, the elocutionist who is with them, is one of the finest in the country. The Chicago Times says of her: "Miss Mary Cope is a talented elocutionist and a lady blessed with surpassing beauty and inimitable grace.
She captivated the audience from the start, and ere the conclusion of the entertainment she was treated to a perfect
ovation, being recalled again and again."

THE CHINIQUEY LECTURES.

A Correspondent Comments on the Ex-Priest's Course.
To the Editor of The Herald:

I perceive by last evening's paper that the "renegade" priest Chiniquey is to be permitted to appear at the Lyceum, in his general character of denunciator and falsifier of all that he once, in a most solemn and public manner, in the presence of his God, and the eyes of the people, promised to bring disgrace on promised to be faithful to all the teachings of the Catholic church. Now, what reliance can be placed on a man who breaks the most solemn promise that he could enter into between himself and his Creator? He is not deserving of further notice, but it is not with him I have now to do. It is possible that he is so hard up that he is compelled to book this mud-spout to pour his vile slanders on the Catholic church? It would be a wise thing to reconsider the propriety of permitting this bomb of discord to be exploded among a hitherto peaceful people.
I believe that any one responsible for the matter will be shouldering a grave responsibility and will be held responsible for anything that may come out of this.
I would even go further and say that the mayor should order out of town anyone who would likely be the means of disturbance to public peace.

FLOATING IN AN EDDY.

The Nude Body of a Woman Found at Niagara Falls, N. Y., May 17.—The body of a woman was found late yesterday afternoon floating in an eddy on the Canadian side below the carriage suspension bridge. The body was taken out and found to be that of a woman about 30 years of age, 5 feet, 1 or 2 inches high, weighing about 130 pounds, long jet black hair, dark complexion, round face. On the third finger of the left hand was a plain gold ring with the inscription: "Tout d'vous toujours." The body was nude with the exception of stockings and shoes. The only sign of foul play is that on the knuckles of the right hand are some bruises. There is no clue to the identity of the woman.

fortune of $1,350,000 each by the death
of English relatives.

Cure for Bashfulness.

Most cases of bashfulness are due to defective vision. Yes, I do claim that bashfulness and awkwardness can be cured by properly adjusted spectacles.
Not always, but often. Even a slight muscular trouble will make one feel restless and ill at ease. Ask any of your astigmatic friends if they are not more self possessed and confident with than without their glasses. Out of the most awkward boys I ever knew was a mope,
his poor vision was always getting him into scrapes. He was the laughing stock of the school, and being extremely sensitive it would naturally follow that he was extremely bashful. He hadn't as much self esteem as a turkey buzzard.
Even the smallest boy in the school
could dictate to poor Dutchy, the name given him through the slight error in mistaking a roll of Dutch cheese (cottage cheese) for fruit at a birthday party.
Three months after he began to wear glasses you wouldn't recognize him as the same person. He is now a prosperous attorney and possesses the usual amount of rhine characteristic of that profession. J. H. Osterlander, expert optician, with Day, the jeweler.

ARE VETERANS BOTH.

Tim Murnane Writes Well as He Played.

George Wright, the Famous Short,
Now Plays Cricket.

Every Admirer of Health and Strength
May Learn From Him.

No two men are better acquainted with baseball than George Wright and Tim Murnane, and there are no two men in the country whose judgment of good players and good playing is safer than theirs.

George Wright, now the senior member of the well-known firm of Wright & Ditson, of Boston, was once the most famous short stop in the country, and was known as the king of ball players.
To this day the game has not produced a short stop equal to him. He is now a

CRICKET.

style is a model. His advice is worth heeding.
Every admirer of health and strength
may learn a profitable lesson from what these men say.

Says Mr. Wright: "Last spring I did not feel in the best of health. I do not mean to say that this is strange, because most people during the past season have been out of sorts, but I was troubled with a tired, languid feeling, a thing unusual to me.

"I was not what might be called sick,
but I was not well. A friend recommended me to try something of which he spoke in the highest terms. I am in the habit of relying on my constitution
to bring me through, but I determined to follow my friend's advice.

"I must say that I am glad I did so,
for I found it benefited me greatly, and I am taking it now, even when out of doors, and indulging in my regular exercise. This is what Paine's celery compound did for me."

Says Mr. Murnane: "I know of nothing that I would more quickly advise a man who is run down with hard physical work, or at his desk, to take as a strength-giving tonic than Paine's celery compound. Mr. Wright's experience is the proof of many others whom I could name."

It is the experience of thousands—Paine's celery compound makes the weak strong.

Dr. Thomas' Lecture.
There was a large attendance of members of the Round Table and friends at the Hardy school last evening to hear Dr. Thomas lecture on "The Study of Life." He spoke of the different orders of life, the gradual rise from the animal to the man. He asked the question
"Why are there such inequalities in life?" and found the answer in the characteristics of men, the difference in endownments and their relations to the infinite world. After the lecture a short reception was held, Dr. Thomas and Misses Hardy and Harz receiving the guests. Dr. Thomas returned to Chicago last evening.

State Executive Meeting.
The regular quarterly meeting of the state executive committee of the Y. M. C.
A. was held yesterday in this city.
The afternoon was devoted to business
and in the evening addresses were made.
H. E. Brown spoke on "International Work," E. D. Scott on "Local Work," J.
F. Patten on "Present Church Work." A supper was also served in the evening.

NORWAY'S GREAT DAY.

Seventy-eight Years Ago Today She Threw Off the Yoke and Asserted Her Independence.

She Now Observes the Anniversary as Religiously as do Americans Their Fourth of July.

Duluth Norwegians Will Commemorate Their Mother Country's Independence—Concert Tonight.

Today, May 17, is Norway's Fourth of July. Seventy-eight years ago she proclaimed her independence and adopted a popular constitution. Ever since the Norwegians have as religiously observed her national independence day as have the Americans—indeed, perhaps, even more so.

In recent years the Norwegian population of the United States has been growing rapidly and the observance of May 17 has become quite general, but here is an entire absence of clamor or exclusiveness, no more than in the Scottish celebration of Burns' birthday or in the observance of Emmett's anniversary by the Irish. In Norway the houses and buildings are decorated with national colors, flags and bunting as elaborately as are those of the Americans on the Fourth of July here. The school children have a great procession in the morning and in Christiania, Norway's capital, there will sometimes be seen thousands of them in line.

The history of Norway is not as familiar to Americans as it should be, although in later years since the Norwegian literature is beginning to receive the recognition which its unusually high character deserves, the people are becoming more familiar with Norway whose struggle for liberty, although more prolonged, is not unlike that of this country. She defied all Europe and asserted her independence, and for more than half a century struggled to maintain it, not always in war, but worse than that, for war unites the people, with internal dissensions and dissatisfaction. That she conquered was due to the indomitable will and courage of the people which carried them through the severest trials and withstood the determined efforts of other countries to obtain supremacy over them.

There is not a brighter people in the whole of Europe than the Norwegians. Their literature is of the highest and most classical, and the national condition when the yoke of oppression under which he country labored is considered. The people are among the most industrious in the world. Their schools are of the best, the colleges are equally favored with any in the world. In disposition they are kindly, hospitable, frank and honest.

In this country the celebration of Norway's holiday is, of course, observed with the ceremony that is in the mother country, but in some of the Norwegian settlements the entire day is observed. In the cities the people meet in the evening as a rule and for a few hours rejoice as they did when in their mother country. The day will be observed in Duluth in a fitting manner this year. This evening a concert and ball will be given at Turner hall and a number of speeches will be delivered. Mayor d'Autremont will deliver an appropriate address and R. K. Doe and Mr. Laska will also speak. Miss Augusta Ohlstrom, the brilliant soprano, who is now in Duluth after the close of her season with a concert company, will sing several selections. The occasion will be made one of rare enjoyment and will be a fitting remembrance of Norway's independence day.

BEAT ALL RECORDS.

Shipments of Wheat Have Been Phenomenally Large.

There have been a good many records broken this year in the grain line in the Northwest, but the wheat-shipping record of Duluth elevators for the past three weeks leads anything in the line of grain handling that the city has ever seen. Sunday 75 cent accrued in storage charges on all wheat held in Duluth elevators, and shippers have therefore been anxious to get out all they could before that time. As a result, in the little more than three weeks between April 20, when the first cargoes of the season started for Buffalo, and Saturday night last a total of 11,610,000 bushels were sent from Duluth elevators to Buffalo. This beats the world's record for an entire month by 3,000,000 bushels, and this beaten record was one made here during last October.

During these three weeks, on every day of which many cargoes were forwarded, there were as high as 815,000 bushels shipped in a single day, and the average was over 400,000 bushels daily. As many as ten vessels have been loaded in a day, and as high as fourteen have left, wheat laden, in twenty-four hours. The largest cargoes taken out have been two of 85,000 bushels each by the steel barge 118 and one of 81,000 on the steamer Gilcher. Loads of over 80,000 have not been at all uncommon. This has been done on a draft of about 15 1/2 cts when nearly all the vessels could have loaded to 16 cts and thereby increased their loads from 5 to 25 per cent. Single elevators have also done remarkably well, the Lake Superior company's Buffalo, D having in one day also broken the record by loading out 324,000 bushels of wheat.

Notwithstanding this enormous output of wheat there still remains for the elevators under the control of the Duluth board of trade nearly 8,000,000 bushels of wheat, on which additional storage charges of 1/2 cent a bushel accrued Sunday. This is the next little sum of wheat that will go out so fast, but it is hoped to clean out all elevators by July. The unusually early opening of navigation—April 20—allowed a far greater exportation of wheat than usual before May 15.

Organized a New Lodge. Grand Master Workman Eli Southworth, of Shakopee, organized Progress lodge No. 6, Degree of Honor, last evening at Gorman Post hall with twenty-eight charter members. The following officers were elected: Past chief of honor, E. Baker; chief of honor, Mrs.

Thomas McGill; lady of honor, Mrs. E. Baker; chief of ceremonies, Mrs. Dalton King; recorder, Mrs. Schaller; financier, Mrs. J. N. Barnard; receiver, Mrs. F. Koors; sister usher, Mrs. H. Toft; inside watchman, Mrs. J. Reeder; outside watchman, Dalton King; trustees W. W. Butcher, B. F. Hathaway and J. Schaller. The next meeting of the new lodge will be held Monday evening.

WEST DULUTH.

West Duluth office of The Herald, room 4, 8th-9th buildings, where announcements etc., may be left.

At last night's council meeting bonds were ordered issued for the improvement of Central avenue between Second and Third streets south and for Norton avenue through Dickerman's addition. The committee who investigated the complaint made by H. Rees against Capt. Sullivan reported that they found no cause to censure that officer. The final reading of the terminal ordinance was made and after a few corrections was passed. Main street was ordered paved from Central avenue to Second avenue east. John Gram was appointed poundmaster. An ordinance was introduced regulating scavenger charges. Robert Chubb, Jr., was granted a liquor license for "The Mint" on Grand avenue. The usual grist of bills were read and allowed.

John Algren, an employee at the Marine works, while carrying a bolt this morning was hit in the mouth by a flying piece of iron and had his lip cut open and several teeth knocked out. The injury, while very painful, is not serious.

Peter Iverson was quite seriously injured this morning at Hunter's. Brown's sawmill by being accidentally struck with a canthook. The mill was shut down and it was first thought he was dead, but the doctor says he will pull through and will probably be out in a day or two.

The ordinance providing for the licensing of dogs running at large requires that all owners shall take out a license at once, and shall put a numbered tag upon the dog so licensed. The chief of police is authorized to kill all dogs running at large without a license. Section seven of the ordinance provides that all persons who fail to take out license according to the provisions of the ordinance, shall be fined from $1 to $100, with costs. This is the provision which the author has proposed to enforce, and owners of all unlicensed dogs will save money by calling at the village recorder's office, with treasurer's receipt, and receive license.

R. K. Robinson was arrested last evening for being drunk and disorderly and this morning Judge Himebaugh sent him up for twenty-five days.

The Ladies Aid society of the Presbyterian church will give a strawberry and ice cream festival in the room adjoining the Ideal restaurant Friday evening. Companies G and H were out last evening practicing for battalion drill. These companies are composed of young men exclusively and after a few months' training a little discipline in the ranks will prove a credit to any body of militia. The right stuff is there and is being rapidly brought out.

The entertainment for the national guards of this place Decoration Day evening by Rev. E. J. Brownson promises something very fine. It will be a stereoscopic entertainment illustrating over fifty prominent battles and incidents in the civil war, accompanied by descriptive songs, etc. The thrilling scenes of the Rebellion, from Scranton to Appomattox, will be shown in picture. Rev. S. Crawford has returned to his home at Chicago.

J. S. Nelson has gone to Polk county, Wis., to look after the spring work on his farm.

Mrs. G. M. Francis and daughters of Port Arthur visited friends at this place yesterday.

Mrs. A. F. Rockwell entertained the Ladies Aid of the Methodist church and their friends last evening. A very pleasant program was rendered, after which refreshments were served.

TO MINE THE BIWABIK.

The Duluth Ore Company Files Articles of Incorporation.

The Duluth Ore company, capital $100,000, filed articles of incorporation with the register of deeds yesterday, the incorporators being John R. Barringer, Arthur H. Stevens and John B. Weiner. Mr. Barringer has a lease about closed for what is called the fourth forty of the Biwabik mine and this company is to do the mining. He is required to take 100,000 tons per year minimum out of the forty acres and must clear the mine of merchantable ore within twenty years. He is also required to mine one-fourth of all the ore in the first five years.

"Parsons" of Literature. Rev. S. M. Crothers, of St. Paul, lectured before the Unity club last evening on "The Parsons as a Character in English Literature." He described and discussed the character of a number of the "parsons" in literature, among them Goldsmith's "Dr. Adams," and Fielding's "Parson Adams." To Robert Elsmere he devoted quite a few moments of his talk saying that his character would ever occupy a prominent place no matter what the opinions of the literary critics of the work are because he is a new character; a man who has grappled with doubt and denial.

Will Hold Caucuses. The People's party committee decided last evening to call caucuses for Monday evening next to elect delegates to the county convention to be held Tuesday. Fourteen delegates, to go to the Little Falls convention, are to be chosen.

Rapid Typewriting. Charles H. McGurra gave two exhibitions of expert typewriting yesterday and made a record of 184 words in one minute. He also gave an exhibition of typewriting blindfolded.

Ski-u-Mah Win. MINNEAPOLIS, May 17.—The university basketball team yesterday afternoon defeated Wisconsin in a hard fought battle by a score of 2 to 0.

ST. LOUIS NOW FLOODED

The Mississippi River Has Reached a Higher Point Than Any Time Within Over Thirty Years.

Floods in St. Charles County Increasing in Violence and Disastrous Results and Many Homes Swept Away.

Hundreds of Persons in Imminent Peril Near the Mouth of the Now Raging Missouri River.

St. Louis, May 17.—The Mississippi river at this city is higher today than at any time since the disastrous flood of 1858. The river continued to rise during the night and at 5 o'clock this morning the gauge registered 35 feet, 5 inches. At Alton the water is above all previous records, except the high water of 1844. An idea of the effect of the floods on the railroads entering the city from the Illinois side of the river may be gained from the following description of the situation in East St. Louis:

Above the viaduct the Ohio & Mississippi and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy tracks are from one to four feet under water. The Chicago & Alton road for a distance of four miles from the track is out of sight. At Hunter's and Louisville & Nashville road was compelled to refuse freight last night. The Big Four will probably suspend today, and the Cairo Short line will follow it before evening. Not a wheel has moved in the Mobile & Ohio railroad yards for several days. The belt line yards are three feet under water, and the great bridge yards are down last night. The Chicago & Alton, Big Four, Clover leaf and the Jacksonville road broke at the bridge junction, near East St. Louis. There are but two engines with fire boxes above the water, and they are pulling all passenger trains from the relay depot, using the Washburn track to Venice and the Chicago & Alton road to a point beyond Nankooka. The merchandise trains are being run on the Louisville & Nashville road, and the bridge and the national stock yards.

The flood in St. Charles county, twenty miles above the city, increases in vastness and in its delirious current. All day yesterday and up to a late hour last night appeals for help were being received from numerous families whose homes are being swept away by the flood. The Post Dispatch of this city, secured a large steamer and manned with a double crew for day and night duty, started Sunday morning to render aid to the hundreds of persons who are in imminent peril near the mouth of the Missouri river. Last night the Post Dispatch steamer rescued twelve families from Stump Slough, and six families from the river. The water had driven these people to the roofs of their houses and they had almost given up hope of rescue when the steamer came around the bend. The current in the river was running at a tremendous rate of speed and the work of saving these families was accomplished with great difficulty.

The steamer Fawn, from St. Charles, was carried by the fearful current out of the regular channel of the river and was stranded in a wheat field an eighth of a mile from the river proper. The Post Dispatch boat was run into the field of long hawsers, succeeded in getting the Fawn back into the channel.

REVOLUTIONISTS' TRIALS.

The Followers of Garza Arraigned in Texas.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., May 17.—The United States court room was crowded yesterday with 212 Mexicans, arrested upon indictments charging them with violating the United States neutrality laws in assisting General Garza in conducting his revolutionary movements against Mexico upon this side of the border. The majority of the prisoners were penniless and Judge Maxey appointed attorneys in their cases. Two of the revolutionists were arraigned and entered pleas of guilty, but sentence was reserved. Pablo Munio and Antonio Longero, two of Garza's lieutenants, were among the number. Capt. John G. Bourke, Joseph Mackey and Francis H. Hardie, all of the Third cavalry were present to testify in the cases. United States District Attorney Evans announced to Judge McMane in open court that Catarino Garza would positively be in custody before the close of this term of court. The trials of the revolutionists will begin today.

FOUND AGAINST DONNELLY.

A Verdict Against the Sage for Chicago Publishers.

CHICAGO, May 17.—Ignatius Donnelly, Alliance candidate for president, and author of "The Great Cryptogram," or Francis Bacon's Cipher in the So-Called Shakespearean Plays," was defeated in Judge Blodgett's court yesterday in a suit with his publishers, R. S. Peale & Co. had the contract for printing and circulating Mr. Donnelly's book. On the strength of an anticipated large sale, Mr. Donnelly, it is said, secured a loan of $1000.

The book was not the success that was expected and the result was that Peale & Co. claimed to be out $4000. They began suit for the amount with interest, and yesterday Judge Blodgett entered judgment against Donnelly for $5,293.72.

BULLETS FLEW THICK.

Non-Union Ore Trimmers Fired Upon by Union Men.

ESCANABA, Mich., May 17.—Yesterday 150 union ore trimmers from this city went to North Escanaba and attacked the non-union men, who were trimming a vessel at that place, with fire arms. A lively skirmish ensued and bullets from both sides flew thick and fast for a few minutes.

Clark Williams, a non-unionist, was shot in the leg and back and may die. Charles Hamilton was also hit by a bullet, but the shot will not probably prove fatal. After these men were shot the mob of union men fled. No arrests have been made.

National Art Congress.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The first congress of the National Art association will begin today. Many of the most distinguished artists and art patrons of the country will be present. The chief object of the congress is to have the tariff exempt from art. The meeting will be held in the hall of the Columbian university. The national loan exhibit will be in the Smithsonian institute.

A STOCKMAN MURDERED.

Had Incurred the Enmity of the Cattle Thieves. FT. MORGAN, Col., May 17.—Yesterday evening two men, James Baker and D. A. Snyder, came to town in search of the sheriff and the coroner. They reported that at 2 o'clock they were riding along Little Beaver creek, eighteen miles south of this place, when they got off their horses and entered the dug-out of John Pilgrage and found him dead. He had been shot and one foot was burned off.

Pilgrage was a well-to-do stockman and had the enmity of the cattle thieves. It is feared that some of his enemies killed him, as an attempt had been made to poison his horses and his life has been threatened. He leaves a wife and five children who are now present eighteen miles from Lincoln, Neb.

HIS HEAD BATTERED IN.

The Body of a Murdered Man Found in a Well.

ARCADE, N. Y., May 17.—The body of Timothy Guild, about 30 years of age, who until recently kept a hotel here, was found in the well of Peter Boldt, a German farmer, yesterday. Guild had been on a spree for two weeks. Boldt is a widower and lives alone. He was arrested on suspicion. He denies all knowledge of how Guild met his death, but he was killed him in a drunken debauch. Later facts have come to light, however, which tend to exonerate him. There are six gashes in the forehead, the side of his head is battered in and there is a bullet hole in the temple. No clue to the murderer has yet developed. An investigation is being made.

HARRISON WILL BE NAMED.

Governor McKinley Talks on the Presidential Nomination.

COLUMBUS, O., May 17.—Governor McKinley and a number of distinguished Buckeyes left for Ann Arbor yesterday afternoon in the private car of Governor Ashley of the Ann Arbor road. At the close of the national convention of Republican students a banquet will be given at which Governor McKinley will deliver an address to the students tonight. Before leaving here McKinley said: "President Harrison will be the nominee of the Minneapolis convention and there is no good reason to doubt his reelection."

A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

Rescue of One of the Entombed Miners of the Anaconda.

BUTTE, Mont., May 17.—Frank Agazza, one of the entombed miners of the Anaconda mine, was rescued last night. He has been confined in a space 4 feet by 2 feet since Saturday at 3 o'clock, but escaped without injury. There are still five men under the great mass of rock, but no hope is entertained that any of them are alive.

SHOT FROM AMBUSH.

The Fate of a Southern Desperado and Three Others.

BRISTOL, Tenn., May 17.—Word comes from Norton, Va., that Ira Mullins, a desperado of the Dalton Hall stripe, who lived near the border, was shot from ambush and killed Saturday while crossing Round Gap. Revenge is the presumed motive as his money was not taken. His wife, brother-in-law, the driver and two horses were also killed.

Suicide by Morphine.

DENVER, Col., May 17.—Robert H. Ford was discovered dead yesterday. He committed suicide by taking morphine. He was formerly editor of the Northwestern Financier and connected with the World, and also the North American Review. He was a brother of the managing editor of the Chronicle-Telegraph at Pittsburg, Pa.

Drowned Himself.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The body of Mrs. Dr. Peckinpaugh, of Mount Vernon, Ind., who disappeared from her lodgings in this city some weeks ago, was found yesterday in the Hudson at Hastings. It is thought she committed suicide in dread of a surgical operation.

Hanged to a Bridge.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 17.—Berry Bowden, Jim Bowden and Wall Carter, colored, were lynched at Childersburg, Ala., early yesterday morning because of an assault on Mrs. D. C. Bryant, the wife of a prominent farmer. Last night the men were hanged to a railroad bridge, over the Coosa river.

To Settle by Arbitration.

BOSON, May 17.—At the request of the Clothing contractors' union, the press men's union has appointed a committee who will confer with a committee from the union today to settle the differences between the two bodies.

Bering Sea Arbitrators.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Justice Harlan and Senator Morgan have formally notified the president of their willingness to serve as arbitrators on behalf of the United States in the Bering sea matter.

Was Jaeger's Accomplice.

BERLIN, May 17.—Herr Gerloff, an employee of the Rothschilds, was arrested today for illegal complicity in the stealing of Jaeger, the chief cashier of the house, who recently absconded with 1,700,000 marcs.

Dr. Parkhurst's Work.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Mme. Marie Andrew, convicted last week of keeping a disorderly house on West Fourth street, on the testimony of Dr. Parkhurst and his agents, was yesterday sentenced to one year's imprisonment.

Broke His Neck.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Israel Rosenblatt, 65 years of age, of Rochester, N. Y., while visiting at the home of his son-in-law, in this city, last night fell down stairs and broke his neck. He died in a few minutes.

A HUMAN THINK TANK.

A New York Student Who Puts His Knowledge Into Dollars.

In one of the handsome flats in a fashionable street in the city lives a gentleman who is rolling up a fortune by knowledge. He is not a writer or a lecturer, he holds no college professorship and does not belong to any learned body. He simply knows it all, or as nearly all as mortal man may, and he sells his knowledge for a tidy fee.

He owns a very extensive library, to begin with. Then, too, he is a living index to his own books. If you require information on matters of history, science, theology, biography, art or anything else, you have but to apply to him and pay him his charges to be enlightened. You may make your notes out of his library, or with the list of authorities obtained from him consult the public collections. In one way and another there is probably nothing in the way of published information that you cannot get track of through him, even if he does not know all about it. He conducts his consultations with the fixed system of a lawyer or a physician and always has a full list. There are times, indeed, when he is so fully engaged that appointments have to be made with him well in advance.

Theological matters he is especially strong. The list of his clients is said to include the most eminent divines of the country. Thousands of sermons and religious discussions annually owe their logic and their information to him. In the revision of theological works he is found an invaluable reference. In theological history he is probably more learned than any man living. When the enormous mass of this sort of literature that is in existence is considered, the fact that he can master it as he has done is remarkable. But he carries the same authoritative erudition into other branches of knowledge.

His strong point is his memory. It fixes everything in a literary way that is brought before it. He has some system of valuing dates and renders it possible for him to give the day, month, year and often even the hour of an occurrence on demand, so that to trace it up and refer to the published record of details is comparatively easy for him. Outside of his memory he appears to possess no literary gifts or abilities whatever.

Commencing modestly enough, his charges are now so high that they would seem exorbitant to any one not conversant with the value of special information to persons of superficial education, or to those even of well grounded and extensive, but systematically systematized, study. Many of his clients know a great deal more than he does in their way, and are men of much greater ability. But they have not arranged their information so skillfully, and cannot recall it when they need it. So they pay him to nudge their memories, and are glad to have him to help them as he does.—New York Cor. Pittsburg Bulletin.

Who Invented the Steam Engine?

The Marquis of Worcester, while imprisoned in the Tower of London in 1656, invented and constructed a perfect steam engine, and had it publicly exhibited the same year at York. It was a successful operation. Thirty-four years later, in 1690, Denis Papin added the piston to the marquis' discovery. In 1698 Captain Savary devised and built a steam engine different in many details from those made by Worcester and Papin; and in 1705 Newcomen, Cavley and Savary constructed their celebrated atmospheric engine, which was complete in every detail.

The above array of historical facts notwithstanding, James Watt, who was not born until sixty years after these great men, added the steam engine to the world, enjoys the distinction of being the veritable inventor, originator and author of the most useful contrivance of the present day.

Fulton, who lived and worked in the early part of the present century, is given the credit of being the man who demonstrated that steam could be applied to navigation; this, too, in face of the well known historical fact that De Gary propelled a vessel by steam in the harbor of Barcelona in 1543. Why does history make such mistakes?—St. Louis Republic.

A Story About Shelley the Poet.

The poet Shelley called one afternoon upon Mrs. Southey and was offered a cup of tea, which he accepted. Then a plate of tea cakes was handed him, but these he declined.

A slice of bread might have been welcome to this Spartan youth, but hot tea cakes, heaped up in scandalous profusion, blushing with currants, shocked him. He watched Southey's face when he was hungry and liked tea cakes, clearing his plate with evident enjoyment, and at last said:

Why, Southey, I am ashamed of you! It is awful to see such a man as you greedily devouring this nasty stuff.

Shelley listened in angry amazement. "What right have you, Mr. Shelley, to call my tea cakes nasty? You ought to be ashamed of yourself!"

Mr. Shelley immediately took up a cake, and finding it good, began to eat as greedily as Southey himself.

Mrs. Southey was pacified, and promised the receipt to the poet, who declared that he intended to have hot tea cakes every evening "forever."—Youth's Companion.

Likened Himself to Samuel.

Among the interesting children in Washington is a little boy named Harry, who is apparently never so happy as when listening to his mother's tales of Bible stories, which she is called upon to repeat time and again. One Sunday not long ago, after the little fellow had been an attentive listener to the story of Samuel for some time, he left the room, and his mother, wishing him suddenly for something, called "Harry!" Knowing he was in the next room and could not fail to have heard her, she twice repeated his name, and then in an annoyed tone, going to the door, spoke quite sharply:

"Harry, I have called you three times; why did you not answer?"

"Well," came the response, "the Lord called Samuel three times and he didn't get mad about it."—Cor. New York Times.

A Gump of a Poet.

Mrs. De Fashion—What a gump that Mr. Finemind, the great poet, is.

Friend—Is he?

THE NATIONAL MILITIA

How the Old System Which Prevailed One Hundred Years Ago Gave Way to State Volunteers.

A History of the Early Organization of the Rank and File of Our Home Guards.

Laws That Made Training Days Common in Every Part of the Country—The Present System.

A hundred years have passed since congress, in the spring of 1792, passed its first general militia law. This act remains today on the statute book, with all its ancient phraseology, and its mandates are impossible to execute. Still nominally in force is its injunction upon any able-bodied male citizen between sixteen and forty-five years of age, enrolled by his captain, to keep himself provided with a "good musket or firclock, of a bore sufficient for balls of the eighteenth part of a pound;" two good flints and twenty-four cartridges, or else with "a good rifle, shot punch, powder horn, twenty balls and a quarter of a pound of powder." The quaint instructions for grenadiers and bombardiers are still to be perused in the directions to commissioned officers to provide themselves with "a sword or hanger and sponoon," or, if mounted, to have their "holsters covered with bearskin caps." From time to time efforts have been made to revise this venerable chapter from the statute books, or at least to modernize it, until now, at last, it seems to derive a sort of protection from its age.

But the fact is that the law was never carried out. No sooner was it enacted than efforts were made to repeal some provisions and amend others. Under the plan of General Knox, which had been drawn up in 1790, young men between eighteen and twenty-one years of age were to serve thirty days in a camp of instruction during each of the first two years and ten days of the third year; citizens between twenty-one and forty-five years were to drill four days annually; those between forty-five and sixty were to be enrolled in the reserve, which was to assemble semiannually for a simple inspection of arms.

This was a very striking, and, under the circumstances of the country at that time, not a very onerous system, while its seriousness was shown by a provision that no person reaching the age of twenty-one should exercise the rights of a citizen unless he could show a certificate of the required service in the militia. But the plan of May 8, 1792, widely departed from Knox's plan, and the very next year after it was put in operation Washington asked congress "whether your own experience in the several states has not detected some imperfections in the scheme." The story of the way in which numerous and fruitless attempts to amend this system resulted at length in its frank abandonment is instructive and interesting.

Two years after its adoption a bill was reported for organizing a select corps of militia to be armed and equipped by the general government and to be paid while serving in annual camps of instruction. This of course would have been a radical departure from the general law, which required the citizens to arm and equip themselves and put them all on the same footing. It is not unlikely that, had this measure prevailed, it would have been in force to the present day, and might have made a vast difference in the history of the country. It would, in fact, have founded a national militia of an effective character. However, years passed without securing the modifications desired. The chief step gained was the enactment of the law of April 23, 1808, making an appropriation of $300,000 annually to provide arms and equipments for the militia. It is noted as a curious fact by the house committee on militia, whose careful history of the subject is here briefly summarized, that even when this new appropriation had been made the old requirement that each citizen should arm and equip himself was not repealed. Even then the reluctance to remove the old law was manifest.

Jefferson and Madison followed Washington in urging year after year the re-creation of the militia system; the latter in 1805 desired such "a separation of the more active part from that which is less so, that we may draw from it, when necessary, an efficient corps, fit for real and active service, and to be called to it in regular rotation." He thought that it was quite enough to subject the population between eighteen and twenty-six years of age to military duty in time of peace. Madison's most noticeable contribution to the subject was a proposal of annual camps of instruction for the commissioned and noncommissioned officers.

In 1816 Secretary Graham, by the direction of congress, prepared a new plan. It divided the militia into three classes, according to ages, of which the youngest were to assemble in annual camps of instruction. Congressman Harrison, of Ohio, afterward president, proposed as a substitute military drill for all the schools, and revived Madison's plan of annually inspecting officers and noncommissioned officers in camp. He estimated that the cost to the government would be $1,500,000 a year. In 1825 a board, on which Scott and Zachary Taylor were prominent, reported that the great defect in the law was the excess of numbers it held to service. They suggested as a substitute a brigade of militia in each congressional district, to be instructed in camps for ten days each year, and paid for their time and expenses.

The drift toward a select body instead of a general organization had thus been clearly manifest through all these years; yet two additional elements, volunteering and state organizations, were needed before the desired reforms could be secured. Jackson recommended the former, while Secretary Polk, in 1840 made an approach to the latter by a proposal of 100,000 active militia, apportioned among the states, each of which could keep its quota filled either by voluntary enlistment or draft. One-fourth would go out of service annually into the reserve, while the president could put them into camps under pay for a month annually. In 1846 still another plan was reported, that of maintaining in each state an active militia between twenty-one and thirty years of age, whose officers should be instructed annually in camp by the general government.

But by that time the new ideas of volunteering and state organizations had not only become rooted, but had borne fruit. Such militia bodies were springing up all over the Union, and in fact formed the basis of that body of volunteers who achieved distinction in the Mexican war. After that war greater interest than ever was taken in the state volunteer system, and its growth put an end to the long series of abortive efforts to form a national militia, congress practically accepting it as a substitute.—Washington Cor. New York Sun.

Snakes in Ireland.

In 1831 Mr. James Cleland, an Irish gentleman, being curious to ascertain whether the climate or soil of Ireland was naturally destructive to the serpent tribe, purchased half a dozen of the common harmless English snake (Natrix torquata) in Covent Garden market in London. Bringing them to Ireland he turned them out in his garden at Rath-gael in the county of Down, and in a week afterward one of them was killed at Millicross, about three miles distant. The persons into whose hands this strange mortality fell had not the slightest suspicion that it was a snake, but considering it a curious kind of eel they took it to Dr. J. L. Drummond, a celebrated Irish naturalist, who at once pronounced the animal to be a reptile and not a fish. The idea of a "rattle living serpent" having been killed within a short distance of the very burial place of St. Patrick caused an extraordinary sensation of alarm among the country people.

The most absurd rumors were freely circulated and credited. One farseeing clergyman preached a sermon in which he cited this unfortunate snake as a token of the immediate commencement of the millennium; while another saw in it a type of the approach of cholera morbus. Old prophecies were raked up and all parties and sects for once united in believing that the snake foreshadowed "the beginning of the end," though they very widely differed as to what that end would be. Some more practical minded persons, however, subscribed a considerable sum of money, which they offered in rewards for the destruction of any other snakes that might be found in the district, and three more of the snakes were not long afterward killed within a few miles of the garden where the first was liberated. The remaining two snakes were never very clearly accounted for.—Buck of Days.

The Pride of Queen Bess.

Of Queen Bess, that much beruffled royal lady, it has often been recorded that she was extravagantly fond of fans, and upon no gift of obsequious subjects did she more generously bestow imperial willingness than upon a fan which she laid at her feet; such tribute to a monarch's desire was more likely than might else to secure a passing smile or word of patronizing courtesy.

One of the most celebrated portraits of Elizabeth indicates this preference, as in her right hand is held a round feather fan, apparently under criticism, but a gratifying ownership, as judged from the obvious serenity of expression, altogether different from some "seasons of resentful mirth" indulged in by the virgin ruler.

Alas, if one could but know what impetuous activities seethed through her brain under its soothing, mollifying influence! "A treasury of fans" had Queen Bess. Some were inlaid with precious gems, others received their decoration of handiwork from brush or pencil, upon others were rich laces from over sea, or with brave show of brilliant needlework made glad the heart of this resistless collector, for it is written of her that she could never see one in the hands of another without expressing her desire for ownership. It is written that her collection was large.—Harper's Bazar.

Dr. Schmidt's Cranial Modulus.

One of the chief objects of study in physical anthropology is the skull, and it is important to have some convenient means of comparing skulls of different kinds. To compare measurements taken in one direction only, of course gives no results of value; thus, to know that one skull is nine inches long and another is eight inches long tells nothing as to shape or relative capacity. Authors accordingly devised the cranial index, found by dividing the length of the skull by the breadth and expressing the result decimally. If the skull had two dimensions this index would be satisfactory; as it is, it is not perfect. A new index was devised which should take account of the height as well as the length and the result expressed decimally.

By a combination of these two indices a fair idea of the skull would be given, but in a comparison of the indices of a number of skulls great difficulty arises. One of the things that is desired. After much careful study and experimental work Professor Schmidt worked out the modulus; the length, breadth and height are measured and their arithmetical mean is taken.—Professor Frederick Starr in Popular Science Monthly.

Sublimative Englishwomen.

This paper is not inclined to agree with the Duke of Marlborough altogether in his estimate of the comparative charms of English and American women. It thinks that the benevolent faces, the soft voices, the gentleness and reverence of English women and their fine repose are beautiful. Nowhere have homes been happier than in England, and it is the Englishwoman who has made them. She is naturally patient, self-sacrificing, religious and essentially maternal. If she has a serious fault it is that she has not perceived that her first duty is to herself. She has lived whatever life her husband or her sons desired her to live. She is temperamental and submissive. And in consequence she has too often lost the admiration of the men for whom she made these very sacrifices, which have incurred their contempt. If a woman wants others to think well and admiringly of her she must think well and admiringly of herself. This is not vanity. It is appreciation.—Omaha World-Herald.

Ingenious Signs.

Ingeniously contrived to attract the attention of possible patrons is the sign displayed by a restaurant facing the Hudson on the far west side. A portable black board, three feet square, leans against the house close beside the door. On that board are four designs in appropriate colors. One is that of the Anchor line, another is a French flag, a third is the blue flag with white stars flown by the Hudson river boats, and the fourth is the white flag with a fish's tail borne by the fishing boats. Beneath the flags are ranged in single file down to the bottom of the board colored bits of wood an inch wide and sharpened at both ends, bearing the bill of fare for the day.—New York Sun.

Velocity of a Cannon Ball.

The highest velocity ever given to a cannon ball is estimated at 1,035 feet per second, being equal to a mile in 3.5 seconds. The velocity of the earth at the equator, due to its rotation on its axis, is 1,000 miles per hour, or a mile in 3.6 seconds. Therefore, if a cannon ball were fired due west, and could maintain its initial velocity, it would beat the sun in its apparent journey around the earth.—Yankee Blade.

CRIMINAL HYPNOTISTS

Men Who Abuse Their Strange Powers and Misuse Hypnotism to Bleed Their Helpless Victims.

eldom Lose Their Power Over Their Dupes Owing to the Mesmerized Condition of the Latter.

See Const Fates at Amoy Says the Evils of Hypnotism Are Great and the Benefits Few.

NOTHING does the adage that there is nothing new under the sun apply with greater force than to the present scientific fad of hypnotism. That people could be put into a trance or artificial sleep has been known for centuries. In the east as far back as 500 B. C. fakirs have practiced the same tricks as are being tried today by the physicians of Europe and America. Both Hindu and Chinese writers of that time referred to these curious psychological experiments in very much the same manner as the daily papers do to Dr. Charcot at the present time. According to Dr. Bjornstrom, a leading Swedish physician and author, there is a sect in Egypt that has practiced hypnotism for forty centuries. And to cap the climax an enthusiastic New York theosophist claims that the deep sleep into which Adam was brown at the time of Eve's creation was merely a case of mesmeric sleep.

Hypnotism made no great impression upon the European mind until the beginning of the Eighteenth century, when in the province of Dauphine, France, the entire population went crazy on the subject. At one time not less than 10,000 people of that district imagined that they were prophets, directly inspired from heaven. From that time on there has been an unbroken line of hypnotizers and hypnotized, amateur and professional, genuine and fraudulent. Only in the latter part of the Eighteenth century was there any attempt made to explain the phenomena from a scientific standpoint. Before that time they were regarded as the manifestations of good spirits or of devils. In 1773, for example, a famous ex-monk known as Father Gassner, established a spiritual sanatorium at Regensburg, where he is said to have drawn around him 10,000. His treatment was simplicity itself. He would mesmerize his patient until the latter went into convulsions. This showed conclusively diabolic possession and was considered almost miraculous by his followers. By restoring the patient to consciousness he was believed to have exorcised the devil and effected a cure.

This curious fad was first brought into the highest prominence by the celebrated Swiss physician, Dr. Friedrich Mesmer. A strange combination of discoveries, a pack of brilliant intellectual powers and excellent moral qualities, he kept Europe in a turmoil from about 1770 to 1795. The new fact that the words mesmerize and mesmerism, coined in his honor, have endured the wear and tear of more than a century bears witness to the power of the man's personality. The expressions animal magnetism and personal magnetism were his creations, and are as much in vogue today as in his luxurious parlors on the Place Vendôme. He seems to have known P. T. Barnum's great principle that "human nature loves to be humbugged and will pay for it proportionally," for the few scientific truths which he apprehended were so weighted down with charlatanism and nonsense that the ill-sorted kind as to escape the attention of the scientific world of his time. Though denounced by such men as Franklin, Lavoisier and Davy, and in after years neglected and forgotten by the people whose idol he once was, he did a great work for the race despite the dishonest surroundings under which it was conducted, for after all modern hypnotism is nothing more or less than mesmerism. In creating the new name scientists have only beaten about the bush.

Mesmer was followed by the notorious impostor Cagliostro, by D'Esion, Marais and last and greatest, the Marquis de Puységur. The last named had a strong scientific bent and early called attention to mesmeric features which heretofore had been overlooked. He was undoubtedly the first to give careful study to those phenomena which for lack of better words we sum up and indicate by such clumsy terms as somnambulism, clairvoyance, clairaudience, mind reading, thought transference, will control and the like.

Since his time, comparatively little new and original work has been done in this field of research, but an important amount has been accomplished in studying details, ascertaining conditions and classifying phenomena. It will probably surprise the reader to know that over 300 large volumes have been written upon the subject by scientific men of high standing, and that the work goes steadily on. Among the more eminent investigators may be mentioned Dr. James Braid, Dr. Hæck Tuke and Dr. Ireland, of England; the late Dr. George V. Beard, Dr. Grimes and Dr. William F. Hammond, of the United States; Baron von Reichenbach, Dr. Freyer and Professor Weinhold, of Germany; Professor Hansen, of Denmark; Dr. Bjornstrom, of Sweden; Professor Azam, Dr. Broca, Dr. Liehault, Professor Richet and last in point of time, but one of the greatest in talent, Professor Charcot, the neurologist, of France.

How largely European thought is turned toward the subject is shown by the facts that there are two schools and a half dozen societies devoted exclusively to its study, a scientific journal published monthly in Paris upon its progress, and at least fifty prominent physicians and scientists who are making it a special field of investigation. Since 1835 forty-six books have been written upon it, so that hypnotism can be truly said to have acquired a goodly literature of its own. As America has caught the contagion of research, it is more than probable that the next decade will see the figures mentioned largely increased by American societies, newspapers and literary work.

When a person is hypnotized he may be in any one of three states—the cataleptic, the lethargic or the somnambulistic. In the first the body is immobile and apparently dead, but the muscular sense, vision and especially hearing retain their powers in part, if not in whole. In the lethargic state there is complete insensibility of the skin and external tissues. The third or somnambulistic is the one made familiar by lecturers and charlatans. There is insensibility to pain, but a quickening of the senses to a high degree and a remarkable sharpening of the powers of the mind.

It is claimed by several leading hypnotizers of Europe that the science can be utilized as a means of moral education. Dr. Durand, Professor Liehault and Dr. Berillon are enthusiasts regarding this idea, and have appealed by speech and writing for its official adoption by the French government.

While the benefits from hypnotism thus far have been few and small, the evils have been many and great. Its sleeplike state is not a normal sleep, bringing health and strength to the slumberer, but a morbid condition bordering upon disease. It irritates the entire nervous organization and temporarily if not organically weakens the system. This drawback is serious enough.

Darker and more terrible effects lie in the suppression of the subject's will for the time being and the suggestion thereof for the operator's. In this regard it opens avenues to crime and criminals such as never have been equaled heretofore. Already so many discreditable actions, not to use a stronger word, have been committed in Europe by means of hypnotism, that in Italy, Austria-Hungary, parts of Switzerland, Copenhagen and other municipalities laws have been enacted prohibiting its public practice by any except physicians. So on the other hand the police, without any statute on the subject, have treated traveling mesmerists as disorderly characters. Thus Donato, who is now performing in the United States, was lately expelled from Italy and Hansen, another hypnotist, from Austria, and notified never to return under penalty of arrest, fine and imprisonment.

This Donato (whose real name, by the way, is Dhont) hypnotized an Italian artillery officer, who immediately became half crazy. From time to time he would go into somnambulism at the sight of a bright object. He would follow carriage lamps, and unless prevented would walk toward locomotive or steamship lights.

An architectural student was mesmerized by staring at his compasses, after which it was impossible for him to draw without going to sleep. It is by far the most accurate and comprehensive map of any yet published. This map will be sold exclusively by me. Everybody will want an Adams Map, so order early.

Another young girl (of Paris, this time) was put under a similar spell and was ruined. She finally entered the Salpêtrière hospital, where, after a long and painful remedy, what was left of her former self was pronounced cured.

In New York a hypnotized person was made to believe that he had taken arsenic poison. He fell sick and wasted away to a shadow. Not until the attending physician discovered the true nature of the hallucination and rehypnotized the subject was there any symptom of convalescence.

In Turin, after a series of hypnotic lectures and public experiments, a large proportion of those who attended were taken sick with headache, insomnia and other nervous ailments. A few of those who were of a hysterical temperament remained ill for a long time.

In the foregoing cases the hypnotizing was done with no evil intent. But there are hundreds of recorded instances where it was done with intent of the most evil sort. Colchester, Foster, Mansfield, Purly and other mesmerists claimed that they could ruin any woman who once allowed herself to be put into a trance. This assertion has been confirmed by every trance medium, and even ordinary mediums, in the business. How many unhappy girls and women owe their first misstep to these arts it is impossible to say, but the number is legion. An army of miscreants misuse hypnotism to obtain money from their victims. They are constantly exposed by third parties, but seldom lose their power over their dupes on account of the mesmerized condition of the latter.

Lower still in the depths of sin are those who call themselves "massage magnetizers," "massage hypnotists," or those who advertise "electric baths," "massage baths," "magnetic baths" and "magnetic treatment." There is no reason for their existence, unless it be in a correctional or penal institution. Lastly there are the artists, professors or fakirs, who give public exhibitions of the hypnotic process. Some of these are honest and upright; others are unscrupulous and mercenary wretches. All of them however are to be carefully avoided by sensible people. They are to be avoided even more by young boys and girls than by grown folks. If any one desires to see the marvels of hypnotism let him or her go to their own family physician, and either he or some other member of that noble profession will satisfy curiosity without injury to body, brains, mind or morals.

In taking interest in hypnotics in any way therefore, it is well to bear in mind Punch's advice to young men—don't.

THE MEMBERS APPEAL

A Protest is Filed in the Stock Exchange Against the Action of the Directors.

The Appeal Put to a Vote at the Closing Hour and the Members Sustained It.

The Merritts Have Not Enjoined the Exchange and Their Stocks Were Called This Morning.

The Merritt stocks were called on the stock exchange this morning as usual and it would appear that an action at law will be necessary to compel their withdrawal. When the exchange was opened this morning an appeal from the decision of the board, signed by thirty or more members of the exchange, was filed. Immediately after the close of business a vote by ballot was taken and the appeal was sustained.

The board of directors has received an opinion from Mr. Williams, the attorney of the exchange, which says that the board might order the suspension of the calling and listing of stocks, but could not prevent dealing in them on the floor if the members choose to do so. Mr. Williams was not asked to give an opinion on the right of the companies to withdraw stocks, but the exchange has secured one from W. W. Billson which says that the companies have no right to withdraw after having listed.

Len Merritt threatened yesterday to serve injunction papers on the exchange to prevent the calling of stocks, but up noon today had not done so. The Merritts, however, are determined to withdraw their stocks and declare that the exchange is injuring the range and the stocks every day it runs.

The condition of matters did not have a tendency to stimulate business this morning, and there was scarcely any trading. Everyone was anxiously awaiting the closing hour when the vote was put on the appeal from the board. Only fifty shares in all were traded, the last cash sales being as follows:

DOCTORS IN SESSION.

Annual Meeting of the Minnesota Homeopathic Institute.

The twenty-sixth annual session of the Minnesota State Homeopathic institute opened this morning at the Spaulding hotel and a large delegation of medical men from different parts of the state, but particularly from St. Paul and Minneapolis, are present. At 10 o'clock this morning the opening session was held. Dr. D. A. Strickler, of St. Paul, president, being in the chair, and Dr. D. W. Herning of Minneapolis, secretary, was also present. The morning session was occupied with the hearing of reports from the officers and committees of the institute. President Strickler delivered an address appropriate to the occasion. A number of papers were read on the different topics of the practice of medicine. The afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock with the report of the bureau and the reading and discussion of papers will be continued.

Those who are attending the institute are: D. A. Strickler, L. E. Penney, Henry Hutchinson, C. H. Griswold, Chester H. Higbee, Mrs. Bessie T. Harris, all of St. Paul; J. F. Beaumont, H. N. Avery, H. W. Brazier, G. A. Batendier, J. A. Steele, H. C. Aldrich, D. W. Herning, W. E. Leonard, S. M. Spaulding, H. C. Leonard, George E. Ricker, Asa S. Wilcox, D. A. Locke, J. D. Pillsbury, of West Superior, are also present. The Duluth representatives are C. B. Pillsbury, H. H. Chase, J. F. Hurlbut, Mrs. M. L. Hurlbut, W. W. South, F. C. Bowman, John H. Savage, of Minneapolis, is taking a stenographic report of the meeting for the institute.

The sessions continue all day tomorrow as well as today and a session will be held this evening. The officers for the ensuing year will be elected tomorrow afternoon.

Baking Powder Legislation.

The use of alum and ammonia in baking powders has been carried to such an enormous extent by unscrupulous manufacturers, anxious either to swell their profits or to cater to the demand for cheap goods, regardless of the health of the consumer, that bills have been introduced during the past year in the legislatures of many states, among which are New York, Minnesota, Illinois, Georgia, Florida, etc., requiring such inferior articles to be distinctly labeled. Boards of health and food commissions in many cities and states have been occupied with the same problem, and in many instances have published lists of powders containing alum or ammonia, so that the public may avoid them. Following is a partial list of such powders: Royal, Calumet.

WHEAT WAS VERY WEAK.

The Market Was Dull and Slow Today.

The wheat market here today was dull and slow, but fairly steady up to noon. Early cables were steady but very dull. Reports on the weather in the wheat country were more discouraging. First sales in July were made at  $\frac{1}{2}$  advance and in May at a decline of  $\frac{1}{2}$ . The decline in May was due to the fact that May was bid up to a high figure at yesterday's close. It is expected that shipments from this time forward will be considerably lighter. There was a large amount of trading in July in large lots and closed at  $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  c below yesterday for futures and  $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  c lower for cash. Following were the closing prices:

No. 1 hard $3.15, May $3.14, June $3.14, July $3.14, No. 1 northern cash $3.14, May $3.14, June $3.14, July $3.14, No. 2 northern cash $3.14, No. 3, 71. Rejected 62. On track—No. 1 hard $3.14, No. 1 northern $3.14.

Car inspection for today: No. 1 hard wheat, 4; No. 1 northern, 32; No. 2 northern, 5; No. 3 spring, 1; no grade, 14; flax, 1. Total 57.

Receipts—Wheat, 20,012 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 108,453 bus. Cars on track: Northern Pacific, 7; Great Northern, 14; C. St. P. & M. & O., none; St. Paul & Duluth, none. Total 21.

Corresponding date last year, 30.

The weekly flour statement for the week ended Saturday last shows: Production by local mills, 10,020 barrels; railroad receipts, 102,213 barrels; shipments, 136,243 barrels; flour now in store, 268,164 barrels.

THERE WAS ALUM IN IT.

It Cost G. McCulloch $40 to Sell Unlabeled Alum Baking Powder.

The case of G. McCulloch, the clerk for the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, who was charged with selling alum baking powder in violation of the state food law, was called in the police court this morning. He changed his plea to guilty, his attorney, Chas. S. Jelley, pleading in extenuation that the company had changed its local manager and that the present manager knew nothing of the law. Judge Elliott imposed a fine of $40.—Minneapolis Journal, Feb. 4, 1892.

G. McCulloch, of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, was arrested Wednesday for selling a preparation intended to be used as a baking powder, and which, although it contained alum, was not so labeled as provided by the state food law.

Moses Elliott Was Given $10,000 for the Loss of a Foot But the Judge Voted It.

Fredrik Turja Has Sued for a Divorce From His Wife and Alleges Adultery as the Ground.

In the United States court this morning the jury in the case of Moses Elliott against the Northern Pacific railroad brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, awarding him $10,000 damages. When this was announced the judge ordered the clerk to set the verdict aside, which was done, and a new trial is ordered. The case of Henry Behling vs. The Northern Pacific is now on trial. The plaintiff asks $10,150 damages for injuries received which interfere with his powers of locomotion, yet he ascribed the cause to the fact that he sprang after an electric car at noon and he caught it too.

Wants a Divorce.

Fredrik Turja has sued in the district court for divorce from his wife, Johanna Turja, on the ground of her frequent infidelity with other parties. The plaintiff lives in Ely and the defendant in Brown county, South Dakota. The parties were married January 20, 1887, at Kannus, Finland.

Training the Memory.

A splendid way to improve the memory is to begin by treating it as if it were another person, and then charging it, upon penalty of a severe whipping, to keep until wanted the information, fact, date, name or whatever is to be remembered. By this course you unconsciously do two things—you sort out things worth while to know, and you impress them upon the memory in such a way as to cause it to grasp and keep them.

The latter is a most important thing to do. Half of one's forgetfulness comes from failure to properly grasp what it is that you are to remember.—Harper's Young People.

A Railway Accident.

Reports of disasters caused by spring floods are already beginning to come in. A little after midnight one morning recently the engine and eight cars of a freight train on the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago railroad went through a bridge a mile north of Otis, Ind. Engineer John Murray, Fireman James Bower and Dr. Elmer Brown went down with them. The engine and two cars remained on the track. Heavy rains had washed away the foundations of the bridge, leaving the upper portion intact.

A Cane Made of Stamps.

A novel walking cane is that owned by a citizen of Detroit. It is made of 5,000 old postage stamps of various states, Canadian, English, French, German and Italian. The face value of the stamps was $100. The surface of the cane when the stamps were all on was filed smooth and finished until it glazed.

Conversation Not Gossip.

Good conversation is not gossip, for we are all more or less given to that. Gossip leads to scandal and then to slander, which as some one has said, is "scandal in an advanced stage of decomposition."—Kate Field's Washington.

The other day George Doyle went to the residence of Earl Dudding, a farmer, near Anderson, Ind., and found Mrs. Dudding and her husband sitting on the porch. Doyle walked up and kissed Mrs. Dudding, whereupon the husband drew his revolver and fired three times, fatally wounding Doyle. Dudding gave himself up.

NOTICE

To Build Sidewalks.

In accordance with a resolution of the common council of the city of Duluth, passed May 24, 1892, notice is hereby given to all owners and occupants of any and all lots or parcels of land adjoining the sides of Second street between First avenue east and Sixth avenue west to construct a sidewalk in said street as follows, to-wit:

From First avenue east to Lake avenue, south side, in front of the west one-half of lot 12, length 25 feet; in front of lot 10, length 50 feet; in front of lot 6, length 50 feet.

From Lake avenue to First avenue west, south side; in front of lots 2 and 4, length 100 feet.

From First avenue west to Second avenue west, north side; in front of the west one-half of lot 29, and in front of lots 28, 30 and 32, length 175 feet.

From First avenue west to Second avenue west, north side; length 400 feet.

From Second avenue west to Third avenue west, south side; in front of lots 40 and 42, length 100 feet.

From Second avenue west to Third avenue west, north side; in front of lots 41 and 43, length 100 feet.

From Third avenue west to Fourth avenue west, south side; in front of lots 50, 52, 54, 56, 58, length 300 feet; in front of the west one-half of lot 51, length 50 feet; in front of lot 51, length 50 feet.

From Third avenue west to Fourth avenue west, north side; in front of lots 49, 51 and 53, length 150 feet; in front of lot 51, length 50 feet; in front of the east one-half of lot 51, length 25 feet.

From Fourth avenue west to Fifth avenue west, south side; in front of lots 66, 68, 70, 72, 74, length 300 feet; in front of lot 66, length 250 feet.

From Fourth avenue west to Fifth avenue west, north side; in front of lots 65, 67 and 69, length 150 feet.

From Fifth avenue west to Sixth avenue west, in front of lots 81, 83, 85, 87, 89, 91 and 93, block 28, length 300 feet; also in front of lots 80, 82, 84 and 86, block 29, length 200 feet.

Adjoining their several lots at their own proper expense and charge before June 6th, 1892, said walk to be constructed in accordance with plans and specifications on file in the office of the board of public works, and to be built to the established line and grade, or to a temporary line and grade to be given by the city engineer.

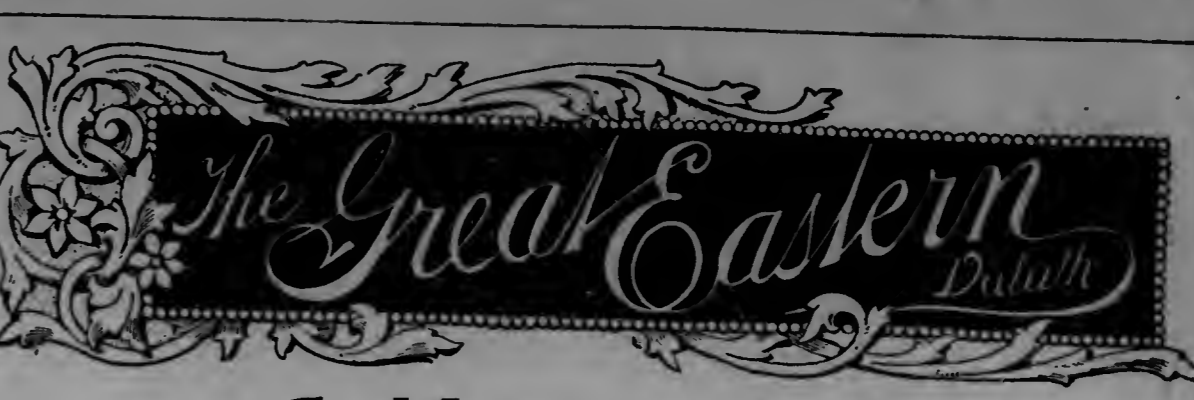

If the said owners or occupants fail to construct said walk before June 6th, 1892, or if any such work, or part thereof, is not done in the manner prescribed by said plans and specifications, or if said walk is not built to the line and grade prescribed, then the board of public works of the city of Duluth will cause the same to be done, and the full cost and expense thereof, together with ten (10) per cent. additional for cost of surveys, plans and superintendence, will be assessed against said lot.

Duluth, Minn., May 17th, 1892.

A Metamorphosis!

"Hoodoo"

Changed to Mascot!

When first they heard that we intended building our Mammoth store some of our friends shook their heads, saying, "Sorry," but that store will be a Hoodoo, Duluth can't stand such a store. We laughed at them, pointed out the many advantages and great future of our city, and told them that within a short time instead of three floors, we'd be compelled to use the entire building. How our predictions have come to the practical truth, all who visited us yesterday the first of our opening week, can bear witness. Is it the handsome store in its self that changed the "Hoodoo" into the "Mascot"? Maybe, but we would rather believe that it was the "Wonderful Bargains" which we offered, and the Variety Quantity and Elegance of our stock. Certain it is that the first day's sales of our Opening Week surpassed our most sanguine expectations, and our business each month since moving into our new quarters is treble what it was for same month last year. We have bargains in all departments all week, but offer these specials:

GREAT DISASTER

Sioux City Overwhelmed By a Dreadful Flood Caused By a Cloud Burst.

Floyd River Rose Three Feet in Thirty Minutes, Totally Flooding the Town.

A Hundred People Reported to Have Been Drowned But Particulars Are Scarce.

One Thousand Houses Washed Away and Streets Are Five Feet Under Water.

FORT DODGE, Ia., May 18.—A dispatch from Cherokee, Ia., says that a telephone message from Sioux City was received there about noon stating that a dreadful flood has overwhelmed the latter city. The streets were five feet under water and many lives were reported lost, to say nothing of the destruction of property. The inhabitants were fleeing to the high ground or taking refuge on the roofs of buildings, but the latter resort proved fatal in many cases, as frame houses were swept away by the current and brick structures were undermined and crumbled into the flood.

All communication with the desolated city is now cut off, neither telegraph or telephone wires being in working condition. The Floyd river, a small stream emptying at Sioux City into the Missouri, caused the catastrophe at that city. Its banks could not carry the water. It is said that over 100 people were drowned. Railroad advices state the cloud-burst at Sioux City was disastrous. The river rose three feet in thirty minutes, totally flooding the town. One thousand houses were washed away and many lives lost. Details or particulars cannot be had at present.

Bridges Swept Away.
HARTINGTON, Neb., May 18.—A cloud burst in this section last night did great damage. Over three inches of water fell in less than thirty minutes. Many bridges along the country road were swept away and other damage done.

A Cone-Shaped Cloud.
CONE, Ia., May 18.—A cone-shaped cloud passed half a mile east last evening, doing considerable damage. No fatalities reported.

Robbing the Destitute.
ALTON, Ill., May 18.—The evils of the flood have been increased by robbery and by speculators who are buying stock for practically nothing, taking advantage of the circumstances. Depredations have become so bad that a party armed with shotguns have started for the inundated districts.

Forty Families Homeless.
BEATRICE, Neb., May 18.—A heavy rain deluged the city and has driven fully forty families from their homes. Fully $50,000 worth of property was destroyed.

TWO MILLIONS LESS.
Reduction in the Amounts for Rivers and Harbors.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The senate commerce committee today agreed to an amendment offered by Mr. Frye to the river and harbor bill making a reduction of 25 per cent in the amounts for projects placed under the contract system, thus reducing the grand total of the bill by $2,088,570.

Among the cuts are the following: Upper Mississippi to $1,500,000; Lower Mississippi to $2,208,750; twenty foot channel through the great lakes to $375,000.

THE BOARD SUSPENDED.
No More Quotations to be Posted on the Exchange.

When the stock exchange was opened this morning and the calling commenced Lon Merritt filed a protest when Biwabik was announced. It was decided, however, that his protest could not be recognized after the calling had commenced. Later on it was decided to suspend the use of the black board after the call of stocks, that is, the calling prices will be posted and then nothing more will be put on the board.

The total number of shares sold on 'change today was 785. Last cash sales were as follows:

A BRUTE LYNCHED.

The Colored Assailant of a Little White Girl in Maryland Hanged Last Night.

Dragged From His Cell and Suspended by a Rope to the Nearest Tree.

As Usual the Jury Found He Came to His Death by Persons Unknown.

CHESTERTOWN, Md., May 18.—Jim Taylor (colored) who outraged a little white girl named Silcox, on Sunday, was hanged by a mob last night. The crowd began to collect near the jail last evening. At about 9:30 o'clock they broke down the door and entered. There were no shots fired, but the sheriff pleaded with the crowd to desist. Taylor calmly stood at his cell door awaiting his fate, when the intruders reached that point. The lock on the door of the cell was quickly smashed and a cotton rope was tossed around Taylor's neck. He was dragged out into the stable yard where, upon reaching the first tree, the rope was thrown over a limb and the negro pulled up.

The ominous click of firearms was heard, but those in the front rank yelled not to shoot, fearing some of them would be killed. The body was left hanging to the tree for two hours. The coroner had it lowered and sent to an undertaker's. Just before being swung up, Taylor again denied his guilt. A jury of inquiry was held today and brought in a verdict that the man came to his death by persons unknown. The little victim, Nellie Silcox, is better this afternoon, but is still in a critical condition.

PURCHASED THE NAUTILUS.

A Fine Steam Yacht Bought by Duluth Parties.

The steam yacht Nautilus, which has just been bought by a few of Duluth's young men, who desired a fine vessel, through the agency of Commodore Inman and Capt. C. O. Flynn, will be a big addition to the pleasure craft of Lake Superior as well as to Duluth. She has an insurance rating of "A" and was built in New York in 1887. She was lengthened in 1889 at Cleveland and was the late owner was J. H. Huntington, of Cleveland. The price paid is not known but it is believed to be about $22,000, and she is cheap at that figure. She will jog along at thirteen miles, and can be rushed into nearly fifteen miles and is elegantly fitted up. Compared with the Pickett the Nautilus sizes up as follows: Gross tonnage—Nautilus, 39.49; Pickett, 39.10. Tonnage—Nautilus, 19.75; Pickett, 20.97. Length—Nautilus, 88; Pickett, 84.2. Breadth—Nautilus, 14.4; Pickett, 13.6. Depth—Nautilus, 4.2; Pickett, 6.9.

Seeding is Retarded.
W. F. Dalrymple passed through the city yesterday on his return to Bayfield, his home. He has just returned from Casselton, N. D., where he visited the big farm in which he is interested with his brother Oliver, to look after the progress of spring work. The wet weather has retarded seeding considerably and unless there is a late season this fall the grain is liable to be injured by frost. Nearly all the wheat left in shock last fall is badly damaged.

NEW PLAN OF LISTING

Brief Description of the Method Which Has Been Adopted By the Real Estate Exchange.

It Will Be Beneficial to the Owners in Selling Property as Well as to the Agents.

The Division of Commissions Among a Half Dozen Agents Is Made Impossible.

The new plan of listing property for sale, which the real estate exchange is introducing, is such a vital change in existing methods of real estate men, and is apparently such a decided benefit to owners as well as agents that a brief description of the method employed will be of interest not only to agents but to owners, or to anyone who desires either to buy or sell realty.

The exchange proposes, by the new process, to put in a short time every piece of property for sale in the city which is listed with any member of the local body, in the hands of every other member, so that at any time an agent who may have a call for lots, acres, buildings, or other property anywhere in the city, may find exactly what he wants and may be able to close a deal of purchase or sale without traveling about all offices in town to find something that is wanted. The plan, moreover, will do away with the division of commissions by half a dozen, as has become frequent of late, and will admit of only one division of commission, between the agent having exclusive handling and the agent actually closing the deal. It will also reduce to a minimum the unpleasant necessity of telling a customer after one has sold him a lot that "I can't deliver this property."

For the owner, too, the plan presents many advantages. First, while he is compelled to give exclusive handling to some one agent, something always sought by the agent and which leads to better efforts to sell, he gets the advantage of listing practically with every member of the exchange. Then the purchaser has the advantage of a good selection and a comparison of many pieces of property, and there can be no attempt at a bear movement without every agent will do his best to make trades at the best figures obtainable.

GOLD NEAR TOWER.

Excitement Over a Find Near Lake Vermilion.

A Tower dispatch says: Gold-bearing quartz pronounced by an expert to be valuable, has been found about twenty-five miles west of this city by some lumbermen, who were cutting timber purchased on state lands last fall. The specimens were brought in by these men, who have tried to keep the locality of their find quiet, but it is known that they have been working on Vermilion lake, in township 53, range 17. Although the roads are in bad condition, several exploring parties have left for the new gold fields.

A FIGHT WITH WOLVES

Desperate Battle on a North Dakota Prairie
In Which the "Tenderfoot" Bravely Held His Own.

How An Eastern Man Fought Off a Pack of Four-footed Fiends Until Needed Help Arrived.

A Terrible Ride For Life and a Fierce Conflict Afterward—The Great Endurance of the Wolves.

A young man who had just returned from the northwest sat in the parlors of one of the largest of the St. Louis hotels recently, regaling a number of his old friends with some of his western experiences.

"I understand Tom Wilson is doing well out in that wild country," said one of the listeners. "Is it true?"

"Yes, Tom is doing well," was the reply. "He lives away up in the extreme northern part of North Dakota, almost in the edge of the British possessions, and on my visit to him I met with an experience the equal of which I hope may never fall to my lot again."

Of course this brought forth demands for the story which could not be resisted.

"About ten miles north of Devil's Lake," said he, "is a little body of water called Lake McIntosh, on the banks of which Tom has a ranch and where he is at present abiding. He expects in a few years to make a fortune out of his possessions there, and he probably will, so he is content to rough it for awhile. It is too wild a place for him to take his wife and little girl, though, and consequently he has established them at the little town of Garfield, about forty miles northeast of his place, where he visits them every two or three weeks. Just before I visited that section he had been to Garfield and had taken his little eight-year-old Bessie back with him to the ranch, as he expected to return in a few days on business. He had not been able to return, however, and Mrs. Wilson asked me if I would not bring the little girl home after I had made my visit, and I gladly told her I would do so, as I intended spending only a couple of days there.

"The two days I passed with Tom were very pleasant indeed, and one bright winter morning I jumped into my sleigh with little Bessie and started across the prairie.

"It was about noon, when to my amazement and indignation, I saw one of those mean, and in my opinion then, contemptible long gray wolves following us in his swinging gait. No one unacquainted with the wolf of our northwestern prairie can appreciate or fully realize the wonderful speed and remarkable endurance of this animal. As you are no doubt aware, wolves never catch their prey by lying in ambush or by stealing up to it, but they run it down fairly in open chase. And when they assemble in packs and organize an attack, the danger is the greatest one of all."

"Notwithstanding my knowledge of my enemies, I felt no uneasiness even when I saw the one wolf increase to ten and then to twenty. I felt satisfied they would close upon the sleigh gradually, and by the time they began to be really dangerous I would be reaching my destination, for I had only a few more miles to go. Bessie had lived long enough in the west to realize our danger, and the dear little creature sat there trembling with fear and biting her lips to keep the tears back. My whole endeavor was to hold the horses down to their work and not rush them, and yet at the same time keep myself from getting excited.

"Consequently I resisted the temptation of shooting at the rascals. In my efforts I succeeded quite well, till one of those vindictive gray devils took a spurt forward and snatched at one of the horses. After this I might as well have tried to hold a cyclone. The horses fairly flew, and I considered myself lucky in holding them in the road. I still did not feel very uneasy, for I felt sure they could hold up to their work and we were getting that much nearer the town. The wolves were keeping right along with us, when suddenly the sleigh went into a little gulch, there was a snap and crash, I felt myself jerked over the dashboard by the reins, and when I let them go away went the horses over the prairie, while Bessie and I and the wolves were left behind.

"I really then gave up hope, and expected to be devoured in a few minutes, but to the deception of this one thought nothing else entered my mind except the determination to fight the beasts away from little Bessie as long as I could. Bessie was wrapped in a buffalo robe and the sudden jar had thrown her to the bottom of the sleigh, completely enveloped and hidden from view. I sprang right back to the sleigh, emptying my revolver as I did so. The six wolves that I killed in this way gave me time to spring forward and tear loose a singletree from the sleigh, which had been almost entirely torn off by the horses when the crash came, and with this I leaped into the bottom of the sleigh, and standing over Bessie began the fight for our lives.

"I don't know how long I fought there, nor how many I killed. Blood and brains were scattered over everything, and the men who rescued us say that I stood there and fought like a man for several minutes after every one of the beasts had been driven away. This may be so, I dare say it is. Certainly it took some time and a quantity of stimulus for me to regain my equilibrium. However, under Mrs. Wilson's care I soon felt no evil effects from the adventure, except frost-bitten ears and sore muscles. I learned from her that having expected us at noon she had grown uneasy and had asked some friends to ride out to a little rise in the prairie and see if they could see us coming. From this point they had seen my horses and had come on a run, with the fortunate result stated."

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN.
May 18.—One storm follows another in the South with a regularity that would be monotonous
were it not for the damage they are doing.
The last one is now central over Iowa, having moved little during the past twenty-four hours,
and increased in intensity, accompanied by a downpour of rain, which extended as far north as we have reports from, Moorhead, having 2.12 inches at Des Moines, Iowa, 1.40, while in other sections it was heavy.The temperature has fallen from 25 to 10 over the Northwest, and risen slightly over the East. There is apparently an area of very high pressure over the Northwest that will move this way today and, after the storm passes, probably bring severe gales.The rainfall here has been light as yet, but will probably continue the greater part of the day. The highest temperature yesterday was 88°, the lowest last night was 40°.DULUTH, May 18.—Local forecast for Duluth until 8 p. m., May 18. Rain, followed by clearing tomorrow; slightly colder; shifting to northwest wind, becoming high.

Observer.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

"Duluth's iron exchange," says the Minneapolis Journal, "seems to have become a den of bears who have been chewing all the life out of the stocks."
The Journal has in these words very aptly described the present unfortunate condition of affairs in connection with the Duluth stock exchange. It is very regrettable that this is the case, but it is,
and every one interested might as well
look it squarely in the face and decide at once what should be done. The withdrawal of the so-called Merritt stocks
from the board was undoubtedly the result of a strong conviction that these stocks were being persistently hammered down by a lot of bears
who were in the employ of certain iron interests opposed to the success of the Mesaba mining companies. These bear attacks have also been directed against the Humphreys' properties, so-called, and it will not be surprising should these stocks be withdrawn from the board list at an early date, if in the meantime the board
does not suspend operations entirely.

The original idea of the exchange was a good one, that of protecting outside speculators from "fake" companies and also of increasing the value of stocks of the best companies. It is questionable whether either one of these objects has been attained. It is very doubtful whether any additional protection has been given to outside investors, while it is absolutely certain that not one of the best companies has been benefited to the extent of one cent by the existence of the exchange. On the contrary the stock of such companies as the Biwabik, Kanawha, Cincinnati, Mountain Iron
and others, which are generally ac-knowledgeed to have splendid properties back of them, has been depreciated in value by the persistent operations of bears, who have even descended to contemptible "fake" trading in order to manipulate the closing prices each day for their own benefit. The option buyer has been a tender lamb who has been carefully shorn. There could be but one result to this mode of running the exchange, and the climax has now been reached.

Petitions have been circulated in favor of closing the exchange. There are some who want to make it an open board, where trading in all stocks would be permissible. The latter plan would at once remove the very safeguards against "wildcat" stocks which the exchange was organized ostensibly to prevent being put upon the market.
It could not but result in serious injury to every company operating upon the Mesaba range. It would be better to close the exchange indefinitely rather than make it an open board where the "wildcat" would stand on an equal footing with the solid, substantial companies.
Perhaps the best idea is to close the exchange until there are some dividend paying stocks which can be listed for trading.

JUDGED BY THE RESULTS.

Several Democratic papers in the East, notably the New York Sun, have set up a big howl on account of the large appropriations made in the river and harbor bill as it passed the house, and they are now denouncing the house, and the Democratic congressmen who refused to follow the Holman cheese-paring policy and voted in the interest of the people, for needed internal improvements. It is noticeable that these newspapers do not attack any special feature of the bill, they do not challenge

the merits of any single item, but they denounce the whole bill on the ground that the total appropriation is a monstrous extravagance.

This attitude of the Eastern press is undoubtedly the result of dense ignorance regarding the importance of the great Western and Southwestern waterways or it is prompted by the influence of the railroad magnates who, as a rule, are anxious to prevent the development of the water routes. The Chicago Inter-Ocean, referring to this matter, says very correctly: "It is to be remembered that there is a tremendous pressure of self-interest against river improvements. The railroads of the country want to minimize water transportation, and neutralize its powers in keeping down freight rates. The latter point is more important than the former. Our great rivers and lakes are the main reliance of the people in cheapening long-haul transportation. They constitute the great belt pitted constantly against the bulks of the rail. That is a factor in the problem which can never be safely ignored, and one which could hardly be overestimated. Another highly important fact to be borne in mind is the relative significance of inland water transportation at the East, with the single exception of the Erie canal, which is maintained by the state of New York."

If these Eastern people were thoroughly acquainted with the great importance of these waterways to the people of the West, and for that matter the country, they might not be so virulent in denunciation of all river and harbor bills.
That there is no other expenditure made by the country that produces such great and direct benefits to the people is shown by the statistics of commerce on the great lakes. In a report on this commerce for the year 1890, now in course of publication in the bureau of statistics of the treasury department,
there are some striking figures showing the remarkable saving in cost of transportation which inures to the benefit of the people of the United States from the use of the lake waterways. That the present low cost of lake transportation
has become possible only through improvements made from time to time in the lake channels, permitting
the operation of the large vessels which comprise the present fleet, and that the people have consequently been greatly benefited, is shown by the following tables:

In 1860 the average rate of lake freight on a bushel of corn between Chicago and Buffalo, was 1.9 cents; in 1871 the same service cost 7½ cents a bushel; in 1879
it cost 1¼ cents a bushel. The average season rate on coal from Buffalo to Duluth and Superior in 1890, was 39.4 cents per ton, and in 1891, 31.8 cents per ton.
From November 10, 1891, to the close of navigation, coal was carried from Buffalo to Duluth, a distance of 1000 miles, for 10 cents a ton. In 1891, the rate on coal by lake from Buffalo to Chicago, during almost the entire season, was from 40 to 60 cents per ton, and the average season rate was 56 cents per ton. In 1887, the average rate was $1.05 per ton. In 1867, it cost an average of $4.25 per ton to carry iron ore from Escanaba to Lake Erie. In 1870, the same service cost
$2.50; in 1889, $1.17, and in 1891, 82 cents.
During the season of 1891, the rate from Escanaba to Lake Erie ports was at times as low as 55 cents per ton. These figures furnish a complete answer to those who claim that too much money is being expended on the waterways and who always denounce the river and harbor bills as extravagance.

And now come reports of a rich gold find near Tower. It will not be surprising if a valuable gold mine be developed near Vermilion lake. But in view of the proximity of the iron ore, a coal mine would be a gold mine. There are many who believe that coal will be found in the Rainy River district.

That this is the "age of pipe lines,"
as some one humorously remarked recently, is still further shown by the proposal to tunnel Niagara and distribute its power by the ubiquitous pipe line.
Oil is now carried in that way, and recently it was proposed to transport coal
in powdered form through similar channels.

Kittel Halvorsen says he will not be a candidate for renomination to congress.
This is not very pleasing news to the people of the Sixth district, and especially of Duluth, who have been patiently waiting for an opportunity of showing this distinguished ignoramus the value
they placed upon his services.

Superior has asked congress for $700-000 to erect a public building. Only the innate modesty of the Wisconsin town prevented the request being raised to $1,000,000. And it is just as likely to get the latter as the former.

Kittel Halvorsen says that one term in congress is enough for him. It has also been sufficient for the district that he was supposed to represent.

The newspaper reporter may have many sins to answer for, but still he is all write.

THE HOMOEOPATHS.

The Herald publishes this evening a report of the excellent address delivered by Dr. D. A. Strickler before the Minnesota State Institute of Homoeopathy, at the Spaulding last evening. It is a very interesting address, which should be carefully read, because it contains some interesting statistics concerning the results of treatment by the three rival schools of medicine in the three leading cities of Minnesota. Homoeopathy has undoubtedly come to stay, and it has able champions in such learned and skilled physicians as Dr. Strickler and his associates.

In this connection, The Herald trusts
that the members of the state institute will not feel hurt by the discourteous manner in which they were alluded to by one of the morning papers today, nor
by the small importance which their proceedings were accorded by both the morning papers. The people of Duluth are glad to see them here and trust that this will not be the last time they will hold their annual gathering in the Zenith city.

AMUSEMENTS.

Corinne in "Carmen."
Corinne and the Kimball Burlesque
Opera company drew a good audience
at the Temple last evening. "Carmen up to Date" is the same burlesque that was presented last year and there is not a new feature in it. Corinne cannot be said to be a star. Her dancing is her best feature, and in this she is very clever. She is rather lithe and supple and kicks well. Her Spanish dance is especially good. As a vocalist, however, Corinne does not shine although she attempts several solos. She has a fair contralto voice which shows some improvement over what it was last year.
Bernard Dyllin, who is still with the company, has an excellent voice and has been especially good in his dramatic character songs. Charles Fostella, as the old maid, is the fun of the show. His patterings as the ballet dancer is as clever as ever. The balance of the cast is not strong. A good comedian would brace up the company wonderfully.
The chorus is a good one and the costuming and stage settings are fine.

Chicago Lady Quartet.
The Chicago Lady quartet will be at the Lyceum tomorrow evening and an excellent fine concert is promised. The numbers on the program are all of a very high order. The quartet comes with splendid recommendations. The ladies are all soloists and one of them,
Miss Marie Louise Knott, is an accomplished pianist. They have with them
Mary Belmont Cope, who is spoken of
as one of the brightest elocutionists on the platform.

THE CHINQUY LECTURES.

Freedom of Speech Should be Accorded Everyone.
Your correspondent, A. M., in last evening's paper, shows so very little sense and exposes his ignorant bigotry
so thoroughly that his communication needs no answer, though it might have been considered quite the thing in the numbers on the program are all of a very high order. The quartet comes
with splendid recommendations. The
ladies are all soloists and one of them,
Miss Marie Louise Knott, is an accomplished pianist. They have with them

There is not a greater philanthropist
in this country. He has given away many fortunes to the poor. He is looked upon as a great benefactor by everybody, Catholics as well as Protestants at his home in St. Anne, Ills. In his benevolence he knows no creed
and sect, and thousands of Catholics
have been helped by his generous hand.
His life has been a very stormy one. He has been unflinching in his fight against what he believes is wrong, and has been mercilessly attacked at every opportunity, not less than twenty attempts having been made on his life, and in some cases he has had very narrow escapes. Churches in which he preached have been wrecked by mobs, and
have been wrecked by mobs, and cowardly ruffians have repeatedly tried to kill him. But he has lived through it all, and although his enemies succeeded in burning his church, destroying his property and the printing house, they have never succeeded in injuring his character
in any way, and it stands unblemished
to this day in spite of the unrelenting
and shameless attacks against him.

I have nothing to say as to his arguments. I care nothing for religious controversy; but I do believe in liberty of conscience and in freedom of speech.
Moses Hill and other infidels have been allowed unmolested to ridicule the Christian religion in Duluth. The Catholic priests and bishops have not been burned at the stake for reviling Protestantism. Why should not Father Chini-quy be allowed to argue against the enemies of our public schools? Yours, etc.,
FRANCOIS XAVIER.

Time to be Americans.

Mora Times: When a man is put up for office principally because he is a vote against him regardless of party ties or affiliations. We are satisfied from what we have recently seen that Knute Nelson is going to be weak enough to enter the race.

THE SINGING IN GOD'S ACRE.

Out yonder in the moonlight, where God's Acres lie,
Go angels walking to and fro, singing their
lullabies:
Their radiant wings are folded and their eyes
are bended low,
As they sing among the beds whereon the flowers delight to grow:

"Sleep, oh, sleep!
The Shepherd guardeth His sheep!
Fast speedeth the night away,
Soon cometh the glorious day,
Sleep, weary ones, while ye may—
Sleep, oh, sleep!"

The flowers within God's Acre see that fair
and wondrous sight
And hear the angels singing to the sleepers
through the night:
And, led throughout the hours of day those gentle flowers prolong
The music of the angels in that tender slumber song:

"Sleep, oh, sleep!
The Shepherd loveth His sheep!
He that guardeth His flock the best
Hath folded them to His loving breast:
So, sleep ye now and take your rest—
Sleep, oh, sleep!"

From angel and from flower the years have learned that soothing song,
And with its heavenly music speed the days
and nights along:
So, through all time, whose flight the Shepherd's vigils glorify,
God's Acre slumbereth in the grace of that sweet lullaby:

"Sleep, oh, sleep!
The Shepherd loveth His sheep!
Fast speedeth the night away,
Soon cometh the glorious day,
Sleep, weary ones, while ye may—
Sleep, oh, sleep!"

When the King Laughed.

One of the three occasions on which Philip IV of Spain laughed was as follows:
Philip's first wife, Isabella of Bourbon,
died in 1648, and the next year he married
the Austrian Archduchess Maria Anna.
This princess understood Spanish, but very imperfectly. Passing on her way to the capital through a certain town which was distinguished for its silk manufactures, she was presented by the inhabitants with a few dozen silk stockings. Heedless of the queen's presence, the master of ceremonies snatched the parcel out of the hands of the town councilors, flung it on the ground and exclaimed in a rage:

"Are you not aware that the queens of Spain are not supposed to have any legs?"
The queen, with her imperfect knowledge of Spanish, here began to weep, called for her father confessor, Reithardt, and told him that she must, to return to Austria. If she had known that in order to become queen of Spain it was necessary to have one's limbs cut off she would rather have died in Germany than undergo the operation in Spain. When this incident was related to the king he burst into loud
laughter before the whole assembled court.
—Vermejo.

Book Plates.

The present may be said to be distinctly
a collecting age; it is also very perceptibly
a book loving one. Now, the study of book plates is a humble, but by no means useless or even closely restricted, branch of bibliography, and the collecting of exlibris is a pursuit which it were wrong to compare, as men have lightly done, to the "hoarding" of postage stamps.
The book plate has an interest which covers three and three-quarters centuries,
and, whether ancient or modern, it may have one or all of the following heads of value to the antiquarian, the artist, the literateur: It may bear a date, and thus help to fix a definite date in gravings and ornamentation; it may appear as a record
of some well known person in the past; it may offer special information to the herald and genealogist; it may be a remarkably handsome thing in itself. —London Saturday Review.

Buffalo Bill's Wife.

The home of Mrs. Buffalo Bill is Stout's Rest, a long, low building four miles from North Platte, on the Union Pacific road.
It is a roomy, hot little old house, surrounded by 3,000 acres of prairie land, and magnificent stables and pasturage, where are kept many thousand fine blooded horses and cattle. Mrs. Cody is described as an amiable, housekeeping woman, greatly liked by her western neighbors, of whom
in turn, and of their customs and habits, she is fond. Her experiences in the early days of her western life and as the wife of a government scout, like a story by Bret Harte. Her daughter Arta married a Nebraska lumberman, and is a leader of society in North Platte. —San Francisco Argonaut.

Struck for Sixteen Dollars a Day.
In San Francisco in 1890 clerks in stores and offices had munificent salaries; five dollars a day was the smallest stipend
even in the custom house, and one Baptist preacher was paid $10,000 a year. Laborers received one dollar an hour, a pick or a shovel was worth ten dollars and a butcher's knife thirty dollars. At one time the carpenters, who were getting twelve dollars a day, struck for sixteen. —Edward Rosewater's Omaha Address.

The First Trumpet.

The first trumpet was a seashell, and was used by very old nations. Trumpets were well known in the days when Homer lived, and a Jewish feast of trumpets is spoken of in the Bible nearly 1500 B. C.
Alexander the Great is said to have used a speaking trumpet 335 B. C. —Harper's Young People.

said, is worn on his cap by the Chinese minister at Washington. It is as large as a pigeon's egg, and is surrounded by diamonds. The value of the cap, with its ornament, is placed at $5,000.

It is said of Thomas B. Reed, the member of congress from Maine who was speaker of the house of representatives for two years, that he considered it a great hardship to have to tell a man the same thing twice.

Various causes may have lowered one's natural powers of endurance—lack of sleep,
chaunting excitements, sedentary habits,
and undue accumulation of fat, a weak-

SHALL IT BE CLOSED?

Some Complaints Which Are Made Against the Method of Doing Business on the Stock Exchange.

Fictitious Bidding is Not Prevented and Prices Are Manipulated by Unscrupulous Dealers.

The Absence of a Minimum Limit in Transactions Allows Questionable Dealings.

The agitation which has been caused by the attempt of the Merritts to withdraw their stocks from the board of the exchange has set many of the iron men and others to talking, and by a little listening, there can be a number of opinions heard as to why the stock exchange is not the success it was predicted it would be. Its method of doing business, and the men who do most of the dealing, are being pretty generally discussed and, in a great many cases, severely criticized.

One of the chief objections which the iron men make against the exchange is that fictitious bidding is allowed in spite of a section in the by laws, which provides for a fine for the member who shall engage in such a practice. This section reads that any "member who shall make fictitious or trifling bids or offers, or who shall offer to buy or sell stock at a less variation than five cents per share when such stocks have a market value of $20 or less per share, or at a less variation than 12 1/2 cents per share when stocks have a market value of over $20 per share, shall be subject to suspension or expulsion from the exchange." It is a fact, iron men claim, that when Biwabik stock was selling above $30 trifling offers of $2 per share have been made and posted on the boards. At other times offers of $1 for Cincinnati have gone on the boards. The members know that they mean nothing, but the public outside of the pit cannot tell.

Another objection to the method of doing business, which is raised, is that there is no limit to the number of shares which may be transferred. A deal for one share may be made and a quotation given the stock because of this sale. The possibilities which this opens up for the manipulation of stocks by unscrupulous dealers are enormous, and the record of the Duluth stock exchange unquestionably shows that this has frequently been done. A small sale, say of ten or twenty shares, may be made almost on the moment of closing time, and this sale may fix the closing price of the day. It can easily be seen how a couple of dealers can make such a deal and at a small sacrifice fix the closing price and save themselves from putting up a margin on a heavier deal. To illustrate, a dealer may sell a large block of a certain stock, say at $4 per share. The stock then steadily rises and a minute before closing time it may be registered at $4.50. If it should close at this he will be obliged to put up a heavy margin, but to save himself he may go to a brother dealer and arrange for a sale of a few shares at a much lower figure at the moment of closing. He watches the dial and almost at the second closes the small deal and it goes on the board as the closing price of the stock and is sent out to the world. This is said to have been done quite often on the exchange since it has been running. If the minimum limit of transactions was fixed at fifty or two shares or more such a condition could not exist. On the New York stock exchange no transaction of less than 1000 shares is recorded. To come nearer home, on the Duluth board of trade no transaction of less than 500 bushels of grain is registered. Fictitious bidding is unknown, at least on the outside. There is said to be one member on the board of trade who continually makes offers to buy at a little less than the market and to sell a little above, for the purpose of hearing himself talk, but nobody pays any attention to him. On the stock exchange it is different. His bids and offers go on the boards.

These are some of the views of iron men and those interested in companies which can be heard every day. The men who are developing the range want the exchange closed for a time, at least, but the bitter opposition comes from the speculators, who are manipulating the market every day.

NORWAY'S LIBERTY.

Her Independence Anniversary is Appropriately Observed.

The audience which filled Turner hall last night was, perhaps, the largest ever crowded into the building, and the street cars on the hill lines, between 8 and 9 o'clock, looked like the old days of baseball crowds. Inside the hall, while the great mass of the people were of Norwegian birth or parentage, yet there were many Americans who came to hear the music, singing and speaking which had been grouped into a most attractive program as a fitting wadup to the celebration of the seventy-eighth anniversary of Norwegian independence. The stage was tastefully draped with Norwegian, Danish and Swedish flags, arranged in the form of an arch, while the entire background was a mammoth United States flag, sprung from the arch on either side was a line carrying five large gilt letters, as follows: "S. H. & E. F." Shortly after the curtain went up some one endeavored to move a stone a trifle, which broke the line and sent the letters tumbling down in undignified abandon on the heads of the orchestra who were playing the opening number. But no one was hurt and everyone laughed. The program was an excellent one. R. K. Doe's speech, judging from the frequent applause, was a highly appreciated discourse on the rise and progress and birth of Norwegian independence. The first song by the male chorus, "Norway," was a little indistinct in some portions of the hall, but it was beautifully sung, and the slight defect was fully remedied in the later number, "The Three Sisters of the North." The musical number by Messrs. Flaeten and Tønning was a violin and piano duo and received a very hearty encore. Miss Augusta Ohlstrom, the young lady with the sweet voice, who has the bad habit of often disappointing audiences who assemble to hear her, was there and actually carried out her part of the program, being very warmly received. Miss Ohlstrom is a singer who is worthy of very hearty and warm treatment at the hands of a music-loving public. Mayor d'Autremont was greeted with deafening applause and his nine minute speech contained many remarks complimentary to the sons and daughters of Scandia, who have become adopted children of this nation. Per L. Laska, the Scandinavian editor, delivered a short but vigorous discourse. Dancing followed the program and the East showed signs of approaching day when the last of the guests departed for their homes.

WEST DULUTH.

West Duluth office of The Herald, room 4, Sullivan building, where statements are made, may be left.

C. S. Munson, of Cincinnati, is looking over the city.

Rev. H. H. Fleir, of St. Paul, is visiting his brother at this place.

G. H. Reeves has gone to Taylor's Falls on a short business trip.

E. S. Marshall, of Lynn, Mass., is a guest of friends in the city today.

Johnson S. Brevort, of St. Paul, is in the city and may decide to locate here.

W. K. Ogden has moved his family into their new home, corner of Central avenue and Fourth street.

The village poundmaster has commenced work and will impound all cattle found at large upon the street.

H. J. A. Todd and son will leave in a few days for Dodgeville, Wis., where they will visit for several months.

The entertainment and hop given by the Foresters at Hoyt's hall last evening was largely attended and proved a very enjoyable affair.

Ed Home left yesterday afternoon for Milwaukee, after a short visit with relatives there, will leave for a three months' tour in Europe.

The rains this morning caused a general cessation on all street work and will cause heavy loss to contractors, besides leaving many of the streets in an impassable condition.

P. J. Smith, of Bessemer, Mich., has bought the lease on the Phillips hotel and will probably take possession in a day or two. Mr. Smith is a well recommended hotel man and comes well recommended.

About $100,000 worth of street improvements are now under way and contracted for. If the proposed sewer work is done this season our public improvements will amount to more than a half million dollars.

Richard & Gilmore wish to announce to the public that they have returned and are again in possession of their blacksmith shop on First avenue west.

They have a larger force and are better equipped to turn out work than ever. A trial order is respectfully solicited.

THE MARINETTE WORKS.

First Casting for the York Machinery Works, Yonkers, N. Y., yesterday.

The Marquette iron works made the first casting for the York plant yesterday. It is a portion of the track for the rolls and weighs three tons. This casting also included some iron for temporary use in building the engines. Four engines, having a combined capacity of 2500 horse power are to be constructed and will be used in the rolling mill.

The works also loaded a duplex engine and 6-foot hoisting drum yesterday, which is to be sent to Marquette to be used on the Menominee range. A hand mill was also shipped to Washington last evening to go into a lumber mill.

RIVERS AND HARBORS.

The Senate Committee Makes Strong Arguments for the Appropriations.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The printed report of the senate committee on appropriations made in the river and harbor bill, was presented yesterday. It contains about 425 pages and excellent arguments are submitted showing the need of all the improvements for which the appropriations are reported favorably. Everything of interest to Minnesota, Wisconsin and the entire North-west, is ably given. It is probable that Senator Washburn prepared all the reports of interest to Minnesota.

A PLUM FOR "BOB" EVANS.

Made Special Assistant U. S. District Attorney.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—It has leaked out that the position of special assistant United States district attorney for the state of Minnesota, with a salary of $4000 a year, has been tendered to Robert G. Evans, of Minneapolis, and that the appointment has been made by the president through the department of justice. Mr. Evans has accepted the appointment and has already entered upon his duties.

IN THAT FATAL CHAIR.

Joseph L. Tice Executed in the State Prison at Auburn, N. Y., This Morning by Electricity's Aid.

He Was the State's Ninth Victim and He Met Death Bravely But Without any Bravado.

After the Current Was Turned on There Was Not the Slightest Sound Nor Any Convulsions.

AUBURN, N. Y., May 18.—For the second time the state's original electrical execution apparatus was used today in Auburn, and in the chair where Kemmler was experimented upon Joseph L. Tice was electrocuted, being the state's ninth victim. He met death bravely and yet not with any bravado, and so far as human ingenuity or science can discover he died instantly and without pain. The execution lasted but a few seconds. From the time the warden notified him in his cell that all was in readiness until death was announced was two and one-half minutes. The quickest report execution in this state has been timed in twenty-six minutes.

Tice passed his last night on earth as quiet and collected as he has the previous ones of the week, and his calmness and evident lack of interest in the exact time was certainly remarkable. The only allusion he made to it last night was when he lay down on his cot saying "I am quite tired but I shall not be weary very long."

He did not forget his devotions, and as usual read a chapter out of the Bible. Tice looked as well if not better than he has at any time since his incarceration. He ate his last meal quite heartily, and when asked how he felt, said: "Very good, except the pain in my back." At midnight Guard McNaughton awoke the prisoner, and he arose and dressed. Then he was shaved. He said nothing, but after the operation was over he lay down in his clothes. At 5 o'clock Chaplain Yates and Rev. Mr. Penny visited him and held religious devotions. To Mr. Penny he said: "My heart about as usual. I shall know no pain." The clergyman stayed with him while he drank a cup of coffee and ate very sparingly.

It was 5:30 o'clock this morning when the witnesses who had previously viewed the apparatus were notified that their presence was desired and they filed to their places in the execution room. The warden, F. D. Penny, Chaplain Yates, and the chief clerk, E. J. B. Graham, were in the former executions, but there was a largely increased voltage and some of the straps to be affixed to the face had been changed. Those who stood about the chair were: Electrician C. A. Welsh, of Syracuse; G. E. Graham, of the United Press, Albany; Pierre Purcell, of Rochester; Dr. Sawyer, of Auburn; Dr. Daniels, of Buffalo; Dr. Smith, of Albany; F. D. Penny, Chaplain Yates, of Auburn; Dr. Arthur G. Root, of Albany; Dr. J. P. Ruffely, William F. Lansing, Little Falls; Edward Mallon, Auburn; Reuben Myers, L. C. Washburn, Auburn; Dr. G. C. Fell, Buffalo; H. D. Burrell, Syracuse; Dr. C. O. Banker and H. D. Peck, Auburn.

When all had grouped themselves about the chair electrician Davis pressed the signal button five times and the row of sixteen electric lights in the closet glowed brightly. He pressed it twice again for more current and then quickly switched the current into the test lamps on the chair. The response was instantaneous and the electrician broke the connection and took the lamp away. Warden Durston then stepped to the chair and said to the prisoner: "Come, Joseph" and Chaplain Yates assisted him to rise. His face was ashen pale and every bit of color had left his lips. He said nothing, but took his cane and without any assistance, but his friendly support, walked into the execution chamber. He glanced neither to the right nor to the left and did not shrink as the warden said: "Sit down."

Not a muscle seemed to tremble; there was hardly a tremor of the frame, only the slight deviation of the head and the downward eye gave notice that he realized the awful trial. Neither chaplain nor prisoner said a word. More expeditiously than can be told the guards affixed the straps, and again the man in charge, saying as the head strap was affixed: "A little higher, or you will break the nose." The head electrode was the metal cap filled with sponges and brining the current into the temples; the opposite was fixed to the calf of the left leg. It was just 38 minutes after 6 when he sat down in the chair and at exactly 6:35 to the second, Dr. Daniels, who stood out in front, raised his hand. Warden Brown, of Sing Sing, had, a few seconds before, turned on salt water that ran from rubber bags through rubber tubes to the electrode sponges. Electrician Davis moved the switch and the body straightened up against the straps, 1720 volts being driven through it. For fifteen seconds Dr. Daniels kept his hand raised, but he dropped it. The body sank back almost imperceptibly. For three seconds the current remained off and during that time there was not a quiver of the lips or a twitch of the fingers. Then the doctor signaled again, and again the body stiffened up as the current struck it. Fifteen seconds it stayed so; then the current was switched off for five seconds. Again the body collapsed, but there was not the slightest sound nor emission from the mouth. Ten seconds more of contact, then an interval of five seconds and ten more of contact.

The man was dead. There had been no sign of respiration, there was no emission from the mouth and the only visible effect of the current was a slight steaming from the evaporation in the leg sponges. Electrician Davis moved the switch and the body straightened up against the straps, 1720 volts being driven through it. For fifteen seconds Dr. Daniels kept his hand raised, but he dropped it. The body sank back almost imperceptibly. For three seconds the current remained off and during that time there was not a quiver of the lips or a twitch of the fingers. Then the doctor signaled again, and again the body stiffened up as the current struck it. Fifteen seconds it stayed so; then the current was switched off for five seconds. Again the body collapsed, but there was not the slightest sound nor emission from the mouth. Ten seconds more of contact, then an interval of five seconds and ten more of contact.

The man was dead. There had been no sign of respiration, there was no emission from the mouth and the only visible effect of the current was a slight steaming from the evaporation in the leg sponges. ## FACTS FOR THE LADIES

A Few Figures Which Prove That It is Cheaper to Go Abroad Than to the Seashore.

Mrs. Frank Leslie Offers Some Hints to Travelers Which Will Probably be Found Very Valuable.

How to Spend a Thousand Dollars to Best Advantage—Much May Be Enjoyed For That Sum.

WAS a good deal amused the other day by the remarks of a dear honest fellow, a friend of mine, just returned from one of those hop-epick-and-jump excursions to "the other side," now so commonly substituted for the old summer vacation at some watering place, where one simply repeats in a very inconvenient and tiresome style the laborious pleasures of the winter in a great city.

And just by way of parenthesis, let me commend the new fashion to all my compatriots who have not yet tried it and who have the means to do so.

I suppose no individual can spend a season at Long Branch, Newport, Saratoga and the White Mountains for less than a thousand dollars, and of course there are opportunities for spending considerably more if one is so inclined and has it to spend. I do not address the larger class who, as I am informed, manage to incur charges of a thousand dollars or over and get away without paying them. If there are any such persons among my readers, I cannot advise them to "go across" instead of patronizing trustful and amiable landlords at home, for the simple reason that they could not do it. A Cunard ticket is a cash article, and the wandering American abroad must pay as he goes, and if he does not disguise his nationality must pay about double the price a Frenchman or German would be charged.

In fact, the American abroad, or, as one might say from the European landlord standpoint, the American innocent abroad have almost supplanted the Englishman, who used to be the type of wealthy folly and ignorance of the value of money. To be sure, a great many Europeans of the landlord class confuse the two nationalities and call all English-speaking people "Miser Anglais," without heeding the exact meridian whence they spring. The golden goose is as valuable if it come across the high seas or only across the narrow seas, and is as sure to scatter its golden eggs with careless profusion in the one case as the other. But like the goose, my own proper goose quill is wandering from its subject, and that subject is the recommending you, my dear reader, to spend your next spare thousand dollars in getting under a cursory view of the older countries, which of course, we all agree, are not half so good as ours, but still have merits of their own worth a few weeks' study at least.

If you intend to travel en prince, ride in first class carriages, stay at first class, or rather at fashionable hotels, buy everything you see, move about from place to place like the restless and energetic American you are, the thousand dollars won't last many weeks, and you will do well to put aside a hundred dollars with your return ticket so that when your last bill at Maurice's is rendered, and your hair stiffens in horror upon your head, and your careful French completely fails to convey your sense of indignation and astonishment, you may still have the means of getting home, a sadder but a much wiser man than when you left it.

If, however, you have the wisdom to accept the experience of those who before you have "done the grand tour," as it is used to be called, and have themselves been done charmingly brown by the money gatherers of foreign lands, if you will read, mark and inwardly digest the warnings and the advice so plentifully printed in books, and now once more proffered for your consideration, you may make your thousand dollars spread over many months, and perhaps a year, including of course the passages across the Atlantic.

In fact, I know a gentleman who, wishing to pursue certain studies in the cathedral cities of England, went there, staid a year, and returned, all upon $500; but it is not everybody who could or who would care to do as much as this, but I mention it to show what may be done by a man devoted to his art and careless of his bodily comfort. But upon the basis of $1,000 a great deal may be seen and done and enjoyed.

In the first place, the second saloon on a large ocean steamer is perfectly comfortable and respectable, and I have known many persons of larger brains than purses who have taken their tickets "intermediate" and survived to tell the tale with great satisfaction, notably a clergyman of my acquaintance whom royalty has been pleased to honor when once he had arrived in England, and who is always recommending his friends to go and do likewise. Then, having reached England, France or Germany, according to which line you select—and here I will mention that the German is the cheapest, the French most amusing and the English the most luxurious—your first business is to find lodgings and get yourself out of the hotel whither you at first naturally make your way, unless, indeed, you have been provident enough to ask some friend of experience to recommend you to a good lodging, and to make a bargain for your time there. Then find out what is to be seen and discover how much of it is within walking distance. Don't employ valets de place or cicerones

if you want to save both your money and your temper, but employ your English tongue (if you are in England) and your American wits, which are at least as keen as those of any other nationality.

If you use carriages find out the proper and legal charge and have it clearly understood before you start. Don't be niggardly in giving "tips" here and there, for the custom abroad is so universal that you only lay yourself open to insult and neglect by ignoring it, but it is not necessary to be lavish in this matter. A shilling—that is to say a quarter of a dollar in our money—satisfies a large proportion of the horse leeches who cry "Giv'el give!" at every turn.

Then in the matter of clothes: plain, unobtrusive, neat garments are really more refined and in better taste for a traveler than anything costly or showy. You will find duchesses, not to say princesses, at certain times and places luxuriating in homespun and soft wool fabrics, with all their velvets and laces left in charge of the maid, who for her part would scorn appearing in anything less than silk.

Remember always in traveling that, although the world is small in one way, in another it is pretty big, and that although in your own town or your own circle you are a very big fish, and much regarded and commented upon by the smaller fry around you, that when you move out of your native puddle into the next one you find other fish quite as big as yourself and other fry quite too absorbed in watching their own magnates to have much time for contemplating you. There is no such efficient lesson in humility as to travel economically in countries foreign to your own. Even though you write your name in full upon every hotel register and in every gallery, museum and hospice where you are allowed to do so, you will seldom find that anybody will turn to look after you as you move away.

The czar, the emperor, the queens dowager and regnant, the sultan and Tom Thumb are sure to have a following of gaping admirers, and must, poor things, find it a great bore never to be able to gaze or sneeze without seeing it in print next day; but the rest of us, especially we untitled Americans, need not trouble too much about preserving our incognito, for as a general thing it preserves itself, and we may make our little economies and pursue our own little way, quite sure that we shall, "the world forgetting," be "by the world forgot."

Another point in the wise expenditure of this thousand dollars is to see a few places thoroughly, and not try to visit every point of interest in Europe. It is traveling and hotel charges that eat up one's funds on such excursions. If you make straight for London, put yourself at once into lodgings at the West End, and make good use of your own feet, of "buses" and cabs at fixed rates, and you can spend a month or so with great profit and pleasure, and at a comparatively small outlay.

You can't go to the races, nor to Greenwich for whitebait dinners, nor have boxes at the opera, nor flowers from Covent Garden, nor can you enjoy the varied and profuse table Americans think necessary; in fact, you must economize all the time, and if you will do so you will find that there are a great many things to be had in London that you cannot have at home, and it is better to save money at the one point that you may spend it at another.

On this head of domestic economy abroad, let me remind you that nowhere abroad, especially in England, may you have fruit, vegetables and flowers as profusely and cheaply as in America. I remember a friend who, intending to make a little money go a long way, lived in lodgings in London, ordering her food day by day from the landlady, who buys and prepares it, bringing in a weekly account of her expenditure. Thinking to be very economical, my friend ordered lightly of meats and made it up on vegetables and fruit. At the end of the month she was presented with a bill whose amount would have kept her at a first class New York hotel for the same length of time, and on examination found that for twenty days she had paid twenty dollars in the item of green peas alone.

In Paris the cheap way to live is to find two or three friends with whom you may take a little furnished apartment and a bonne, who will make your purchases of food, fuel, etc., charging a moderate percentage, and not, as a general thing, cheating you more than is customary and tolerable. This is a very pleasant and a very economical way to live if only you can find the two or three friends, and do not expect to be very comfortable in the way of warmth, for fuel is a great luxury in Paris.

You may live after this fashion still more economically in the German cities, notably Munich, which is sometimes spoken of as the most economical city in Europe, and there are certainly many things in Munich worth considering. For myself I don't like Germany nor German cities, being essentially Latin in my tastes, antecedents and associates, but you, on the other hand, may be a Saxon, and find in the Vater-Land everything your heart can desire.

Speaking of Germany reminds me that I began by speaking of the ingenious youth who was giving me an account of his travels, and the thing that amused me most was his description of the table d'hôte dinner at which for some days "assisted" in a German town whose name I have forgotten, and where he was very much impressed with the fact that everybody, even very ordinary guests indeed, bowed politely to the company upon seating themselves, made conversation with their neighbors as occasion suggested, offered little table courtesies to each other as if they were at home, and finally, on rising, uttered the gracious German valedictory of "Mahazzeit!" that is to say, "Good luck with your digestion, friends!"

"The idea of wishing a lot of strangers anything at all!" exclaimed this most amusing young fellow. "And above all to concern themselves lest that villainous cabbage soup and greasy sausage should disagree with me, as of course they were safe to do, and did. Still it was very friendly of those fellows to say it, and of course I didn't want they should think we Americans didn't know manners and couldn't be as pretty behaved as a German, so after the first dinner I took to bowing and Mahazzeit as well as the next man. Don't you think it was the right thing to do?"

Certainly I thought it the right thing to do and told him so, and also took occasion to air a favorite theory of my own that Americans ought always and everywhere to deal with everybody to be as well mannered as anybody else under the sun. We as a nation are made up from every people and every race, and there is no reason that we should not assimilate and practice not only those sturdy and ponderous virtues of the English, upon which we are so apt to plume ourselves, but the more gracious and graceful qualities of the Latin races.

Whether the Frenchman, or the Spaniard, or the Italian means sincerely every word he says or not, it is certainly pleasant to hear him say it; and just should not his American cousin be just as courteous as he, and at the same time just as sincere and reliable as their mutual cousin, John Bull? I don't see why we need always to "take after" one side of our ancestry and ignore the other. Let us, if not alone, certainly in our manner, say to all our fellow travelers, as I now say cordially to you, Mahazzeit! MRS. FRANK LESLIE.

Paris Fashions. The new spring gowns are characterized by lightness and delicate effects which have not been seen in Paris for many seasons. The crepons, the spring weight wools and the silks and grenadines all have a light and floating effect, given partly by lace and ribbons, and partly by the waving accordion plisses which one sees everywhere. And the windows and magazines are full of painted or printed muslins and of light silks with cascades of ruffles of chiffon and silk, all so fine that a breath sets it waving.

There are beautiful light parasols covered with floating ruffles of chiffon, fans covered with puffs and ruffles of the same, and veils and scarfs for hats of the same delicate material. What a pity it remains so dear when it is so pretty.

For immediate wear there are light-colored Bedford-cashmeres and wools, with quaint but beautiful figures woven or printed thereon, and no matter what the pattern of the silk, a chameleon effect more or less pronounced is observed. The highest novelty is Broussa silk, which is crepe-like, but lighter than crepe, and it is embroidered in gold, blue and red oriental threads, and looks like a walking edition of the Koran, but it is very beautiful and durable.

There are also plaited cashmeres and tucked materials in almost every kind of goods for the making of spring suits. Iron frame grommings, with satin borders woven to represent ribbon sewed on, is very rich and elegant. Most of these are black, others have the borders colored.

The Russian blouse will be the rage, and is seen in everything from chiffon to the heaviest traveling gown. Those in the thinner goods will be adapted to circumstances, but the heavier ones will be Russian pure and simple. Printed muslins are made up over satin or colored taffetas. The robe in the illustration is of pale green stamped delaine, with sleeves and ruffle made of embroidered painted muslin. The hat is of openwork green straw, with marguerites. The parasol is of green gauze with ruffle of the same painted muslin. Ribbons, moss green.

A Chicago Beauty.

Mrs. Hamilton McCormack, of Chicago, is of English birth, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Plummer, of Canterbury. She received a liberal education and is a fine linguist and Greek scholar. Rather alone medium height and of noticeably fine physique, Mrs. McCormack has brought to her American home a fair English face. Mrs. McCormack is an experienced equestrienne and a good whip. Her appearance at the menu attracts all eyes. During her brief residence in Chicago she has drawn about her a legion of loyal friends.

The Diamond is Missing. John Smith, of Buffalo, snatched a $100 diamond stud one morning recently from Henry Becker at the Chambers street ferry. Becker and a policeman pursued him, and he jumped into the river, intending to swim across. He gave up the task, and returning to the dock was captured. The stud was not recovered.

THE SECRET SOCIETIES

Something About George W. Kendrick, Jr., Supreme Treasurer of the Legion of Honor.

The St. Paul Odd Fellows Perfecting Plans for a Temple in the Heart of the City.

A Fine Pythian Castle to be Erected in Macon, Ga.—Masonic Charity in New York State.

Past Grand Commander George W. Kendrick was born in Philadelphia, July 31, 1841, says The American Legion of Honor Journal. He graduated from the Boys' Central high school, and accepted a position in a broker's office, where he remained until he engaged in business for himself in 1865.

His first entry into fraternal organizations was in 1862, when he became connected with the Masonic fraternity, in which he has been an active and zealous worker, and he has been rewarded by the election to many honored positions in that great order.

Companion Kendrick was one of the charter members of the first council instituted in Philadelphia of the American Legion of Honor and was elected commander, and at the formation of the grand council of Pennsylvania he was elected grand vice commander and afterward grand commander. He was elected representative to the supreme council in 1882, and re-elected at every session since, was elected a member of the committee on finance in the supreme council in 1882, and supreme treasurer at the session of 1891. He has always resided in Philadelphia and enjoys an extensive acquaintance among the residents of that city, and through the active part he has taken in Masonic affairs is well known throughout the state of Pennsylvania.

Like all good citizens, he takes an active interest in politics, and was elected a member of the city council of Philadelphia in 1872-3 from a strong Democratic ward, and in 1874-5 from a strong Republican ward, which goes to prove that he enjoys the confidence of the electors irrespective of party.

He has been a member of the supreme council for ten years, and has always been active and fearless in the discharge of his duties. Possessed of clear, cool judgment, he studies the needs of the order and labors for what he believes to be its best interests. He is an amiable and courteous gentleman of pleasing manners, a capable and efficient officer and a most useful member of the American Legion of Honor.

MASONIC.

The splendid Home and School at Utica, N. Y.—Clips.

The home and school at Utica will, when completed, crown the noble work of Masonic charity in New York state. The building is being erected on 170 acres of land. Nothing equal to the building exists for a similar purpose in the United States, and the Masonic school in London is the only institution in the world which approaches it. It will be four stories in height, exclusive of the basement ten feet above ground, having a frontage of 180 feet and 133 feet in depth. The general outline of the structure on the ground will be like the letter F, with a court in the center. In the shape of the building special regard is had to a future addition should it be required without destroying the harmony of the plan. The cost is limited to the sum of $175,000, for which the money is in hand.

The beautiful Masonic hall at Cape Town, Africa, the property of Lodge de Goede Hoop, was totally destroyed by fire not long ago. It was built in 1893 and cost $20,000. Its exterior was of massive stone in oriental style of architecture. The Lodge de Goede Hoop was established in 1772 by the grand lodge of the Netherlands, and it is the mother lodge of all the other lodges in the Cape of Good Hope, and in fact of South Africa.

Bro. Will Dwigans, the smallest Mason in Iowa, was raised to the degree of Master Mason in Benton City lodge, No. 31, Shellsburg, Ia. He is 40 inches high and thirty-seven years of age, and was born and raised in Shellsburg. The degree was conferred by Bro. Sidney Smith, the editor of Iowa Masonry, and who is but 14 inches taller than the candidate.

The fund being raised in England to purchase an annuity for Bro. R. F. Gould, P. G. D., author of the "History of Freemasonry," who finds himself in great distress in the evening of his life, has reached the neighborhood of £200, about half the amount desired.

The death of M. W. Bro. Moreland, of India, has occasioned a vacancy in the office of grand master. Bro. J. W. Smith, of Bombay, has been appointed to fill it. St. John's commandery, Providence, has a continuous record from the first meeting in 1802. It is the only Templar body in this country that can produce such a record.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

A Splendid Temple to Be Built at Macon, Ga.—Helmet Clints.

One of the finest Pythian castles in the south is to be built in Macon. The castle is to be built on the stock plan, each member of the Knights of Pythias who so desires subscribing to one or more shares of stock. This stock has been subscribed for, and the stockholders are among the wealthiest and most prominent citizens. The building will be three stories high and so constructed as to admit of two stores and also offices, which will pay a handsome profit on the investment.

The eastern states are encouraging and supporting the Pythian sisterhood. Many assemblies have been formed and are successful.

St. Louis is to have a new Pythian hall. What Cheer lodge, of Providence, is preparing a library and reading room. Members are contributing books. At a recent meeting two brethren donated each 50 volumes.

New Jersey added 17 new lodges to its roll last year.

During January 402 applications were received by Supreme Secretary Kennedy of the E. H. This represents $800,000 insurance.

Ohio has a membership of about 40,000.

A Veteran association is being agitated in Jersey City.

The lodges of Missouri have assets aggregating $192,349.67.

The work of furthering the interests of the Pythian Orphans' home, of Ohio, is being pushed forward with energy.

Arranging for a Handsome Temple in St. Paul.—Notes.

The Odd Fellows of St. Paul, are industriously engaged in perfecting plans for a temple in the heart of the city which will be a very handsome structure. In order to get the movement successfully under way, stock to the amount of $35,000 must be subscribed before the call can be issued for the first annual meeting, at which time the subscribers will proceed to elect the first board of directors. Every lodge which has stock to the amount of $100 will have one director on the board, elected there to by the stockholders, who will also elect the other directors, to the number of twenty-five. The building will probably be a four story structure, with basement and all modern improvements. The two upper floors are to be set apart to the order. The next two floors and the basement are to be rented. The amount under which the corporation will organize is $250,000, divided into 10,000 shares at $25 each.

Columbus lodge, of Canton, O., claims to have the oldest Odd Fellow living—Bro. J. Oistot. He is over eighty-seven years old.

Great Falls (N. H.) Odd Fellows are discussing a project to build a block 100 by 70 feet, with stores in the first story, an opera house in the second, a hall in the third, with banquet rooms, etc., in the fourth.

Buffalo proposes to show a good record during the year. Its favored son, the Hon. Jacob Stern, is grand master. Commodore Perry lodge, No. 623, has been instituted, with 51 charter members, and Rebekah lodge, No. 133, has joined the procession.

The grand treasurer of Kansas receives $300 annually.

A new hall has been dedicated to the order at Somerville, Mass.

Cleveland Union lodge, D. of R., of Ohio, has provided itself with new paraphernalia, which, it is claimed, is far above the average and probably not equalled in beauty anywhere.

The reports from the Odd Fellows' lodges in the Massachusetts jurisdiction received by the grand secretary show a net gain of 860 members for 1891.

Thomas Wilder, the founder of American Odd Fellowship, was the first noble grand of the first lodge and the first grand master of the first grand lodge in the order.

Like the Masonic movement in Missouri, the Odd Fellows are endeavoring to organize a new insurance association to take the place of the one recently suspended.

A Swedish encampment will shortly be instituted in Chicago.

Baltimore City lodge celebrated its 2,388th consecutive meeting night recently. The total membership of the Rebekah lodges is 132,808, with assets amounting to $37,800.

Brooklyn is to have a Swedish lodge. It will be located at the corner of Vanderbilt and Atlantic avenues.

Rhode Island has 22 Rebekah degree lodges, with a membership of 9,081.

Past Grand Master Barnes, now of California, is supervising the preparation of a historical record of the veteran Odd Fellows of the Pacific coast. It will be an interesting book.

There are 1,222 Odd Fellows in the city of Manchester, N. H.

Total Annual Disbursements Since Organization.—Notes.

The following are the total disbursements of the beneficiary fund from the birth of the order to Jan. 1, 1891: 1808 to 1878, $200,460.35; 1878, $200,980.50; 1879, $1,043,556.34; 1880, $1,205,287.50; 1881, $1,529,555.80; 1882, $1,792,603.34; 1883, $2,031,047.20; 1884, $2,180,130.30; 1885, $2,506,458.20; 1886, $2,942,267; 1887, $3,453,287; 1888, $3,985,083.19; 1889, $4,153,708.29; 1890, $4,702,157.09; total, $33,248,339.75.

At the beginning of the present year there were in the order 273,698 members.

New Jersey has now a grand lodge. It is set apart as a separate beneficiary jurisdiction.

At the recent session of the grand lodge of Massachusetts, official figures presented show a membership of 26,346, a gain in one year of 5,881.

The labor bureau at St. Louis has found work for over 300 members. The bureau is receiving much encouragement and has been officially indorsed by the grand lodge. Judgment has been rendered in favor of Mrs. Belcham, who was refused the death benefit at her husband's death because he had been expelled from the order. She claimed he was insane. Judgment was for full amount and interest.

The grand lodge of Illinois paid out $360,000 in January, which is $12,000 a day, or $500 per hour, or $83 per minute, night and day.

The gain for the first three months of 1892 exceeds that of 1891 by over 300.

New members admitted in January, 3,515.

The Illinois grand lodge has no debt, with $3,164.47 in the general fund.

Royal Arcanum.

Feb. 29 there were 127,066 members of the order in 1,432 councils.

For the three months ending Dec. 31, 1891, the receipts in the supreme general fund were $16,255.34 and the disbursements $23,182.76, including $9,237.58 for real estate account.

There are 74 councils now organized in New Jersey. These number collectively about 8,000, and nearly a dozen new councils are in process of organization throughout the state. Last year New Jersey led all the other states in percentage of increase, and this year the record will be maintained.

There are 19 grand councils in the order.

Knights and Ladies of Honor.

There were 8,457 certificates issued in 1891.

Jan. 1 there was a total membership of 71,524.

The beneficiary call last year amounted to $994,000.

At the first of the year there were in force 67,337 certificates.

Jewel lodge, of Boston, has been made the recipient of a crayon portrait of the late S. P. H. P. Gage.

New Drinks and Old Ones Secure Sentences.

Six sad eyed drunks looked appealingly at Judge Powell this morning, but the weather was bad and justice was a little bit even this morning—that is, there was nothing to complain of. Hugh McCloy, Peter MacGregor, Sandy McMann and James Burke were plain, first time drunks and they were assessed $10 each. They could not pay, and took the usual ten days' trip. John M. Smith, his second offense, was up for being drunk, but he pleaded not guilty and said it was due to an overdose of choral. The judge will test the choral plan next Friday and John Smith is "in hoc" in default of $30 bail. John Dulasko was the next name called and it was John's second offense, but he pleaded guilty. Mr. Dulasko is very well known in Duluth under his real name of Collins, and Judge Powell gave him a short lecture on the evil habits he had fallen into. He was sentenced to $20 or 30 days. Mr. Dulasko, nee Collins, is the gentleman who ran for alderman some time ago and who subsequently "melted" out of the West End lock up in such a mysterious manner, at least that's what the authorities say. The Haskins horse case is still on before Judge Powell, and Judge Winje is occupied with a lot of petty criminal matters.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder,

TAKE NO OTHER.

It Contains Neither Alum, Ammonia, or Any Other Adulterant.

Richardson's "Diseases of Modern Life"—The action of ammonia on the body is that of an irritant and it tends to hold the blood in a state of fluidity. It also interferes with the process of oxidation of organic matter so that it becomes an antiseptic, and it rapidly decomposes that allotropic condition of oxygen which is called ozone. Thus ammonia present in the atmosphere, daily respired by living beings, is injurious and we see its effects in the pallor and feebleness of many who dwell in houses in the air of which ammonia is always present—houses over stables, for example, or in close proximity to decomposing organic refuse.

Liebig the celebrated chemist, says of alum, that it is very apt to disorder the stomach and to occasion acidity and dyspepsia.

THOSE RIVAL SCHOOLS

Homeopathy Ably Discussed by Dr. D. A. Strickler, of St. Paul, Before the State Institute Last Evening.

Statistics Produced Showing Results From the Treatment by Each School In Three Leading Minnesota Cities.

Papers Read on Various Subjects at Today's Session of the Institute—Election of Officers This Afternoon.

At the session of the Minnesota State Institute of Homeopathy last evening, the president, Dr. David A. Strickler, of St. Paul, delivered an interesting address, which was largely a reply to a recent statement by Dr. H. C. Wood that homeopathy is rapidly waning in every country of the world except the United States, and that here, owing to the latitude given, the American homeopath does not practice Hahnemannism, and it has therefore ceased to exist save as a trade mark to the public. After quoting extensively from Wood's late treatise, Dr. Strickler said: "The words quoted speak for themselves, and with you, who can see animus and injustice of the mind that dictated them, they can have but little weight. The logic, the force of which lies in impugning the motives and honesty of a body of men of the integrity of the homeopaths in America, is indeed weak. That a man bearing the title of L. L. D. feels called upon to use this as his main argument should convince anyone that his position is poorly fortified, and that this is a fact shall be my aim to prove to all candid minds. The cause of the survival of homeopathy may be treated from the theoretical or from the practical side; from the side of its reasonableness, or from the side of results accomplished. Many excellent articles have been written on both sides. What I shall say will be on the side of results accomplished. You are more or less familiar with the statistics showing the treatment over that of the self-styled regulars of the present day."

Dr. Strickler quoted some Buffalo statistics of the results of treatment by the two schools of medicine, which were contained in a recent address by Dr. F. P. Lewis, of that city, and added: "In conjunction with the above it is my pleasure to add the results of a somewhat similar investigation, made by myself, of the boards of health in St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, the three principal cities in Minnesota. The Minneapolis investigations were confined to the year 1891. The St. Paul investigations cover 1890 as well as 1891. The Duluth investigations cover the first six months of 1891. The reason for the periods in the different cities is that investigations of Duluth were made in July of last year, when the full year could not be obtained. St. Paul comes in for a double period supply because the records were more accessible to me. If any question the completeness of my investigations, I hope he will take the trouble to look the matter up and satisfy himself of their thoroughness. It is himself claimed that some slight clerical errors may have been made, but it is claimed that no material error will be found. There are some differences in the requirements and management of the different boards of health. St. Paul requires the physicians to report all cases of scarlet fever and diphtheria, together with births and deaths from all causes. Duluth requires in conjunction with the above, typhoid fever cases. Minneapolis goes one better than Duluth in requiring measles to be reported. In no city is the diagnosis verified by the health officer, though in Minneapolis, under Klavington's administration, this was required. All deaths resulting from violence, or under the care of the city physician and coroner, as far as the same could be ascertained from the records, together with all premature and still births, have been deducted from the totals. This, it is believed, places the two schools on the same footing, and, ceteris paribus, they should both give the same results.

The only unknown quantity is the actual number of each disease treated by the two schools. This quantity may be approximated, it seems to me, by two methods: First, by counting the physicians of the two schools, and assuming that each treats on an average the same number of cases; and second, by noting the number of births and contagious diseases reported by each school, and letting the ratio existing between the two sums represent the ratio of work being done by the two schools. Still a third method, which is as exact as public records can make it, is to take the actual number of cases reported of any disease with the number of deaths from the same. Unfortunately this is applicable to so few diseases that it cannot be used to any extent in this report. Of the first two methods, the latter, or that of letting the sums of the births and contagious diseases reported by the two schools represent their proportion of all work done, seems to me the fairer method, as it is a matter of public record, while the actual number of physicians in practice at any given time is difficult if not impossible to learn. The results by the method designated may be tabulated as follows: Duluth—Six months ending July 1, 1891, cases reported, allopathic, 8,26; to homeopathic, 1.

Diseases.	Deaths from		Proportion
	Allopath.	Hom.	Allopath.	Hom.
Measles.....	3	0	3 to 0
Scarlet fever.....	1	0	1 to 0
Diphtheria.....	10	2	5 to 1
Acute bowel diseases.....	29	0	29 to 0
Acute respiratory d's.....	45	1	45 to 1
All causes.....	222	13	15 to 1

St. Paul—Two years ending Jan. 1, 1892, cases reported, allopathic, 7,24; homeopathic, 1. Deaths from all diseases—Allopath, 2,066; homeopathic, 295. Proportion—Allopath, 10.15 to 1 homeopathic. Minneapolis—One year ending Jan. 1, 1892, work reported, allopathic, 3,84; homeopathic, 1. Deaths from all diseases, allopathic, 1,536; homeopathic, 295. Proportion, 5.21 to 1 homeopathic. St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, proportion, allopathic 5.3 to homeopathic, 1. The percentage of deaths from contagious diseases in St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth was: Allopathic, 32.74; homeopathic, 25.39. Dr. Strickler presented detailed tables on these diseases and added: "They show that in the three cities, from the same amount of work reported, the allopaths lost 62 per cent more cases of acute bowel disease than did the homeopaths, or at the rate of 162 cases to our 100; that they lost 70 per cent more cases of acute respiratory diseases, or at the rate of 170 to our 100; that they lost 45 per cent more cases of all diseases than we, or at the rate of 145 to our 100; that they lost 62 per cent more cases of scarlet fever than we, or at the rate of 162 cases to our 100; that they lost 25 per cent more cases of diphtheria and croup than we, or at the rate of 135 cases to our 100.

"They also show that, at the same rate, the homeopaths could have saved 1547 cases out of 4754 cases that died under the old school treatment in the three cities. The result is practically the same whether we save the single case of diphtheria, or the number of physicians in each school is used as the basis of calculation. You will also notice that not only is the grand total greatly in our favor, but every item in comparison is in our favor. Diphtheria in Duluth, is decidedly in our favor. These are facts. We fail in our duty to ourselves and to the public if we do not make them known. Dr. Wood and others may as well save the time and space as a condition and not a theory that confronts them."

"We are informed that the American homeopath does not practice homeopathy, that he uses the name as a trade mark to deceive the public. Dr. Wood does not very clearly define homeopathy. It may be that others are more of what homeopaths are practicing than he is. But he is that as it may, how are we to account for the fact that those who claim to be homeopaths meet with so much better success than those who do not claim to be homeopaths? Can the extension of the so-called homeopaths apply the old school remedies so much more scientifically than do the self-styled regulars? Or, we are asked, do we believe that the name doctor have us mark is accountable for the difference in homeopathy. Hahnemannism was persecuted and driven from country to country by the simple use of the name. Dr. Wood tells us 'did much more harm than good.' With equal generosity Dr. Wood urges his medical brethren, who lose 147 cases to our 100, to wipe homeopathy from the face of the earth by simply announcing, once for all, that it has ceased to exist. This is indeed simple and will, no doubt, be about as effective in the destruction of homeopathy as was their announcement some time ago that they would not consult with homeopaths, which was made with the same object in view.

In opposition to Dr. Wood, I would say that in my opinion the homeopath profession not only has in its power, but owes it as a duty to itself and to the public to announce once for all that homeopathy has ceased to exist, and to support the announcement by facts. A comparative results of the treatment as indicated, that are so conclusive that those who run may read. This done, and little will it matter to us whether the American Medical association and other similar representative bodies vote to consult or refuse to consult with homeopaths.

THIS MORNING'S SESSION.

The State Medical Law and Board Are Discussed.

This morning's session was principally taken up by the reading of the report of the bureau on medical jurisprudence. A general discussion of the subject including the present state law, and board of examiners followed. No resolution or expression of opinion was adopted, but it was generally agreed that the present medical law is detrimental to the interests of homeopathy, and that a great possibility of injustice to homeopathic applicants exists by reason of a minority representation on the board. A popular opinion was that there should be no examining board, but a licensing board instead.

The committee on revision of the constitution submitted a report, and subsequently a motion was made to adopt as a rule of the institute the code of ethics governing the American institute. A debate ensued over the power of the institute to change the by-laws at this meeting, which continued to the noon hour and will be resumed again before the close of the session. A number of committee reports were received this morning under the head of miscellaneous business.

The reports of the bureaus of "material medica" and "clinical medicine," which were heard this morning, were postponed.

ANOTHER DULL MARKKT.

Business Slow on the Duluth Board and Prices Weaker.

The market opened weaker this morning, and owing to very slight demand did not strengthen materially, although weather reports from all over the Northwest were of a very bullish nature. The market ruled extremely dull in the forenoon, there being no demand for scarcely anything except track wheat for milling purposes at unchanged prices from yesterday. Prices were very steady up to the close, which was a trifle weaker on two grades of cash wheat and on the July future. Some large lots of July and cash No. 2 northern changed hands just before the close. Following were the closing prices:

No. 1 hard cash 83½, May 83½, June 84½, July 85. No. 2 northern cash 81½, May 81½, June 81½, July 82½. No. 2 northern cash 75, No. 3, 71. Rejected 62. On track—No. 1 hard 84, No. 1 northern 82½.

The Fittest Survive Always!

AMERICAN STORE.

Mrs. Frank Leslie

In discussing the Shopping Question draws the most correct, yet the most amusing picture of her shopping tour some two years ago as follows: I do most of my shopping at Arnold's, but recently, having a young cousin visiting me, I was for once induced to read one of those advertisements where it is claimed they almost give things away. My cousin became so enthusiastic over the fact that we were going to get so much for so little that we hastened to the shop without delay.

The advertisement was as follows:

(Not Sold But Given Away!

THE MOST MAMMOTH SALE OF

FINE EMBROIDERIES, BATISTS, LACES AND UNDERWEAR, EVER HEARD OF IN THE WORLD.

WE ARE THE ONLY BARGAIN GIVERS! WE ALONE HAVE THE GOODS!

Etc., Etc., (they said.)

Read! Read! Read! (they said.)

$4.00 Laces for.....20c

75c Embroideries.....21c

40c Batists.....35c

$1.00 Underwear.....25c

And many others.

Well we finally reached the store with our ideas on the topmost pinnacle. Went around to a back door, as I did not like to be seen going into the place, but there we were at last. We asked for the lace counter and breathlessly followed the man with a broken accent, anticipating that the moment was near when for a trifle we would gather up an extensive assortment of laces. We reached the counter. Alas! Our dream was over.

"Vel, look at the vidth," said the man.

"But where are your wonderful bargains?" said I.

"Does is a wonderful bargain," said the man.

AND SO ON! The lace was similar to that used in our stables for curtains. We retreated, succeeded in getting out, and have ceased wondering at the increase in crime.

Today such methods are practiced upon the Bowery only, and are becoming obnoxious in all localities East and West.

THE FIFTEENTH STAR.

The State of Kentucky is Preparing to Celebrate Her Centennial, Which Will Occur Next Month.

Some Interesting Stories About the Perils and the Triumphs of the Days of Daniel Boone.

The Celebration to be Managed by the Filson Club, and Will be an All-Day Meeting.

KENTUCKY, the fifteenth of the United States, was admitted to the Union in June, 1792, the fourth year of Washington's first administration. Vermont had come into the Union a year before and was the first state to be added to the original thirteen. Indeed, Vermont would have been one of the sovereign colonies during the Revolutionary war and the interim preceding the adoption of the constitution had it not been for the jealousy of New York on one side of the Great mountain settlements and New Hampshire on the other. As it was, she did her full share during the war for independence, and had she received the justice due to her Kentucky would have had the honor of being the first of the new states.

Indeed it might be said that she would have had this honor anyhow, regardless of Vermont, if justice had been done. She was entitled to admission three years before the beginning of her statehood, and the delay by congress caused many hardships on what was then the far western frontier, and there was danger, too, that these pioneer communities, sprung by their own people, might cast their fortunes with Spain. In 1786 the Virginia legislature had passed at the request of a Kentucky delegation a bill of separation, with the proviso that Kentucky should not be independent until she had been admitted into the Union by the federal congress. The six years of waiting were full of dangers. Virginia was far away, and a journey across the mountains was necessary before any arrangements could be made for the defense by constituted authorities of the western settlements against the Indians, who were constantly making little forays and from whom was momentarily expected a systematic attack in force.

Under these circumstances it was most desirable that Kentucky should be able to defend herself in some proper way. There was so much dissatisfaction born of this delay that it is not surprising that General Wilkinson, the man who later was mixed up in Aaron Burr's venture, should have almost persuaded the Kentuckians to become Spanish subjects. At that time Spain below the 31st degree of latitude controlled both banks of the Mississippi, and hence the navigation of the great river. The Kentuckians, for whom this was the only outlet to the sea, maintained that the river should be free to the Gulf of Mexico. That they should not have this right made them feel, in addition to the slowness of congress in admitting them to statehood, that the federal government had some grudge against them.

At that time congress sat in New York, which was a far cry from Kentucky. When John Jay, secretary of state, offered to suspend for twenty-five years the right of the free navigation of the Mississippi in consideration of certain other concessions to American commerce, and which in no way interested the people of the Ohio valley, General Wilkinson brought word from New York that this was the proposition of congress. In the inflated condition of public mind there were three propositions discussed with great excitement. One was to join the Union. All were in favor of this, but the northern states opposed this proposition. The second was to separate from Virginia and form an independent state. Those who despaired of securing admission to the Union and who did not like the idea of being subjects of the most catholic majesty favored this project. The third was to make a commercial treaty with Spain which virtually united Kentucky with Spain's possessions to the south. This was Wilkinson's project, and as he was a bold and able man he had a great following. These impatient people in Kentucky felt that it was a renewal of 1776 with the federal government in the place of the British crown.

Nothing came of these various entanglements and most of them exhausted themselves in talk, though Wilkinson did return from a visit to New Orleans, where he had made a trade treaty by which Kentucky commerce going down the river was very greatly favored. Finally, in February, 1791, congress passed a law admitting Kentucky to the Union from the 1st of June, 1792. At this time there were about 100,000 inhabitants, of whom probably 15,000 were negro slaves. Of the white people the very great majority were natives of Virginia. These settled in what is called the Blue Grass region, and in no new state has there ever been a more homogeneous population.

GENERAL JAMES WILKINSON. Professor Shaler, in speaking of the people who flocked from Virginia to the wilderness while the Old Dominion was engaged in a life and death struggle, says that there is no sterner spectacle in history than this. "We can only explain it by the intense land hunger that marks the Saxon people. The thirst for land, which we find so strongly developed in the Elizabethan English, seems to have been transmitted to Virginia in an intense form. Knowing that the free lands were to be won by giving life for them, the Virginia and North Carolina people were driven to desert their comfortable dwelling places in the colonies for the battle in the west. There is no other case where this land winning motive is so clearly seen as here. All our other western immigration has been fostered by the government. These people could look to no protection but what they gave themselves." This kind of life developed a certain sort of man, a kind that was never known before or since in such numbers in any one country. The men had a certain dauntlessness, a habit of asserting the independence of all control except that of the written law. In speech they were frequently rude and exaggerated, but they did have a profound respect for courts of justice. This may have been due to the fact that courts were only established in these settlements, and to the further fact that without law land titles have small value. These pioneers have transmitted some of their characteristics to their posterity perhaps, but it is likely that the reputation that Kentuckians enjoy at the present day for a general expansiveness is due more to tradition than to fact.

When the constitution was adopted the two most interesting features were those dealing with suffrage and slavery. The suffrage was given to all male citizens of proper age, and this probably was the first experiment of universal suffrage in any modern state. The article concerning slavery shows a decided prejudice against the commerce in slaves. These were not to be brought into the state, nor were to be imported since 1789. It also recommended the legislature to pass laws under the limitation that they should not become a charge on the county in which they resided. In choosing the first governor the people acted wisely in selecting General Isaac Shelby.

General Shelby, who was then forty-two, was a native of Maryland, but had been a distinguished soldier in the Revolutionary war, during which he was made commissary general of the Virginia troops by Governor Patrick Henry, and later a major by Governor Thomas Jefferson. He had suggested to General Horatio Gates the campaign which culminated in the victory of the Cowpens. And later he had been associated with John Sevier in his effort to make of east Tennessee the state of Franklin. After serving one term he retired to his farm, and only left there to assume command of the Kentucky troops during the war with Great Britain and her Indian allies in 1812.

The admission of Kentucky as a state a hundred years ago is to be celebrated in Louisville in June. The celebration is to be managed by the Filson club, which is interested in collecting and preserving everything pertaining to Kentucky history. This club is very happily named, as John Filson was the first person whose writings made Kentucky known to the outside world.

DANIEL BOONE. Filson visited Kentucky in 1780, and in 1784 published at Wilmington, Del., "Discovery, Settlement and Present State of Kentucke." This was reprinted in England in 1783, 1793 and 1797, and translated into French and printed in Paris in 1785. This book it was that laid the foundation for the world's reputation of Daniel Boone. Filson probably never guessed how enduringly he wrought, nor did he benefit in the least from another sagacious venture, as he was killed by the Indians in 1788. The other ventures alluded to was the half ownership of the site where Cincinnati now stands. The Filson club has made preparations for an all day meeting. In the morning the president of the club, Colonel Barrett, will deliver an historical oration, and Mr. Stanton, the Kentucky poet, will read a poem written for the occasion. In the afternoon there will be shorter addresses and in the evening there will be a band concert.

JNO. GILMER SPOON. The Negro in New England. A Pennsylvania statistician, who has been delving among the documents sent out by Mr. Robert P. Porter, chief of the census bureau, announces as one result of his investigation that the colored race does not increase rapidly in New England. Rhode Island, he says, is the only one of the New England states where the colored people were, in 1890, over 2 per cent. of the population. Even there the colored population has, according to the census, fallen off from 2.49 per cent. of the population in 1850 to 2.21 per cent. in 1890. In Connecticut, in the same period, the percentage declined from 2.07 to 1.72.

In Maine the colored population in 1890 was less than a quarter of 1 per cent., a decline for the decade, but a slight, scarcely perceptible gain as compared with 1850. The same is true of New Hampshire and Vermont, where colored people make up only 0.18 per cent. and 0.30 per cent. respectively of the population. In Massachusetts they were, in 1890, 1.05 per cent. of the population, against 0.91 in 1850. In Massachusetts, as in all other New England states, however, their percentage declined during the preceding decade. The census enumerators found 23,550 colored people in Massachusetts in 1890, 1,623 in Maine, 600 in New Hampshire, 1,004 in Vermont, 7,647 in Rhode Island and 12,820 in Connecticut.

Counting the Dust Motes.

An Englishman named John Aitken has discovered a method by which dust motes may be counted. He has detected 30,000 in one-thousandth of a cubic inch of the atmosphere of a closed room. In the outside air, in dry weather, the same measurement of air yielded 2,119, whereas after a heavy rainfall the number of such floating atoms was only 521. That this new mode of prying into atmospheric secrets will eventually yield important results must be obvious.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN DULUTH.

Where delivery is irregular, please make immediate complaint at this office.

Entered at the postoffice at Duluth, Minn., as second-class mail matter.

Communications of not over 300 words, if not subscribed, will be used entire. More lengthy articles will, if space demands, have the verbiage extracted. Communications not of general interest to the public will be charged for at regular rates. Personal communications, if used at all, will be charged for invariably.

THE SATURDAY HERALD.

As usual, the Saturday edition of The Herald will be the great newspaper of the week in Duluth. What its size will be cannot yet be stated. The demands of the merchants will settle that point,
and in this connection the attention of advertisers is called to the advisability of sending in their copy tomorrow in order that they may be assigned good positions and put in attractive style.
The advertiser who waits until the late
hours is always the loser by his delay.
All church notices and social paragraphs must reach this office by tomorrow evening, or they will not be published.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

The article in The Herald yesterday
on the stock exchange troubles, embodying, as it stated, "the views of iron men and those interested in companies which can be heard every day," has drawn a communication from one of the operators on the exchange, which is published in this edition. The communication resents the idea that any members of the exchange are capable "of any of the underhanded methods" which have been charged. Now The Herald believes that the great majority of the members of the exchange are reputable, honorable men who would not be guilty of anything savoring of "fake" trading, but there never was any association to which some people not so scrupulous in their ideas did not belong, and this is likely to be true of the stock exchange.

By the accidental omission
of a half a line in yesterday's article,
The Herald was placed in the position
of charging the members of the exchange with descending to "fake" trading in order to manipulate the closing prices each day for their own benefit. There was no desire to make such a specific charge,
the intention being to say that this charge
was freely made by men who are interested in the iron companies. The Herald is anxious to give both sides in this dispute a fair hearing, but heretofore it has been unable to do this as fully as it desired, because those who stand by the present mode of conducting the exchange and who believe that its existence is a benefit to the investing public have refused to express their opinions for publication. If they would give the public their views on the question and point out the weak points in their opponents' arguments, public sentiment
might change considerably.

The correspondent, whose communication is published today, charges the article in yesterday's Herald with
"ignorance and malicious untruthfulness," and yet what shall be said of his own communication? Take one statement which he makes. He says:
"When a broker wishes to buy stock
for himself or others he must bid for it and has a perfect right to bid whatever he chooses." The Herald will not retaliate by imputing this wonderful statement to malicious untruthfulness.
It is content to ascribe it to ignorance,
because if this correspondent had been acquainted with the rules of the exchange on which he is operating he would have known that,
according to section 2 of article 5, a broker has not a perfect right to bid whatever he chooses, but that his bidding is restricted, under penalty of expulsion for violation of the rule. Indeed, The Herald believes that much of the existing trouble is due to the members' ignorance of the rules and the possibility that they are not enforced with sufficient strictness. The decision of the exchange yesterday not to post any more bids or offers is open to considerable criticism,
but as this action will probably be considered further remarks may well be deferred. In the whole discussion of this question it is well to bear in mind a fact which is too generally overlooked,
that those who are seeking to withdraw the stock of certain companies from the board do not own a majority of the stock
in these companies—in fact their holdings in some of the companies are now
very small.

The Washington Post is urging with much fervor and earnestness that Col.
Elliott F. Shepard be minister to Russia as the successor to Charles Emory Smith, and among its arguments are the following: "His presence in Russia at this time would be an all-around blessing.
It would enable the starving peasantry to meet death with resignation; it would teach the czar that the nihilists do not monopolize all the terrors on earth, and it would at the same time show the nihillists that Siberia has its advantages, if only for a refuge." If Col. Shepard can accomplish these things, send him to Russia at once. And, by the way, is it not possible that he shall stay there during the remainder of his life?

THE DISASTROUS STORMS.

The stories of disaster by flood and storm which the dispatches have been telling during the past week will arouse sympathy everywhere for the districts
which suffered great and serious damage. The cloud-burst at Sioux City yesterday, which caused a terrible flood,
carrying widespread destruction, is a calamity of a character which happily seldom occurs. The suddenness of the disaster has resulted in the loss of many lives and the destruction of hundreds of homes, with the result that many people are now destitute and dependent upon the charity of the more fortunate.

There are reports of less serious floods
in the southern portion of this state, but the full particulars have not been received yet, and it is possible that, owing to the continuance of the heavy rainfall
last night, later reports may show that considerable damage has been done. A serious feature of the floods is the effect
they will have upon the crops this year.
In many sections of the West the farming lands have been completely submerged by several feet of water, and this will prevent the raising of any crops. The grain stacked in other portions of the Northwest has also been destroyed, and the indications point to the probability of a shortage instead of a surplus next fall.

The Herald is the largest paper in Duluth. It publishes the most local news and the most telegraphic news, and its literary features are not equalled by any other Duluth paper. Is it any wonder,
then, that its circulation is almost equal to the combined circulation of the morning papers?

Editor Dana is being hard worked
these days, cultivating the Hill boom,
concocting new epithets for Grover Cleveland and denouncing "extravagant" congressmen, not to mention
repeated expressions of well simulated disgust at Dr. Parkhurst's leap-frog stories.

Ward McAllister has a small grain of sense, it seems. He declares that no man ought to get married until he is able to support a wife, even if the lady has millions. But it is to be feared that the young men of his "400" will hardly
look at the question in the same light.

Dispatches from Washington state that Hill still feels confident of receiving the Democratic presidential nomination on June 21. Mr. Hill's confidence is likely to be rudely disturbed, but his sublime faith must command admiration.

The Chicago Kindergarten College has simplified Dante for the use of children, and the "Inferno" has been presented in words of two syllables. No doubt the object lessons are founded upon local scenes.

Rev. Dr. Buckley, editor of the New York Christian Advocate, asserts that a majority of the people of this country
still believe in witchcraft, and, strange as it may seem, he comes very near proving it.

There is nothing like going away from home for news. The Port Arthur Sentinel says that "Archbishop Ireland went to Rome a bishop and was advanced in dignity."

A Plattesville, Wis., man shot his 6-year-old daughter a few days ago, while "trying" a revolver. The law should deal with such cases of criminal carelessness.

Sam Small has joined the Farmers'
Alliance and proposes to run for congress. A seat in congress seems to be the great attraction for cranks of many types.

As the time for the national conventions draws nearer, the political rumors grow more numerous and more impossible.

Who says this is a backward season?
The sea serpent has been seen by yachtsmen on the New England coast.

The Chicago Mail anxiously inquires
what would become of the Chicago river
if it should be submerged in water?

Dyrenforth's rockets and bursting balloons will not be in demand in the Southwest this year.

The irrigation question in South Dakota seems to have been settled by Jupiter Pluvius.

THE EXCHANGE DEFENDED.

A Denial That Any Fictitious Bidding
Has Occurred.

To the Editor of The Herald:
I have always found you willing to allow both sides a hearing. Upon that supposition I address this letter to your paper. Upon the fifth page of your Wednesday's issue an article upon the Duluth stock exchange, that for ignorance and malicious untruthfulness I have never seen surpassed. First as to "fictitious bidding." When a broker wishes to buy stock either for himself or others he must bid for it, and has a perfect right to bid whatever he chooses. Your article states that "when Biwabik stock was selling above $30, trifling orders of $2 were made and posted on the blackboard." That statement is entirely incorrect. The first person to bid under $20 for Biwabik stock was Mr. Leonidas Merritt, and his bid was $1 per share,

which he insisted upon being placed upon the blackboard. From that price the stock was immediately bid up to $20
by other people. But for several days prior to the Biwabik exchange, there had been under $30 and I had some for sale
for which I should have been very glad to have heard a bid of $25. Bids for Cincinnati have gone on the blackboards
at $1, it was at that time as Mr. Merritt's bid of $1 for Biwabik and at the same time offers to sell at $6 were posted.

Every trade made is entitled to a quotation, no matter what amount of stock is involved. In stating that no transaction of less than 1000 shares is recorded upon the New York Stock exchange, your article only displays his ignorance. Every transaction is supposed to be recorded, if but one share, and the prices quoted. One thousand share trades are very scarce even on the New York exchange. On the Duluth board of trade every transaction, of whatever size, if known is quoted as you may easily ascertain by examining their daily sales book. When the quantity offered or bid for, for instance, delivery is not stated the acceptor may withdraw if the amount is under 5000 bushels, but that does not affect the fact that every known transaction of whatever size goes on the record.

There has been a good deal of whining, and your article is evidently an inspired whine, about the decline in stocks
and about a wonderful and mysterious combination among unknown people
to depress the price of iron stocks.
A bear raid can only be effectively made by various parties offering stocks which they have not got at prices below the ruling values. Now who are the people offering to sell these stocks? They are the men whose money paid to the incorporators for stocks high and low, and who have dug every pit
and uncovered every ton of ore in sight
on the Mesaba range. They are the men to whom the original incorporators have sold these stocks which cost from 2 to 8 cents at the time they were sold. Now these men find that the promised bulge
does not come and many of them, pressed for money, are offering their stocks for sale at whatever price they can get and the people who sold these stocks set up a howl and want the exchange closed, the only place where these lams can find a possible buyer. None of the original stocks show any disposition to buy back
the stocks even at the heavy decline. It seems to me that the people who have bought these stocks and paid their good money for them are entitled to at least as much sympathy as the people who pocketed the dollars. The statement that any quotation whatever or any false trade for the purpose of depressing the exchange or any other such thing, has been made on the stock exchange since its opening I wish to brand as a malicious falsehood, and I challenge The Herald or any member of the exchange or anybody else to furnish the proof. When that proof is furnished I will eat this and apologize. I have attended every session of the exchange since its opening and watched the trading closely, and know that no such thing of the kind has been done. And I also know that every member of the exchange would be glad to see every stock climb straight to 50. It would put wealth in all our pockets.

The members of this exchange are not as wealthy as those of many other stock and grain exchanges, but I take pride as a member in saying that I believe them to be as honorable a body of representative men as any other commercial body in the United States can boast of. They are incapable of any of the underhanded methods of which The Herald accuses them. FRANKLIN PAINE.

SICK HEADACHE YIELDS TO BEECHAM'S PILLS.

Biliousness, constipation, torpid liver
etc., cured by Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills, fifty doses twenty-five cents. Samples free at Max Wirth's.

They are Sharply Criticized for Flooding the Market.
To the Editor of The Herald:
If it were not so pitiful to see such lack of common sense it would be amusing to note the position taken by some of the mine owners regarding the stock exchange. One would think from their attitude that they owned the well as the mines. They lose sight of the fact that the exchange is merely an association of men nearly all of whom are owners of certain stocks, who have united in providing a place where they may meet and trade in their own property.

They have further adopted certain rules for their own protection (not for the protection of the companies) under which it is necessary for the companies to make a certain showing before their stocks can be handled on the exchange. That being done, the stocks are duly called, not for the benefit of the companies, but for the convenience of those members of the exchange who wish to buy or sell such stocks. The president and directors of a company in whose stock the exchange has decided to deal have no more right to demand that the stock of that company be not called than the holder of a single share or even a member of the company has. The law—no any member has a right to sell his own property or to buy in the open market.

It is certainly an original idea that a mining company or its officers, and heavy stockholders can sell its stock at a high figure and afterwards dictate to the purchaser that he can not go upon the exchange and sell it at its market value. In the present case it looks as though the mine owners thought they had raked in all the loose cash
in Duluth and were not willing to disgorge any of it even to buy back stock
at 50 or 75 per cent of what it cost parties who were let in on the "ground floor." Stocks were falling before the exchange was started. The exchange bolstered them up for awhile as shown by the fact that all along stock have been bought cheaper at private sale

than on the exchange.

The small dealers have "fought and bled" to hold up the market till they found it hopeless task. Their money was exhausted, while the mine owners
in their greed and ignorance of simplest
business principles, spouted stock with undiminished vigor. The small dealers
naturally realized the condition of affairs
and naturally began unloading. This is the "organized bear movement" that
we hear of. It is an effort
on the part of the small dealers to
small dealers to get out from under the
avalanche for which the mine owners
are responsible. The companies who complain the loudest have been bears
from the start and are bears still in refusing to buy back a few shares to sus-tain the market at a time when it could be done with a few paltry thousand of
the many hundred thousand dollars they
have taken in.

It is time people appreciated the facts
in the case—the public realized that the
exchange only reveals the actual conditions existing. People should not fear the light and should be suspicious
of those who prefer darkness. In the gloom that overhangs many of the small
operators there is a redeeming touch of
humor in watching the "wonderful financiers" who are trying to run some of the leading companies in their frantic efforts
to let go the electric machine which they themselves have started. Let them bait
the machine with a few gold dollars and
see how quickly the current will be grounded. OBSERVER.

in their greed and ignorance of simplest
business principles, spouted stock with undiminished vigor. The small dealers
naturally realized the condition of affairs
and naturally began unloading. This is
the "organized bear movement" that
we hear of. It is an effort
on the part of the small dealers to
small dealers to get out from under the
avalanche for which the mine owners
are responsible. The companies who
complain the loudest have been bears
from the start and are bears still in refusing to buy back a few shares to sus-tain the market at a time when it could
be done with a few paltry thousand of
the many hundred thousand dollars they
have taken in.

It is time people appreciated the facts
in the case—the public realized that the
exchange only reveals the actual conditions existing. People should not
fear the light and should be suspicious
of those who prefer darkness. In the
gloom that overhangs many of the small
operators there is a redeeming touch of
humor in watching the "wonderful financiers" who are trying to run some of the
leading companies in their frantic efforts
to let go the electric machine which they themselves have started. Let them bait
the machine with a few gold dollars and
see how quickly the current will be
grounded. OBSERVER.

READY FOR ADOPTION.

The Council Committee Reports the Duluth & Northeastern Railway and Terminal Company Ordinance.

The Tunnel Scheme Abandoned and a Bridge from Fifth Avenue West to be Built.

This Change Necessitates Granting the Company Rights Over Several More Streets.

There was no meeting of the council last evening owing to the absence of a quorum. Aldermen N. F. Hugo, Dingwall, Sorenson and Nelson being the only ones present. D. C. Cash was there waiting for the terminal ordinance to come up and as usual Manager Craig was on hand. An adjournment was taken until 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The Duluth & Northeastern Railway and Terminal company's ordinance was finally reported in an amended form late yesterday afternoon by the committee and was to have been presented last evening. It is so changed from the original as to be hardly recognizable. The terminal project has been abandoned, it having been found too expensive. An estimate was obtained by the company from an engineer and this gave the cost of construction at not less than $1,600,000. Neither the city nor the company would stand this expense and the company now proposes to build a bridge from Fifth Avenue west to Minnesota Point landing at about Astor street. This bridge is to have a double track for railways, a double roadway and walks for foot passengers and is to be built of such material as the municipal authorities and the government in the interest of navigation shall approve of. Although it is not specified in the ordinance, the bridge is to be a trestle with a steel draw with channels 200 feet on each side. The roadway and roadway divisions are to be properly separated under the draw by the board of public works. The company reserves the exclusive right to use the bridge for street railway privileges. The city is to keep the roadway and footwalks plank.

This change of the plans of the company compels them to come farther west and now ask more streets. The ordinance gives them the following: The easterly half of St. Louis avenue in Upper and Lower Duluth from Jefferson street to the ship canal; easterly half of Fifth Avenue west from the lower end on the bay front to the north side of the St. Paul & Duluth railway tracks; southerly 20 feet of Commerce street; throughout its entire length in Munger's subdivision; southerly 30 feet of Railroad street in Industrial and Transfer divisions; southerly 13 feet of South street in Endon division; Water street throughout its entire length in Endon division; Lake street in Endon division; Jefferson street in East Duluth; the southerly 30 feet of Railroad street in Bay Front and Second divisions; Railroad alley in Second division and Helm's addition from Fifteenth Avenue west to Twenty-sixth Avenue west; southerly 33 feet of Railroad street from Twenty-sixth Avenue west through Helm's addition; a strip not more than 100 feet in width across the bay near the line of the old dike from Spruce street on Rice's Point to Chamber's street on Minnesota point; one half of Spruce street, one half of First street and one half of Fifth street, all on Rice's Point.

The provision governing the operation of the road as a terminal company which provided for the collection of a 6 per cent interest charge on the cost of the facilities has been changed so that it is not in the original, but at one of the committee meetings was inserted. It is the same one that is found in the Red Lake Falls ordinance. This is now taken out and the following inserted:

The rates to be charged by said Duluth & Northeastern Railway and Terminal company for the use of its facilities shall be reasonable charges without any discrimination against any party, and that there should be no obstruction to the passage of the ordinance and to have at least one continuous line connecting the main land with tracks north of the ship canal with the unplatted portion of Minnesota Point by July 1, 1893.

Whether the bridge plan will be opposed by the vessel interests or not remains to be seen, but even if it is it will be difficult for them to make out a case. The opinion which the report of the committee contains on the question of bridging the canal will not hold in this case. This was that vessels are, when entering the harbor during storms, frequently in the greatest peril, and that there should be no obstruction to the passage of the ordinance. It was also said that the granting of the privilege of building the bridge would establish a precedent and that if it was done every harbor entrance along the lakes would probably be bridged. The vessel men, however, will probably be on hand with objections. One of the prominent ones recently said in speaking of the outcome of the bridge question that any attempts to build bridges in the harbors at the head of the lakes would be bitterly opposed and that there are already too many.

Officers Elected. The Duluth Ore company elected the following officers yesterday: President J. R. Berringer; vice president, A. H. Stevens; secretary and treasurer, A. Crowell. This company controls forty acres of the Biwabik mine, the lease being given to J. R. Berringer. The work of stripping is to be commenced at once and it will be comparatively easy as there is only about six feet of surface.

The Minnesota State Institute of Homopathy concluded its session yesterday evening. The afternoon, after the election of officers, was taken up with discussions of the code of ethics and different questions of medicine. The physicians nearly all left for their homes last evening.

AMUSEMENTS.

Chicago L. J. Quartet. The Chicago L. J. quartet, which sings at the Lyceum tonight, appeared in Minneapolis Tuesday evening, and the Tribune says:

"It was a very pretty and commendable entertainment that the Chicago Ladies' quartet gave at the Lyceum last evening—an entertainment which was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience, which, though small in number, was intelligent and appreciative. The spectacle of four young ladies of graceful presence, attired in simple, dove-colored gowns, singing music which everyone could understand, was novel and refreshing in itself. There was something home-like and refining in it. Those present felt that they were not to be bored by vocal pyrotechnics. There was an informality and heartiness about everything they did which made the proverbial tediousness of concerts fade out of recollection. The pleasant monotony of the singing was relieved by Miss Mary Belmont Cope, an elocutionist of excellent mimetic ability. Miss Cope recited several clever pieces, mostly of a humorous nature, and aroused the audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm. Some of Miss Cope's best work encroaches on burlesque territory, but is irresistibly comic nevertheless."

"Ole Olson" Coming. Next Monday "Ole Olson" will be at the Lyceum. This was the first play ever put on which introduced the Swedish dialect and was the product of G. Heege's brain. He starred in it for several seasons. Later on "Von Yonsen" came out. "Ole Olson" has been thoroughly revised this year and is one of the most taking comedies now before the public.

ANOTHER GOOD DAY.

The Municipal Court is Doing a Land Office Business.

It was a very heterogeneous sort of a crowd that loomed up before Judge Powell this morning. There were only six of them but they were dandies, with the exception of William Burch, who was summarily dismissed from custody on the charge of being drunk. The gentle William's face bore a sort of I-told-you-so expression as he ambled out of the court. John Hunter and David Duggan were plain drunks who got the usual $10 or ten days. Mr. and Mrs. George Broker had a little family pleasuring down at their Lake Avenue bungalow last night and the neighbors were cognizant of the fact and a cruel crier ran them in and booked them as drunks. Mr. Broker said the officer was correct and he was fitted out with the usual $12 or ten. Mrs. Broker thought she was not drunk and could prove it, so the court will examine into her case this afternoon. Emma Brant, a very pretty, charming young woman, was brought up on a charge of residing in a house of ill fame. She said "guilty" and the police matron paid her fine, which was $12. She bowed to the court as she withdrew.

The chief attraction was the examination of the three alleged burglars of Meining's store before Judge Winje. Thomas Simmons and John Brown were discharged, there being no evidence to hold them, but a number of witnesses testified to seeing the articles or some of them in Mike Hanley's possession and he was held without bail to answer the charge. He told the court a rather pathetic story of being struck out in Dakota but it wouldn't work. The county attorney did some good work in cornering the man in his story.

SHOOT ANOTHER HORSE.

A Bluff Don't Go With Humane Henry Haskins.

Henry Haskins must pay $25 for Ernest Richter's horse, which he shot a few months ago in his capacity as humane agent, says the jury, but Henry declares that the case will be appealed. This was tried a short time ago and the jury then disagreed. The plaintiff claimed to have paid $100 for the horse but the humane society insisted that he paid but $5 in cash and to this the plaintiff answered that he had furnished an equivalent for $95 in addition. Considerable time was occupied by the dispute in trying to find out what that equivalent was. Several witnesses swore that the value of the horse was $150 or more. In spite of verdicts, however, Henry insists that the work of the society should not be stopped and last night after the verdict he proved that "a bluff don't go" by hunting up another horse and killing him. This was a decrepit old beast, said to be the property of Fred Engels, and has been wandering around the streets.

Marine Notes.

The tug Joe Dudley is in commission again.

The work of raising the Winslow will commence next week.

The lumber fleet will get away as soon as the wind dies down.

Rain and wind together are hastening the end of the ice outside the piers.

The burned portions of Northwestern dock No. 2 have been thoroughly repaired.

There are now six regular passenger lines of steamers running into Duluth.

A number of irregular tramp passenger boats also visit here, but they are principally Canuckers.

There seems to be considerable uncertainty as to what the Cambria was before her name was changed.

The contestants are about equally divided in their opinion that it was the old river tug Champion or the equally well known Frances S. Smith.

Francis S. Smith, Capt. Wm. McGilvray claims positively that it was the Champion and that he sailed on the vessel two years, while Capt. Hank Jones says it was the Frances S. Smith, and that he "wheeled" her for five seasons.

A CLOSER CONNECTION.

This Was the Keynote of the Discussion at G. G. Hartley's Banquet Last Evening.

Better Communication Between Duluth and Superior, Especially in Street Car Lines, is Advocated.

Thomas Lowry, Mayor d'Autremont, President Nowell, of Superior, and Others Give Their Views.

G. G. Hartley gave a dinner party last evening at his residence and a company of prominent citizens and city officials was present. The guest of the evening was Thomas Lowry, the street car magnate of St. Paul and Minneapolis, who is also a director in the Duluth Street Railway company. The dinner was served in the large dining-room of the Hartley residence, and was an elaborate affair. The table was laid in the form of a cross and was beautifully decorated. After the banquet cigars were passed, and the length and banded with flowers, gave a charming effect. The menu was quite elaborate and was served by the Spalding.

Mr. Lowry sat at the head of the table and on either side were Bishop McGolrick, Judge Stearns, Mayor d'Autremont, Mayor Sargent, of Lakeside; L. Mendenhall and A. W. Macfarlane. At the foot of the table Mr. Hartley sat. The other guests were: Col. Goodrich, vice president of the Minneapolis street railway; S. F. Nowell, president of the street railway company at Superior; F. S. Wardwell, manager of the Duluth street railway; W. W. Billson, Engineer Keating, Alderman Long, Alderman Thomas, J. A. Willard, Col. Jones, W. C. Farrington, H. A. Ware, T. W. Hoopes, B. Silberman, George C. Howe, J. D. Stryker, E. P. Emerson, F. F. McIver, W. B. Dixon, Edward Hazen, T. J. Chipman, M. A. Hays, W. B. Dickson.

After the banquet cigars were passed and Mr. Hartley, in a neat speech, called for opinions on the question of connecting Duluth and Superior by street car lines, the line to run down Garfield Avenue and across the bay to Connor's Point. He said that it was the desire of citizens in both places, and especially of the street car companies for better communication. For the present it would probably be necessary to use ferries between the two points.

Mr. Lowry spoke first and told how the cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis had been connected by street car lines, and how the bay would carry them once took all the traffic. The citizens of the two cities at the head of the lakes, he said, ought to aid the street car companies in completing such an arrangement. A bridge between the two cities, he declared, would do more than anything else to build them up. He was surprised that an attempt had been made before to connect the two cities.

Mayor d'Autremont expressed the belief that every alderman and city official was working for the good of the city and others spoke on the advisability of establishing communication. President Nowell, of Superior, said it was the desire of his company to meet the company on this side of the bay and hoped the day would come when they should be able to.

The party broke up at rather an early hour, Messrs. Lowry, Goodrich and Nowell desiring to catch trains. During the afternoon Messrs. Lowry and Goodrich were driven around the city and went up the incline.

May be Phelps.

A. S. Tallmadge, secretary of the St. Paul chamber of commerce, who was in Duluth a few days ago, has resigned.

Considerable speculation exists as to who will be his successor. The man most favorably spoken of is Professor Phelps, the late secretary of the Duluth Industrial union. Mr. Phelps is specially fitted for the position, having occupied the place prior to the appointment of Mr. Tallmadge. He was subsequently the secretary of the Duluth chamber of commerce.

What the Assays Show.

James Billings, manager of the Chicago Iron company, has just received from its superintendent, Capt. C. R. Huffman, samples from their new pit in ore on the west end now some 16 feet deep, which have been assayed by Mr. Crowl with the following results:

Iron	67.23
Silica	3.83
Phosphorus	.083
which is making the stockholders feel jubilant, and from one of the pits on the east end one mile from above the assay of samples give the following result:
Iron	65.77
Silica	3.81
Phosphorus	.073

WEST DULUTH.

West Duluth office of The Herald, room 4, Silvery building, where announcements etc., may be left.

The Marinette works were obliged to shut down this morning on account of the flywheel pit filling with water. At the sawmills work is suspended and everything is quiet. The block paving on Eighth Avenue west and on Central and Grand avenues has been washed out in several places, and the south approach to the Central Avenue bridge is in very bad condition. The damage done at this place by last night's rain will reach many thousands of dollars, and street contractors are very much disheartened by the gloomy outlook.

F. C. Dennett leaves today for a business trip through the Dakotas.

The W. C. T. U. held a meeting this afternoon at the Congregational church and discussed the "Home Training of Young Girls."

The heavy rains last evening flooded the basement of the Silvery block and "drowned" the Weekly Sun out of its new quarters.

IS NOTED FOR BRAVERY

The Brave Sixty-Ninth Regiment, Which was the Crack Irish Brigade of the American Armies.

It Now Stands at the Head of the Roll of Honor Among the New York Troops.

Doughybrook Days at Malvern Hill, Antietam, Fredericksburg and Gettysburg Recalled by an Admirer.

AD all the volunteer regiments of the civil war which were distinguished in the recruiting camps as "crack" organizations maintained their laurels by entering the fight, the cruel conflict must have ended long before it did. Short lack of enemies to overcome would have spoiled the occupation of those doughty fellows who were expected to hew a way through living breastworks straight from the Potomac and the Big Sandy to the Gulf. But it is the fortune of war that all cannot be great. To the majority the bubble reputation breaks and is gone before eager hands can toss it in the air to be seen of all men. Those who built great hopes on the Sixty-ninth New York volunteers, however, never had cause to regret their enthusiasm.

The Sixty-ninth volunteers sprang from that old Sixty-ninth militia, which fell into disgrace for refusing to parade at the Prince of Wales' reception in 1838. Irish to the backbone in their hatred of England, but not less so in their love for their adopted country, when Lincoln called for militia troops in April, 1861, they asked to be purged of contempt for insubordination in order that they might march to the defense of Washington. On April 20 the charges against them, Michael Corcoran, were dismissed, and three days later the regiment with overflowing ranks started for the capital. The order for transportation called for 1,000 men, but over 1,800 were borne on the rolls, and the display they made marching down Broadway was unique even for those days. The city was carried away with excitement, and their line of march was almost carpeted with bouquets flung at them from windows, balconies, pavements and even housetops. The column was headed by a banner drawn by four horses, bearing the motto, "Sixty-ninth! Remember Fontenoy!"

Soon after the regiment reached Virginia it was joined by a company of boy Zouaves, known as the "Meadow Guard," and led by the famous Irish patriot, Thomas Francis Meagher. The Sixty-ninth made a spirited charge at Bull Run—the men impetuously stripping off their knapsacks in order to have free swing, and came out minus the colonel captured, the lieutenant colonel killed, and a loss altogether of 102. The killed outright were 38, the second highest in the battle. Capt. Meagher, the regiment, home, and was the hero of the hour. His Zouave company, in bright red uniform, had been conspicuous at Bull Run, and one of his men, John D. Keefe, had brought off the green flag after the first bearer had been shot down. Keefe was himself wounded while defending the banner. After his musket had been torn from his hands he shot down two assailants with a revolver and made another one prisoner.

After Bull Run the floodgates of eulogy and adulation were again opened, and the new Sixty-ninth, formed from a nucleus of the militia regiment, took the field handicapped with a reputation that only the fiercest heat of battle could bring to a proper temper. It was the current notion that that three commands had done the execution at Bull Run—the Black Horse cavalry and the Louisiana Tigers on the southern side and the Irish Sixty-ninth on the northern. Meagher became colonel of the regiment, and in accepting its services for three years the war department suggested the formation of a brigade composed entirely of Irishmen. The idea spread like wildfire, recruiting began in New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and the west, and in a few weeks the Sixty-ninth volun-

HE SHOT DOWN TWO ASSAILANTS. teers, 750 strong, marched down Broadway under a span new banner of green, bearing Erin's well known symbols—the harp, the sunburst and the shamrock.

The vanguard of numberless battalions of Irish heroes, the new regiment was destined not only to lead that fighting race in the contest for glory upon American battlefields, but to stand number one among 300 regiments sent out by the Empire State when the roll of honor should be made up from an actual count of the killed in battle. Needless to say that a hot place would be reserved for the alien band with the challenging battle cry, "Remember Fontenoy!"

The Sixty-ninth was soon followed by the Sixty-third and the Eighty-eighth New York, the three constituting the Irish brigade with Meagher as brigadier general. After a few trifling encounters, southern heads and Irish sticks came to a dead issue at Malvern Hill, on the Peninsula, July 1, 1862. The brigade was in Richardson's division of Sumner's Second corps. On Malvern Heights Meagher was sent in as support to Butterfield's division of the Fifth corps, which was getting the worst of it in a fight with some of Lee's crack brigades under Gens. Artimwood, Garnett and Wright.

The Sixty-ninth led the column and relieved the Ninth Massachusetts volunteers, that had been cut to pieces and was passing a sickening procession of its dead and mangled to the rear. The Irishmen took their stand coolly and fired with such rapidity that their guns became overheated and they soon had to retire. The Eighty-eighth repeated the maneuver and the Sixty-ninth again moved to the front and was at last relieved for want of ammunition. Two color bearers had fallen, and 17 men killed outright, 110 wounded and 28 missing—155 in all—was the dole exacted for rallying around the sunburst on Malvern Heights in one brief twilight hour.

The regiment had done other work on the Peninsula and at the close of the campaign in August numbered 600 rank and file. It went to the field of Antietam with a fighting strength of 317. Still in Richardson's division it was in the reserve line until the battle waxed warm, and then led the brigade in the attack on the famous Sunken Road, near Dunker church. Meagher was at the head of the Sixty-ninth with its commander, Lieut. Col. James Kelley. The men advanced bravely under a sharp artillery fire to a crest overlooking the Sunken Road, and at that point the formation of the ground broke up the division line, leaving the Irish brigade alone on the hill. It couldn't advance with one flank exposed, it wouldn't retreat; so it planted its line with a dogged air and began to fight. The Sunken Road and a sloping hillside beyond it were alive with Confederates, who found targets to their liking in the stubborn Irishmen perched on the brow of the adjacent knoll without a square inch of shelter. The color bearer of the Sixty-ninth advanced several paces and waved the green flag defiantly at the enemy, an act which drew a fire that completely riddled the banner. One after another the men who held the staff were shot, until eight were down. Capt. James McGee then seized the flag and as he raised it the staff was cut in two by a ball.

The contest was so desperate that muskets became foul and ammunition gave out, but the gallant fellows held on, using the weapons of the dead, of whom there were plenty, until relieved by a fresh brigade, and there on a few square rods of earth the banner regiment of the brigade and of the state of New York scored a record of 71 killed and 125 wounded. That means 196 victims among 317 combatants, and every veteran knows how deadly the fire must be where the proportion of killed to the wounded is greater than one to two. Among the officers the mortality was even higher. Five were killed and four wounded. Col. Kelley was hit twice. True the Sixty-ninth didn't win the battle of Antietam, but suppose it had flinched before that biting hail and carried back the brigade line with it and with that the supporting divisions? What then? Possibly the emancipation proclamation would never have been issued. Such incidents may decide great battles and turn the scale of war.

Just three months after Antietam the Irish brigade was again called into the breach to try where others had failed. A new leader had come to the division—Hancock the Superb—as successor to Richardson, who fell at Antietam. In front of Mary's Height, on the morning of Dec. 13, 1862, the command formed in line to support the battalions of Gen. French in assaulting the stone wall. Shortly before the battle the old green flags of the Irish regiments had been sent home and replaced with new colors, presented by admirers in New York. The ranks were so thin that Gen. Meagher decided not to risk the new banners in the Fredericksburg fight, and when the men paraded on the flats along the river and formed for the charge he rode up to the Sixty-ninth, which was in front as usual, and taking a bunch of green from a hedge close at hand placed it in his cap, with a signal to the men to do the same. In short order the hedge was stripped and every man had a waving tuft of green for his little plume. The general spoke a few words to the Sixty-ninth and then rode out beside its colonel, Robert Nugent, leading it by column to the point of assault.

Shot and shell swept the ground, a deep mill race and two fences obstructed the march, and the Sixty-ninth was obliged to halt under fire to allow the rear of the line to close up. At the base of the hill the brigade formed in two columns, the Sixty-ninth in front, on the right. Forward the doomed ranks marched against the deadly stone wall, over the dead and wounded of French's shattered brigades, up to the third fence, which had not yet been passed by any boy in blue. Halting there, the men knelt or lay down and fired at the enemy above. A supporting brigade soon reached the spot, and then the survivors of French's battalions and the few Irishmen yet unhurt arose and joined the charging ranks. The last fence was passed, and a handful rushed for the stone wall to die nearest the works, the only thing left to do. The Sixty-ninth was literally wiped out. About 40 men who had been in skirmish line were all that remained for duty. The roll call that morning showed 16 officers and 210 men present, and the casualties were 16 officers and 103 men killed and wounded. The mortality in the ranks was again enormous, the dead numbering 33 and 70 wounded. The bearer of the United States colors was found on the field with the flag wrapped around his chest, his arms folded across it, and a bullet hole through the flag and through his heart as well. Among the wounded officers were Col. Nugent and the major, and two captains that had succeeded them in command.

For some reason the Irish brigade was not allowed to recruit its ranks, and after Fredericksburg the Sixty-ninth was consolidated into two companies. At Gettysburg it responded to Hancock's call and charged across the Wheat Field, losing 19 killed and wounded and 6 missing, out of 60 engaged. After Gettysburg the survivors re-enlisted, the brigade was kept up and the regiment fought under Hancock in the Wilderness and Petersburg. In its last hard fight, March 25, 1865, its killed numbered 26, with only 32 wounded. In its whole career, not including Bull Run, the casualties scored 1,177, of which 874 were killed and wounded. The total deaths on the field were 361. The regiment carried 1,013 men on its rolls. The percentage of killed was a trifle over 17, the highest among all the New York regiments and the fifth from the top in all the Union army. A few more such and England could well have paid us to keep the war a-going. Her old hereditary foe would soon have been "Wearing o' the Green" out of harm's way, that is wearing it over their graves. GEORGE L. KILMER.

THE COMPANY OBJECTS.

Opposition to 'Building the Piedmont

Avenue Street Car Line.

The Duluth Street Railway company

does not approve of the ordinance

passed last Monday by the council

ordering the extension of its tracks

along Piedmont avenue west from Superior to Thirteenth streets. The objection made is that there are two grades on the street

which are heavier than they can operate successfully on in winter. One is between Fourth and Fifth streets and the other between Sixth and Seventh. There is an 11 per cent grade at these points

and although companies frequently

operate on 13 and 14 grades, the company here claims that the climatic conditions are more unfavorable and that even 11 per cent is too much. This,

however, is not the heaviest grade in the city. The street car line at present is operated in one place on a grade of 14

per cent. This is on East Second street between Third and Fifth avenues. The objection would seem to be that the company does not want to build the line.

Judgment Entered.

Judgment was entered today in favor of Peter Bohan against the St. Paul &

Duluth railway for $11,472. This was an action for damages. A note issue in

William Campbell vs. the Duluth, South

Shore & Atlantic railway has been filed.

Will Dredge a Ditch.

The telegraph and telephone companies are contemplating a new scheme

in connection with the cable which is stretched across the bay between Duluth and Superior. The plan is to dredge a ditch across the bay and place the cables

in it. This will prevent the cables from being so frequently dragged up by boat anchors. Superintendent Palmer, of the Telephone company, is working up the plan and the telegraph companies look with favor upon it.

FELL ON THE STEAMER.

For the Second Time This Year the Gallery Between Elevators B and D Blows Down.

The Wreck Falls Across the Steamer D. W.
Rust, but Does Not Seriously Injure It.

Trains are Delayed by the Storm and Freight and Passenger Traffic is Partially Suspended.

About 10 o'clock this morning the fierce wind, which has raged all day,
tackled and overcame the new conveyer trestle between elevators B and D and it toppled over with a loud crash. The greater portion of the upper and heavier part of structure fell on the boiler house
and after house the propeller D. W.
Rust, which was lying alongside the face of the dock waiting her turn to go under the spouts at "B." The boat's smoke stack is a total wreck, also a good lot of the standing rigging of the boat. The roof of her house is cracked and broken and her rail is somewhat damaged. The full extent of the loss to the steamer cannot be ascertained until the underwriters make a survey. The boat will suffer very little delay. The elevator conveyer, however, was one but newly erected in place of the one blown down in the big March blizzard.

The culvert on Superior street near Ninth avenue is partially washed out and also a portion of the street. Some washouts on Fourth street are also reported. Chester creek is swollen and tearing along at a great rate and is evidently making an effort to emulate the great Missouri.

TRAINS BLOCKED.

Washouts and Landslides Affecting Railroad Traffic.
The railroads are suffering from the continued rain and wet weather in the vicinity of Duluth. The St. Paul & Duluth night express, due here at 6:30 a.
m., did not arrive until 12:25 p. m., six hours late. It was detained by washouts and landslides near Hinchley, Barnum and Mission Creek and had a hard time getting through to Duluth. The freights on the same line are abandoned or away behind time. On the Northern Pacific at or near Oak Lake cut there are a number of bad landslides which are checking up the trains somewhat
and the evening passenger is losing time
and will be quite a little late in here.
The freights are all off their time and several runs have been abandoned. The other roads are more or less delayed
despite the assertions of employees that "everything is on time."

OVER A CENT ADVANCE.

The Heavy Rains Send Wheat on the Up Grade.

The wheat market was very dull but steady at the opening today owing to the unfavorable weather reports from the entire Northwest. Cables were weaker,
however, and had a depressing effect.
The demand abroad was poor, and there was little or no demand here from outside sources. July wheat eased off 1/2c from the opening before noon. Track wheat sold in the forenoon at an advance of 1/4c over yesterday's close. The market was very dull to the close which was easy with sellers almost everything at 1 1/4c over yesterday's close. Following were the closing prices: No. 1
